Detroit Police Help Solve Great Toronto Robbery

With Four Men and Three Women Suspects in Custody in the Ontario Capital, Michigan City Police Find Seventy-five Five-dollar Bills Recently Taken by Thugs From Mail Car in Toronto and Search for Suspected Former Barber Shop Employee

Detroit, July 11—Detroit police revealed to-day that they are assisting Toronto detectives in searching for a man formerly employed in a barber shop here in connection with the recent $124,000 mail car robbery at the Union Station in Toronto. They also disclosed that seventy-five Canadian five-dollar bills, believed to be part of the loot, had been recovered here.

Four men suspects and three women are in custody in Toronto in connection with the robbery, according to the Detroit police, who also said they had information that approximately $40,000 of the loot had been recovered.

Toronto detectives investigating the robbery here are said to have told Detroit officers that two Detroit men took part in the robbery. One of these according to police information obtained only one thousand dollars of the loot. Police said they found the Canadian money here in a brick wall of the basement of the shop in which the other Detroit member of the gang had been employed.

HELD IN TORONTO

Toronto, July 11—It is understood four men and three women have been held here by the Toronto police for some time in connection with the $124,000 Toronto mail robbery, committed in the early morning of June 20 last.

Six armed bandits pulled up beside a car in the Union station and at the point of pistols robbed the Canadian National Railway Montreal-Chicago train mail car of bout $124,000.

KING'S PRIZE IS CONTESTED

Dozen Canadians Qualify For Second Stage of Bisley Rifle Match

Bisley, July 11—Canadians shot excellently in the first stage of the King's Prize competition at the Empire rifle meet here to-day and although much tabulation was necessary before it was determined which marksmen would enter the second stage, it was considered probable upwards of a dozen Canadians had qualified.

On account of the large number of marksmen, more than 2,000, the first stage was not completed until this evening.

When two of the three distances had been shot, Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa, winner of the King's Prize in 1924, was leading the Canadians with the fine total of 68 out of a possible 70 for the two ranges. He shot the highest possible mark, 35, at the 500-yard distance, but was two short at the 600-yard mark.

The 200-yard range remained to be completed.

Seven shots were fired at each of the three ranges and the 300 best shots will enter the second stage.

500-YARD SCORES

The Canadian scores at the 500-yard distance were: Lieut. Burke, Ottawa, 35; Lieut. Burton and Sgt. White, 34; Sgt. Hawkins, Sgt. Foame and Lieut.-Col. Letson, 33; Private Davies, Sgt. Kiddie, Sgt. Stevenson, Sgt. Regan, Lieut. Bishop, Sgt. Dawson and Sgt. Livingston, 32; Sgt. Reid, Lieut. McGregor and Sgt. McLennan, 31; Major Fred Richardson, Victoria, 29.

LINDBERGH'S PLANE BLAZES

Famous Pilot Escapes Injury as Mechanic Quenches Outbreak

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 11.—Col. Charles Lindbergh's aeroplane caught fire, supposedly from a flooded carburetor, at 11 a.m. to-day as he was about to take off. His mechanic seized a fire extinguisher and put out the flames. The extent of damage to the plane has not been determined.

Col. Lindbergh and Noonan, his mechanic, were in the aircraft with the former at the controls warming up the motor when the flames burst out. Noonan fell off the plane in his efforts to escape the sheet of fire. Col. Lindbergh was not injured.

The plane is a Curtiss Falcon biplane.

EXCISE INQUIRY MOVES SLOWLY

Commissioner Investigates Non-payment of Tax on Alcohol in Vancouver

Vancouver, July 11—Little progress was made this forenoon at the inquiry being conducted at the courthouse here by Gordon C. Lindsay as a royal commissioner into charges that the British Columbia Distillery Company Ltd., the British Columbia Vinegar Company Ltd., Joseph Kennedy Ltd. and Frederick Deeley, an excise officer, were guilty of a violation of the excise laws.

After G. A. Allen, collector of National Revenue for the port of Vancouver, explained generally the regulations pertaining to the removal of spirits from a distillery to a vinegar factory, the commission adjourned until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

The adjournment was requested by H. S. Tobin, counsel for the B.C. Distillery, by E. K. Debeck, for A. W. Scovil and by J. A. Grimmett, who appeared for Deeley.

They stated they desired an opportunity to discuss the matter with their witnesses.

PRAIRIE GROUP DENIES CHARGES

Ukrainians Say no Anti-Canadianism Among Them; Opposing Communists

Winnipeg, July 11. — Denials of charges contained in a Yorkton, Sask., dispatch regarding a parade held in that prairie city by the Ukranian Boy Scouts and the "Sitch," a sporting association, are contained in statements issued here by officials of the organization.

Radical elements opposed to the patriotic purposes of the organization are blamed for incidents which occurred at Yorkton during a convention of the "Sitch" association last weekend.

OPPOSE COMMUNISTS

"Our organization is in direct opposition to the communist and Bolshevik groups, and for that reason they have been trying to discredit the "Sitch," which has patriotic ideals, especially of the monarchistic type," declared W. Bossy, commander-in-chief of the "Sitch" association.

Commander Bossy, in an interview here, explained the organization operated under Federal charter, declaring the uniforms used in Yorkton bore no resemblance to German army uni-

BRITISH TRADE LEADERS ARE TO VISIT CANADA

London, July 11.—With the object of studying commercial undertakings and institutions in Canada and the United States, fifty representatives of the National Chamber of Trade and Commerce of Great Britain left Southampton on the liner Mount Royal for Montreal to-day. Six weeks will be spent making a tour of the two countries.

CRUISER DAUNTLESS IS REFLOATED FROM REEF AT HALIFAX

Halifax, N.S., July 11—The British light cruiser Dauntless, stranded at the mouth of Halifax harbor since the afternoon of July 2, was refloated at high tide this afternoon. A few minutes later the wrecking tug Reindeer of the Halifax Shipyards was slowly towing the cruiser toward the local drydock, where a berth had been prepared.

FIND THREE MISSING MEN IN REGION OF SPITZBERGEN

A message received in Moscow to-day said the Russian aviator Chukhnovsky (right), had sighted Dr. F. Malgrem and his two companions of the lost Polar dirigible Italia, missing near Foyn Island. On his flights Chukhnovsky has been accompanied by his fellow flier, Straube (left) the two having been sent north by the Soviet Government.

No Time for Change Now, With Prosperity Turning Strong, Candidates Assert

In order to give Premier MacLean as much time as possible, the other three Liberal candidates spoke only briefly at last night's Royal Victoria Theatre meeting.

B. C. Nicholas, who presided, said he saw in the large attendance a good omen for the Liberal candidates, and an indication of public interest in the election issues. He pointed out that the Liberal candidates and Liberals generally, were carrying on a fair campaign, without anything petty and without personalities.

"They are supporting a progressive policy and a leader whose career has passed the most rigorous tests of time," Mr. Nicholas said.

SUPPORTS GOVERNMENT FROM LABOR STANDPOINT

Aiderman Robert Dewar was the first speaker.

"I believe that the Liberal Government has rendered valuable service to the people of this Province since they took over the reins of Government in 1916, and are worthy of your support," Mr. Dewar said.

"As a labor man, I can say that the Liberal Government has placed on the statute books, labor and social legislation that is unequalled in any part of the Dominion of Canada, and Tom Moore has expressed that opinion in The Trades and Labor Journal.

"As a workingman, I cannot help support a government with that record."

Mr. Dewar recalled that when the Liberal Government took office there were deficits and the banks refused to honor even salady cheques until the new Government undertook to balance the budget.

"We are a growing Province and any growing business requires increased capital to carry on," Mr. Dewar went on.

TWO ATLANTIC VESSELS COLLIDE BUT NO DEATHS

Lisbon, July 11—The Royal Mail Line steamship Demerara, which was in a collision off Lisbon to-day, entered the harbor here late this afternoon.

NEWS BY RADIO

London, July 11—Advices to Lloyds state the captain of the Royal Mail Line steamship Demerara, bound from Liverpool for Buenos Ayres, reported the vessel had been in a collision in a heavy fog.

The message said:

"In collision in fog off Lisbon. Both ships safe. Extensive damage. Proceeding to Lisbon when fog lifts."

ALBERTA POLICE HUNTING MANIAC

No Solution Yet of Killing of Four Persons on Farm Near Manville

Edmonton, July 11.—Police are still without any clues which might lead to the solution of the tragedy at Mannville, Alberta, in which four persons on the Booher farm were shot and killed at 7.30 p.m. Monday.

Vernon Booher, twenty who found the bodies of his mother, Mrs. Henry Booher, his brothers and two hired men when he returned from a pasture at the sound of shooting, is being held as a material witness.

Although a .33 rile shell was found on the floor of the kitchen in which Fred Booher was shot, no gun has been found on the farm. The generally accepted theory of the murder is that the slaying was the work of a maniac. However, no stranger has been seen around the district.

The district is seething with excitement.

START STORAGE PLANT AUGUST

Special Machinery Will Be Purchased in Great Britain

Cost of Construction Placed at $580,000 City Is Informed

A start on the construction of the B.C. Terminal Warehouse Company's cold storage plant at Ogden Point will be made within the next three or four weeks, according to word received by the city to-day from officials of the company.

Mr. Swan, the engineer employed by the company to superintend the equipment, has left for England to complete the purchase of special machinery needed for the local plant. Other equipment needed will be purchased locally, and local labor will be used throughout in the construction, it is stated.

The plant is estimated to cost $580,000, and will be equipped with the latest modern machinery for the cold storage of fish and general produce, making use of a new process under which, it is claimed, food supplies can be kept for long periods during distribution by rail and water to distant points.

A long term lease of the necessary site between pierheads at Ogden Point was granted recently by the Federal authorities, on the recommendation of Hon. J. H. King.

AIRMAN FINDS THREE MEN OF ITALIA PARTY

Russian Aviator Sights Explorers Who Left Nobile Camp For Land

If Three Are Saved Men Missing in Spitzbergen Region Will Total Sixteen

London, July 11.—A Reuter dispatch from Moscow states the walking party of the lost North Pole dirigible Italia has been found.

A message was received in Moscow to-day stating the Russian flier Chukhnovsky, who has been making flights from the icebreaker Krassin, now near Foyn Island, made the discovery in the course of a series of flights.

The Russian airman found Dr. F. Malmgren and his two companions at 80.42 north lattitude and 25.45 east longitude, which is about twenty miles from the present position of the Karssin. This is west of Cape Platen, Northeast Land.

The pilot this afternoon was searching for a place to make a land near the party in order to pick them up. The airman reported that he circled over the men five times. Two of the party energetically waved to him. The third was lying down.

Dr. Malgrem and his companions, soon after the Italia, crashed on the ice, started out to walk across the ice in search of land, leaving six others of the party on the ice, where five of them still are, Gen. Nobile having been rescued.

DEATH REPORT DENIED

Oslo, Norway, July 11.—The Italian Legation here received a wireless message from the base hospital ship Citta di Milano, filed at King's Bay, Spitzbergen, at 2 o'clock this morning, denying reports of the death of Natale Cecioni, motor chief of the lost North Pole dirigible Italia, who is with four other men of the Nobile party on an ice floe near Foyn Island.

TWO MISSING AFTER WRECK

Men Thought Killed When Twenty-two Cars of Train Piled Up in Saskatchewan

Moose Jaw, Sask., July 11.—Twenty-two cars loaded with grain, lumber and coal are piled in a heap and between 150 and 200 feet of trackage on the C.P.R. is torn up about half a mile west of Carol Station as the result of an accident that occurred at 7.15 this morning. The freight was traveling east toward Moose Jaw when something from the fift hear struck the cars, tearing up ties and steel, and the cars piled up and spread across the right of way.

At the point where the accident occurred the road is double tracked and the box cars in their flight ripped up all the steel, including the main line of the C.P.R.

Of five men riding the cars, only three have been accounted for.

The train crew escaped unhurt.

GEN. L. BARRON LEAVES CANADA

Toronto, July 11.—Gen. Louis M. Barron, for some time Mexican consul-general in Canada, left Toronto yesterday to take up his new duties as the Mexican Government's representative at Rio de Janeiro.

Senor Barron, on his departure, expressed his admiration and goodwill for the Canadian people.

FRED W. DYKE DIED TO-DAY

Was Pioneer Musician of Vancouver; Leaves Brother Here

Vancouver, July 11.—One of Vancouver's pioneer musicians, Frederick William Dyke, sixty-three, supervisor of music in the Vancouver schools, died this morning, following an illness which had extended over a year. He had been associated with the musical life of this city since the year after the great fire.

The late Mr. Dyke spent his early youth in Plymouth, England, before migrating to Canada with his brother, George J. Dyke, who is now a resident of Victoria. After a brief period spent in farm life near Moosomin, Sask, he came to Vancouver in 1887.

P. G. E. Solution, With Development In Large Way, Forecast By Premier

Capital to Be Encouraged, Labor Protected and Resources Opened Up for Public Benefit, Government Leader Tells Audience of 2,000 Here in Outlining Policies of Administration for Future; Programme of Social Legislation Will Be Enlarged as Province Can Afford It, He Declares

Civil Servants Will Get Salary Increase Annually

Large Crowd Gives Liberal Chief Rousing Reception as He Defends Government's Record and Policies, Contrasting Them With Barren Appeal of Opposition Party; Liberal Success at Polls on July 18 Is Certain, He Says

When the Liberal Government is returned to power on July 18 it will continue to reduce taxation generally, to extend its programme of social legislation as the Treasury can afford the cost, to solve the Pacific Great Eastern Railway problem, to maintain provincial credit with balanced budgets, to protect labor, to encourage capital and to foster the wave of prosperity which already is sweeping over British Columbia.

These, in brief, were the policies outlined by Premier MacLean at the Royal Victoria Theatre last night, when he told Victoria electors definitely the plans of his Government for the future.

Nearly 2,000 people jammed every seat in the big auditorium and stood all evening in the aisles to hear the Premier's announcements. Long rounds of applause punctuated his address as he hammered his points home in a masterly summary of the campaign issues. In addition to the record audience which filled the theatre, thousands of radio listeners all over British Columbia heard what was regarded as the most important address delivered in the present political contest.

Summarized briefly, the Premier's plans for the future are:

Continued reductions in taxation generally as growing revenues makes them possible.

Solution of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway problem.

Encouragement of capital but vigorous protection of labor.

Expansion of the Province's already large system of social legislation as the Treasury can afford it.

Maintenance of provincial credit at its present unequalled peak through balanced budgets

Dugald Donaghy Tells Sidney Audience of Need of Faith and Enterprise

Government Has Worked Close to Climax in Settlement of P.G.E. Problem

Declaring that British Columbia's financial conditions were best of all the provinces of Canada, and making comparisons to prove his point, Hon. Dugald Donaghy, Minister of Finance, addressed a meeting at Sidney last night, supporting M. B. Jackson, K.C., candidate in the riding for the Islands.

Another strong plea to the electors was voiced by the speaker when he indicated what Premier MacLean had done in negotiating for the development of the P.G.E. Railway.

"The Government should have a chance to complete these negotiations," he stated, "for they would culminate in a greater prosperity for the Province and a settlement of the railroad problems of the Interior.

Women Protest Epithets Applied to Mrs. Smith

Esquimalt Gathering Denounces Tactics of Opposition Speakers Against Woman Candidate

"We as women hereby register our public protest against the kind of tactics Opposition speakers are using against the Liberal candidate for Esquimalt, Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith. Such derogatory remarks as have been used against the lady candidate are an insult to our womanhood. Mrs. Smith is a woman of the highest type, and she has yet to utter one personal criticism against her opponents."

Mrs. J. Pilgrim in these words took up the cudgels on behalf of Mrs. Smith at a garden party held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. G. Carver, Selkirk Avenue, when over 100 women were present. The protest was the outcome of slighting references made to the woman candidate by R. H. Pooley, who at a recent meeting made the caustic remark, "The old lady with the convenient memory," and by Capt. Thain who, at a Saanich meeting is alleged to have described Mrs. Smith as an "alley cat."

Prince Rupert, B.C., July 11.—Rysdale Ogilvie, forty-six, a native of Scotland, employed as a lineman for the Government telegraphs, was drowned in the Linkinsaw River, 250 miles north of Hazelton, it has been learned here. The body was found wedged against a log by searching linemen. He is believed to have left relatives in Western Canada. He had for many years been in the service of the Government telegraphs and was an experienced prospector. For a time he was fisheries warden at Babine.

EIGHTEEN ARE HURT IN CRASH

Two Seriously Injured When Big Bus Hits Garbage Truck in Seattle

Seattle, July 11.—Eighteen passengers were injured, two seriously, when a North Coast Transportation Company buse, en route from Portland, sideswiped a garbage truck here to-day.

Henry Derksen, Rosthorn, Sask., with a fracture of the skull, is in a critical condition, and Mrs. S. J. Wagner, New York City, is suffering with internal injuries and shock.

Charles Coriahan, driver of the bus, was ordered to police headquarters for questioning.

Louis Minaglia was the driver of the garbage truck.

Witnesses said the bus turned out when too close to the truck and the right side of the bus was ripped open, the passengers being spilled on the pavement.

FOUR INJURED NI AUTO CRASH

Vancouver, July 11.—Mrs. George Heaton, of Bellingham, suffered a fracture of the skull, it is feared, as the result of an automobile accident which took place at Tenth Avenue and Granville Street, Vancouver. The car in which Mrs. Heaton and three others were riding collided with a street car at that point.

Miss E. Dunham, of New Westminster, was treated at a hospital for a broken nose, while Mrs. Dunham and Miss E. Ecker were badly bruised and shocked.

MINE POSSIBILITIES

"We have to-day a great movement in mining. Mining made Quebec and Northern Ontario and is developing Manitoba. We are on the eve of the greatest era of mining development that British Columbia ever heard of," Mr. Donaghy went on.

"It should be the duty of the Government to spend the necessary money to develop our mining fields, coupled with a general scheme of advertising our natural resources and the possibilities of this Province to the world.

"The shingle industry is to-day producing $5,000,000 a year. I am in favor of assisting in a comprehensive way the red cedar shingle industry, which is being subjected to the competition of substitute materials.

"We have hope and faith in the P.G.E.," he went on, "to reach into the vast Peace River wheat belt and bring down to the Coast a golden flow of grain. The matter of solving that railroad problem and of continuing the road into that northwest wheat country, where it is destined to go, is ten times more important than the building of a concrete highway from Vancouver to Blaine.

STABLE FINANCES

"I am not alarmed about the financial conditions of B.C.," the Minister went on, "because the financial barons say there is nothing alarming in it when they lend us money more cheaply than to any other province from Ontario west. Not only am I not alarmed, but I hope to see further public expenditures made for the development, progress and advancement of this Province.

"I am in favor of backing the shingle industry with advertising and in every other way so that they may produce $25,000,000 and not merely $5,00,000 of that excellent roofing material.

"I am in favor of advertising our Province as a tourist centre, as California has been advertised, so that that great industry may bring us not $35,000,000 as last year, but $100,000,000.

UNSTINTED PRAISE

"I shall never believe unless I see it that labor in Vancouver will poll down the Prime Minister who has supported so many humanitarian and kindly laws for the toilers, the women and the children. In that attitude Dr. MacLean has my complete admiration, my unswerving loyalty and entire support."

Mr. Donaghy quoted from Hansard R. B. Bennett's demand that the P.G.E. negotiations with the C.N.R. be held up until the next meeting of parliament, and Hon. C. A. Dunning's declaration that negotiations will continue on the project, and that when the C.N.R. directors submit an agreement to the Government which is satisfactory the Government will indicate its willingness to submit it to parliament for ratification.

"When it gets that far you need not worry, for the Government will put through parliament what it recommends," declared Mr. Donaghy.

SUPPORTS JACKSON

Mr. Donaghy praised the Liberal candidate in the constituency when he said that M. B. Jackson, K.C., had long been a determined worker for the welfare of the Province, serving on the Game Board and introducing many schemes for the preservation of the wild life and keeping the out-of-doors the nearest thing to Paradise imaginable.

J. B. Clearihue also spoke in support of the candidate, and reviewed the beneficial legislation which the Liberal Government had passed under the late Premier Oliver and Premier MacLean.

Mr. Jackson, the candidate, took the platform himself but spoke only briefly.

Alexander McDonald was chairman and introduced the speakers.

MacLEAN PLANS TAX REDUCTIONS

Investigation into the whole question of dumping duties and, if it is found that producers here have suffered an injustice this year, efforts to protect them completely in the future.

Continuance of extensive road building through the use of the gasoline and motor license taxes.

Further reductions in the turnover tax as it affects small merchants, if it is found that this levy is working any hardship on them.

Development of water powers but strict protection of the public in the fixing of electrical rates.

Conservation of timber in reserves sufficient to insure a continued lumber supply for all time.

DEFENDS GOVERNMENT

With these announcements of future policy the Premier voiced a ringing defence of his Administration in the past, contrasting it with the barren programme of the Conservative Party and its failure to propose constructive plans for the advancement of the Province. Plain commonsense, he declared, should persuade the electors to keep in office a Government which had proved itself and brought the Province through its worst crisis into an era of unequalled prosperity. Undoubtedly, he said, the voters would endorse the Administration when they went to the polls.

Hon. Dugald Donaghy, Minister of Finance, had been billed to follow the Premier, but through a mistake he was taken to a meeting in Sidney and returned to the city too late to commence his address. He was given an enthusiastic welcome when introduced at the close of the meeting by B. C. Nicholas, who presided.

An attempt by an interrupter to create a disturbance on the stage of the theatre proved futile. This man, who has been observed in similar attempts at other Liberal meetings, rushed upon the stage brandishing a sheaf of notes, with the evident intention of making a speech. He was quietly removed by a policeman. Later the Premier answered questions submitted to him from the audience.

IN GOOD TRIM

Introducing Dr. MacLean, Mr. Nicholas noted that the Premier appeared in perfect physical trim after a strenuous tour and obviously was free of worry over the results of the election. He predicted that Dr. MacLean would remain Premier for the next four years at least.

The Premier remarked at the outset that the large audience was not a surprise as he had addressed big gatherings all over the Province, indicating a keen interest in public affairs.

The forces of progress were behind the Government, he said, first because of the character of its candidates.

"Without exception the men and women who have been nominated to support this Government, are men and women of the highest character," he said.

"Another reason people are interested is because we are carrying on a campaign on the highest plane, and I have not seen or heard that any candidate of ours has descended to the language of the alley.

"When the representatives of a party stoop to such depths as calling their opponents 'prevaricators' it does not add anything to our political knowledge, nor does it add anything to political life.

ABUSE NOT POLICY

"Abuse of your opponents is a poor substitute for a policy. Surely we want a discussion of our future not of the character of political opponents. This campaign of abuse by some Conservatives reminds one of a lawyer who, with a poor case, starts to call the opposing lawyer names."

The Premier said that he had been accused of political immorality in saying that he considered that he could deal with the P.G.E. question to greater advantage than his political opponents. "I have made that statement and I have made it because I believe it is true," the Premier went on.

"Why do I say I can deal with it better?

"What is the Conservative attitude?

"They have scoffed at the railway in season and out. They have been critical not helpful.

"And what about the statements of some of the men we are at present running in Victoria—namely that we should tear up the rails?

"How can a party that has that attitude towards the railway deal successfully with the disposal of the problems?

WORKED ON SOLUTION

"On going into office I conceived of the P.G.E. as our greatest problem. I set about trying to solve it. I realized it had not been a success but I conceived the idea that if we could get the Federal Government interested in having the C.N.R. take it over we could make the land grant already given the P.G.E. of use to all the people of Canada."

He said he took the P.G.E. matter up with the Dominion Government and painted a picture of what might be done with this and other railways of Canada in a way that fired the imaginations of the men at Ottawa.

PUBLICITY DANGEROUS

"I've been asked to describe the terms on which the P.G.E. would be sold. This is a big problem and you can't successfully negotiate it with the negotiations under the public spotlight. Is there anything secret or underhand about this? Why every detail of any bargain must be submitted to the House of Commons and the Provincial Legislature before it can be effective.

"If there is any objection to the proposed bargain the elected representatives of the people will have opportunity and power to act."

HAS NO EXPERIENCE

The Premier said that in referring to Dr. Tolmie as inexperienced, he pointed out that Dr. Tolmie in forming a government would not have one man experienced in public affairs.

"Dr. Tolmie will be with a new crew, if he is elected. The one experienced man he might have got is Mr. Bowser and he is not with the party now," he said.

He went on to quote Dr. Tolmie's election statements, among them that when "we have settled 160,000,000 empty acres then it will be time to plough our lake bottoms."

"Our information shows that there are only 25,000,000 acres of agricultural lands unalienated. How can Dr. Tolmie settle 160,000,000 acres unless he puts people on the peaks of the Rockies?" he asked.

"One of the characteristics of the manifesto Dr. Tolmie has issued is that it deals with many matters of Federal concern," the Premier went on. "I think it is unfair to discuss Federal issues in a campaign like this."

DUMPING DUTIES

He went on to say that the anti-dumping act on fruit coming into the Prairie Province was purely a Federal affair.

"You can elect forty-eight Conservatives to the local House and it would have no more influence on the anti-dumping act that if they were elected in the Republic of Mexico," he said.

"This being a Dominion matter, I think I can have as much influence in remedying that situation as any man in B.C.," he said.

He explained that tariff questions were of far-reaching importance and could not be settled without careful investigation. When dumping questions came up in Parliament recently there was no time to consider tariff changes before prorogation, he stated.

"I want to assure the people of this Province that if injustice has been done to our fruit-growers, I will use every effort to see that that injustice is remedied," the Premier went on.

MAKES NO PROMISES

"Our opponents are making promises of all kinds. So far as spending money is concerned I have my first promise to make," he said. "They are going to build a road from Prince Rupert to Alberta and across the Hope Mountains, which would cost $6,000,000. At the same time they say they will reduce taxation and abolish the succession duty tax.

"Surely it is a fair question to ask, how do our political opponents know they will be able to reduce taxation? It is a very simple matter to say that you are going to reduce taxation.

"To me the business of government is of extreme importance. I have had the experience with my associates of trying to resuscitate the credit of British Columbia, and to me it is a matter of the most serious importance to hear a man saying that he is going to reduce taxation when he does not know whether he can or not.

SOCIAL LEGISLATION

"They promise social legislation," he said. "Well, you know our record. We have the best social legislation in Canada, but we didn't give it until the people could afford it. That will be our policy in the future. We must have an all-round development, economic, educational, social. This business of going around and saying we must have more social legislation without regard to other factors is a reckless and dangerous policy."

DEBT INCREASES

Dealing with the debt question, the Premier said that he agreed that the debt of the Province had been increased because the Government had been asked to perform services that were unknown twenty-five years ago. The debt of Ontario had gone up in thirteen years from $13,000,000 to $338,000,000 because of the great programme of hydro-electric development which had been undertaken there.

Alberta also had increased its debt in thirteen years from $13,000,000 to $90,0000,000 because of railway and telephone development. In the same way British Columbia had increased its debt for roads, railway building, reclamation and settlement.

"We have also expended money in the erection of hospitals and other institutions, and the university," he said.

"But with all the borrowing we have done our credit is good and equal to that of any other province and the Dominion Government. The reason for this is that our development is entirely in agreement with the opinion of the leading financial authorities.

DEBT SMALL

"Secondly, in so far as our developed wealth is concerned we are rich indeed. Our debt is only three per cent of our tangible wealth already produced, whereas the other provinces range from three to nine per cent. We are able to carry that debt.

"For a new country it is essential that you should borrow money to develop it. The one way we can get the money for development is by borrowing money. And why should we not borrow money for this, as it is for the benefit of posterity largely.

"Posterity will benefit from our developments. Why shouldn't posterity pay some of the cost of them?"

CIVIL SERVICE JUSTICE

Turning to the Civil Service, the Premier said the Government had been accused of not dealing fairly with its employees.

"We have in senior position sixty-three men who were in office before we were," he said.

"So far as importing people to occupy positions in this Government, I can recall only two, the comptroller-general and the grazing commissioner.

"It has been suggested we haven't dealt fairly with some officials reaching superannuation age. Not one man entitled to superannuation has failed to secure it. You wouldn't keep a satisfied civil service if anything else were done."

As for the statutory increases to the civil service, the Premier recalled that industrial conditions were not good when the Government came into office. The opposition and country districts were criticising because the cost of Government was going up. But last year conditions began to improve and the statutory increases were restored to the civil service.

CONTINUE INCREASES

"It is our intention to continue the policy of statutory increases within the terms of the Civil Service Act," the Premier went on.

"We have been accused also of dismissing some employees without justification. My answer is that every minister is anxious to keep good officials, but when we find men who do not consider the interests of their employers there usefulness has closed. Those are the men who have been dismissed.

FEATURE PLANS

"What the electors are interested in is what the future has in store—what the ideals of the Government are," he said announcing his policies.

First, the Premier placed the need of keeping up credit by making expenditure and revenue balance. In the first few years of office this could not be done, but in the last year all expenditures, interest and sinking fund were paid out of income and there was a balance of $96,000 to the good.

Another reason why British Columbia's credit was good was because of its large sinking funds.

Secondly, the policy of the Government was to reduce taxation, he said, recalling the reductions already made, among them the cut in income taxation from year to year.

"How is it possible under a reduction in rates not to have a reduction in taxation," he asked, referring to the Conservative statement that taxes had increased because revenue had grown. "The man who maves this criticism likely has been making so much more money under this wicked government that he is probably paying more income tax on his increased income in spite of the reduction in rates."

Mr. Pooley had said he understood the Premier would announce the abolition of succession duties, he went on.

"He said not to pay any attention to me as this would only be an election bait," he remarked. "A few days later the Conservative leader announced that he would abolish succession duties altogether. I leave the conclusion to you."

"My own attitude on succession duties? I regard succession duty like any other form as taxation, you can reduce it just so fast as the country can afford it. I am not going to abolish succession duty until I am sure the Province can afford it."

MAY CUT TAX

Turning to criticism of the turnover tax, the Premier recalled the injustice of the personal property tax which the former replaced. The new levy had been supported by seventy-five per cent of the merchants, but some small dealers now complained that it would work a hardship on them.

"If it is found to be a hardship more reductions will be made in addition to those recently inaugurated," he said.

"Another part of our policy is to keep encouraging capital to come into this country. Up until 1916 all the capital that was invested in industry was $650,000,000. To-day you have four times that amount of capital invested in industries here.

"Our opponents say they will encourage capital. If they can beat our record they should tell us how, because no province has received as great a share of investment for its population.

"Capital is of no value in a country unless you have labor. The two are essential. How are you going to satisfy labor? By treating them fairly."

DEFENDING LABOR

As for this treatment, he instanced workmen's compensation, mothers' pensions and old age pensions, placing the worker where he has confidence in the future.

Again, the Government had provided old age pensions.

"We have placed the worker in a position of confidence in his future and the future of the country—labor is reasonably satisfied," he said. "Capital thus has the best insurance of success it can have. The best way to develop a country is through this co-operation between capital and labor."

Another Government policy, he said, was the revision of financial relationship between British Columbia and the Dominion to settle question of better terms. "I have every confidence that that age-old question can be solved," he continued.

Another question interesting the Government was the claim of old-time sealers for compensation under the Pelagic Sealing Treaty, he said. He promised to investigate these claims thoroughly to find out if they were justified. If they were found to be so, he said, he would press for them to be satisfied.

"We want to encourage capital to develop the water powers of this Province," the Premier went on, referring to what water power development had done for Ontario. "We are alive to the potentialities of that situation.

"There has been the suggestion that some power companies might try to unduly increase electrical rates. I have pointed out to those companies, not as a threat, that the Government has a responsibility in connection with that matter, and that responsibility is to protect the interests of the public.

ROAD BUILDING

"We are going to continue the present programme of road building, borrowing money and paying it back by the gasoline tax and partly by motor license," the Premier went on. "That is a sound policy and it benefits the motorist as it means less year and tear on his car."

As for the West Coast road, he said: "To my mind the West Coast road is going to be of great advantage to the whole of this Island, opening up new areas and industries there, and these industries and this development will benefit Victoria."

"This is the way to develop a country—spend money to open it up," he said.

"We will continue our policy of keeping peace between capital and labor.

"We will continue to help agriculture in the belief that no country can prosper unless its foundations are in the soil," he declared, tracing the Government's efforts to aid farming in various ways.

"We will continue to reduce taxation on farm lands," he announced.

MINING TAXES DEFENDED

Regarding mining taxation, the Premier referred to the proposal that the method of taxation here should be changed to that in vogue in Ontario. He quoted from the speech of Mr. Nicol, of the Ontario Government before the National Tax Conference in Toronto, where he stated that ten per cent of the production of the mines of Ontario went in taxation to the municipalities and the Province, whereas in British Columbia only 7.2 per cent went in taxation to the same bodies.

The Premier also explained that this question was up at the last session of the Legislature and discussed thoroughly with the mining interests and there was no desire on the part of the mining industry of the Province to resort to this proposed change.

In turning to fishing, the Premier said canners had asked for tax reductions. The Government would investigate the whole question, he stated.

Outlining the Government's timber policy, Dr. MacLean said the present forest revenue should be conserved in perpetuity by big reservations of timber.

"Soon we shall have large enough reserves to keep us supplied with lumber forever," he said.

CONTINUE SOCIAL LEGISLATION

In social legislation the Government's policy in the past would be continued, he said.

"You know what our record has been—we have the best social legislation in Canada. Assume we are defeated and that you ask the new Government for more social legislation. What would the new Government be justified in saying? Why, they could say 'the old Government, which sponsored such legislation, was defeated. We have no mandate to introduce any more such legislation.'

"If you want a continuance of our policy the only safe plan is to vote for our Government.

"When this Province can afford it further extensions will be made."

LOG EXPORT

Dealing with log export the Premier explained that the policy which the Government is following is the policy of which the present leader of the Conservative Party approved. He quoted from Dr. Tolmie's speech in the House of Commons to this effect, mentioning that all governments had the same policy as this Province.

"In conclusion let me give you a warning," he said. "Frequently in an election you will hear wild rumors about reprehensible acts by members of the Government. You can expect those things. In fact, I hear some such canards are being prepared for issuance now.

"So far as I am concerned it is my desire and determination that the government of this Province shall be carried on in the interests of all. If any man is guilty of improper practices then let me say that his usefulness has ceased.

"I have been highly honored in being selected as a candidate here. I only regret I could not spend more time in the campaign here. I am putting every ounce of energy into this campaign.

"I believe in the justice of our cause, and I believe that on July 18 we will be returned by the biggest majority ever accorded us."

When asked from the audience what the Government intended to do about the scheme to install a large log flume on the Cowichan River the Premier replied:

"If you have in mind the preservation of fisheries on the river you can rest assured there will be no interference."

MARYE AND "MOM" Their Letters

Dear Mom:

Cousin Julia has just departed and it was with a feeling of regret that I waved farewell to her. She managed to get me out of an unpleasant situation very neatly, and I have an idea that I'll need her again soon. Alan and I have been getting along too well. There is something ominous in our felicity.

The fashion show ended Saturday night, too, ended in a blaze of glory and a dinner dance at the country club that would not have taken a back seat for any Bohemian revel I have ever attended.

And the belles of the occasion were not what you called the "best people" of the conservative ranks, but two chorus girls from the most popular musical comedy here. They simply mowed down all before them.

Toward morning, I won a place in the spotlight, doing my black bottom dance. I think uplift is all wrong for me. I ought to go in seriously for dancing if I do for anything, for it is the only way where I have ever made first base.

And right here and now, I may as well confide to you, mother dear, that I am going to get a job of some sort. I don't care so much what it is, just so it gives me something to do that amuses me and keeps me out of mischief.

It's perfectly silly to think that a little apartment such as we have, with a good maid, requires any attention from me. It doesn't. And I can't bear to stay at home alone. Also, I hate the things women do to amuse themselves during the day. I get so sick of bridge, lunches and parties where there are just women. After a week of women's society, I'm just in the mood I was when I flirted with Pede—just desperate for a little honest excitement. And, of course, that inevitably brings trouble into the home.

There's absolutely no reason why I shouldn't have something to do as well as Alan. If he had only me as an interest, he would have been placed in a padded cell long before this.

I don't have to care whether it pays well or not, or whether it is vitally important. And I can walk out on anything I don't like—and I will.

Until I have something in mind, I shall not disturb Alan's peace of mind. You will be kept advised—and I hope you will sympathize with my plan. Doubtless I shall need your moral support when we really have the showdown.

Lots of love,
MARYE.

SOFTBALL

The Foresters' softball team took the measure of the Hillcrest aggregation when they beat the League-leaders by one run in a snappy "A" league game at Central Park last night. The winners took a three-run lead in the third and were never passed despite the fast work of the leaders. Doherty, the Forester's pitcher knocked a home run. Fisher and Dunc did some fine fielding for the winners while Doherty in the box pitched a steady game throughout. Poynte, the Hillcrest twirler, was given poor support in the field.

The Cameron Lumber Company whitewashed the Cordova Bay crew by a score of 9-0 in a game featured by the spectacular fielding of Harry Jones and steady pitching of Campbell.

The Canadian Scottish lost their game by default to Wilson Bros., putting the latter team on even footing with the Royals, Y.M.I. and Y.M.C.A. in the "C" league leadership.

Pangalos, Ex-Greek Dictator, Is Freed

Athens, Greece, July 11—General Theodorus Pangalos, former Dictator of Greece, was freed last night from the prison cell in which he had been awaiting trial on charges of treason.

The new Cabinet, headed by Eleutherios Venizelos, ordered the general's release immediately after it had issued a decree dissolving Parliament.

AIRMAN FINDS THREE MEN OF ITALIA PARTY

GREATEST MODERN TRAGEDY

King's Bay, Spitzbergen, July 11.—Indications increased to-day that the greatest tragedy of modern polar exploration had claimed the lives of nineteen men. Grave fears were entertained for five others.

Those believed to have lost their lives were:

Ten members of General Umberto Nobile's party of sixteen which abandoned the dirigible Italia when it crashed May 25, while returning to Spitzbergen from the North Pole.

The Italian Alpine Chasseur Captain Zora and two Norwegians, Varming and Van Dongen, guides, who also tried to find Nobile's party.

Capt. Roald Amundsen, Lieut. Dietrichsen, Captain Guilbaud and a crew of three of a French seaplane which started search.

Commander Nobile is the only one of the party rescued. One man was killed in the crash.

SURVIVORS GROW WEAKER

Fear increased to-day for the safety of the five fever-stricken and partially insane men marooned on the ice near Foyn since the airship crashed. There appeared to be no immediate prospect of their rescue for four days, attempts to communicate with them by radio having failed. This silence to-day was attributed either to weakness of their radio or atmospheric conditions.

Lieut. E. P. Lundorg, Swedish airman, who was rescued from among the marooned men on the ice off Foyn Island, said Biogi was weak with fever, but managed twice each day to send out radio reports.

The floe on which the five men are drifting is growing soft, this preventing planes from landing to take them off. To-day their hope of rescue appear to rest on the ability of the icebreakers Krassin and Braganza to force their way through the pack ice to them. The Krassin reported no progress yesterday, but held in the ice about thirty miles away from the survivors' camp.

THREE DISAPPEAR

A dog team expedition, led by Capt. Zora, with the Norwegians Varming and Van Dongan, started across the ice several weeks ago to rescue the marooned men, although warned such an attempt was fraught with great peril. They were swallowed up by the Arctic.

Lieut. Lundborg said that when he and Lieut. Shyberg landed in their plane on the ice at the camp near Foyn Island on June 24 they were met by Gen. Nobile, who fell into Lieut. Lundborg' arms in the party's tent. He wept from mingled joy and distress as he embraced and kissed the Swedish airman.

Lieut. Lundborg said the condition of the tent baffled description. All of the Italians were more or less physically and mentally weak from the strain, exposure and lack of proper food. Lieut. Lundborg and Lieut. Shyberg carried and dragged Nobile to the plane.

They took him to Hinlopen Strait, and from there he was transferred to the base steamer Citta di Milano. Lieut. Lundborg returned to the icefloe alone, hoping to bring out two men in his plane. The skis of his craft cut through the soft snow. The machine turned over and was wrecked. Lieut. Lundborg was marooned among the men he had hoped to rescue.

Twelve days later Lieut. Lundborg was rescued by a fellow airman, but weather conditions were unfavorable for a return flight.

Days of despair followed. Fog prevailed and prevented aeroplane rescue parties from either rescuing the five men or seeing them. Shifting winds loosed the ice around the camp. The rising and falling of the floe added to the misery of the party. The food began to run low. All were placed on short rations of chocolate, corned beef, biscuit and bear meat.

ARGUED AGAINST SUICIDE

Rome, July 11.—Reports received here that General Umberto Nobile dissuaded from suicide, Mr. Finn Malmgren, Swedish meteorologist and one of those now missing from the dirigible Italia expedition, are discussed in The Osservatore Romano, Vatican organ, which praises the general's action in a front page editorial.

The reports said that shortly after the crash of the Italia on the ice on May 25, Dr. Malmgren decided to throw himself into the sea, but was disuaded by General Nobile, who told him it would be cowardice.

KING'S PRIZE CONTESTED

to-day competed in the first stage of the great King's Prize competition here, seeking the right to enter the second stage on Friday. The best 300 scorers to-day out of 2,000 competitors will be eligible for second stage.

Strong sunshine, a cloudless sky and a light southerly breeze prevailed. The riflemen took the longer of the three stages first, firing seven shots each at 600, 500 and 200 yards. This was in order that the late starters might be enabled in the poor light of the afternoon to fire at the short distance. The programme was cleared of all other competitions save one, to permit the marksmen to concentrate on the great individual marksmanship event of the Empire meet.

CANADIANS START WELL

The Canadians started the first of the three distances in fine shape. Private T. R. Davies of Vancouver scoring 34 out of a possible 35 at the 600-yard mark, the most difficult range. Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa, former King's Prize winner, scored 33 and Sergt. Hawkins of Toronto, the second Canadian now at Bisley to have won the King's Prize, scored 32.

Other Canadian scorers at the first distance, 600 yards, were:

Sgt. Burton, Victoria; Lieut. Skinner, Fort William; Major Fred. Richardson, Victoria, and Lieut. Alex Martin, Calgary, 33.

Sergt. Kiddie, Toronto; and Sgt. W. M. Reid, Toronto, 32.

Sgt. Stevenson, Montreal and Sgt. Foame, Montreal, 31.

Lieut. Bishop, Ottawa; Sgt. Dawson, Ottawa; Sgt. Dudley, Toronto; Sgt. Livingston, Ottawa; Sgt. Regan, Toronto, and Lieut. Col. Letson, formerly of Vancouver, 30.

Sgt. Emalie, Toronto and Lieut. Macgregor, Ottawa, 29.

Sgt. White, Toronto, 28.

Sgt. McLennan, Charlottetown, 25.

FLYING MAYORS MAKE FAST TIME

Carrying Mayor Frank Edwards and Mrs. Edwards, Mayor J. C. Pendray and Mrs. Pendray, Mrs. A. E. Todd and Percy Barnes, the pilot, the Boeing flying boat which paid a goodwill call to Victoria yesterday, made the return flight to Seattle in 55 minutes, according to word received in the city to-day from those in the Victoria party. Frank Pretwell, president of the Seattle Aero Club, who was to have made the air journey, stayed in Seattle to arrange details in connection with the reception of the Victoria visitors there.

NO TIME FOR CHANGE NOW, WITH PROSPERITY TURNING STRONG, CANDIDATES ASSERT

"It is true that there has been an increase in debt, but that debt is productive and is bringing about the development of our Province and its resources."

Mr. Dewar referred to a remark of one Conservative speaker who said the only paved through road led to the United States.

"He should have said it the other way, as it leads from Untied States into Canada and is bringing in many dollars," he said.

LOOKS FOR VICTORIA'S DEVELOPMENT

Mr. Straith was introduced by Mr. Nicholas as an admirable example of the young men of Victoria in his many-sided public activities.

"I have no hesitation in endorsing the Liberal Government and supporting the great leader who has accomplished so much in one short year," Mr. Straith declared.

"On July 18, the voters should elect men who will not only be members of the Legislature but members for Victoria," he added.

Victoria, Mr. Straith said, should develop through the growth of industry, through tourist travel and through the expansion of its outlying districts and the West Coast. The industrial consciousness of the city had definitely awakened, he said, and the Liberal candidates would do everything possible to produce the practical results desired by the people. In this connection he mentioned the efforts of the zoning by-laws, which he has a big part in administering as chairman of the Appeal Board.

Turning to the tourist industry, he advocated the development of new attractions and amusements for visitors who came without automobiles. The proposed zoo at Beacon Hill Park, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, would form one of these attractions, he stated.

The development of the bulb and seed industry in districts around Victoria would be of enormous value to the city, he said. Another big factor in upbuilding the city would be the West Coast Road, which was being pushed ahead rapidly by the Government. The Conservative rumor that the road was an election bait was disproved by the substantial work already done, he asserted.

"I pledge myself and the other candidates to press for the completion of this road as early as possible," he concluded.

B.C. PROGRESSES ON ALL SIDES

Mark Graham said that at the start the Liberal members held a meeting and decided that they would conduct a clean campaign and if they couldn't win on that score they did not want to be elected.

"One of the main points the electors should do, is ask themselves why is it time for a change, when there is all this hue and cry on the part of the Conservatives for a change," Mr. Graham said. "Business is better than it has been for years. Financial papers are commenting on our excellent position. Capital is coming in. We are developing new industries and the people coming in are evidence of this. The metal industry has doubled in the last five years. Our boys and girls now are finding profitable employment in our Province and are staying at home and thus we are beginning to realize on the money we spend on their education.

"When you see all these things and this prosperity ask yourselves whether it is time for a change of Government. Especially, when we have men of such high integrity at the head of the Government, that even the Opposition cannot say anything against their characters."

GREAT LIQUOR STOCK SEIZED

ployees were sent off the premises and a squad of Provincial Police put in charge of each. All books and papers also were seized and a chartered accountant, furnished by the Clarkson firm of Toronto, set to work at each wharf to check up the stocks.

CONTEST IN COURTS

London, Ont., July 11.—Charles Burns, president of the Carling Brewery of this city, stated his firm was prepared to contest in the courts the legality of the seizue made at the export wharves in Windsor to-day. The subsidiary company that operates the Carling dock at Windsor is known as the Erie Transit Company. Mr. Burns said there had been no charge laid against his firm so far, but as soon as this was done a move would be made to contest the seizure in the courts.

It is understood the total value of the beer and liquor seized in the two warehouses is $1,000,000.

PRAIRIE GROUP DENIES CHARGES

forms of World War days, and emphatically stated the Union Jack was carried at the head of the parade along with the regimental flags of the association.

TO JOIN MILITARY FORCES

He also explained it was the hope of the officers of the association that the "Sitch" would eventually become a regular unit of the Canadian volunteer militia.

There was no attempt made at Yorkton, according to Commander Bossy, to break up the parade. Regular militia units in Summer camp near Yorkton did not interfere, he said. Some of the "Sitch" members dressed in civilian clothes were insulted by militia recruits, but that had no connection with the parade.

A dispatch from Yorkton, Sask., describing events there last week-end, said:

"Because members of the 'Sitch,' an organization of young Ukranians, insisted on parading in steel grey uniforms resembling the German war-time dress, returned soldiers at the Summer camp here took exception to the activities of the 'Sitch' and organized a demonstration against it.

"A military picket was ordered on constant duty to prevent trouble between the veterans and the young Ukranians, whose constitution is to be investigated by the Mounted Police. One of the complaints brought by the ex-soldiers is that the Ukranians have substituted their own language for English in the local schools."

WOMEN PROTEST EPITHETS APPLIED TO MRS. SMITH

stoop so low as to refer to a woman in such insulting terms?" Mrs. Pilgrim asked, and her question met with a chorus of "No!"

SCENES IN HOUSE

In endorsing Mrs. Pilgrim's protest, Mrs. Stuart Henderson said: "Not only has Mrs. Smith been referred to with disgusting epithets during the present campaign, but we all recall many scenes in the Legislature of which we as women are ashamed when indignities were heaped upon the lady member on many occasions.

"We are not asking any special favors for women who enter public life, but we have a right to demand decent treatment for all candidates, whether they be men or women. We will not tolerate such an attitude towards our women and I warn the offenders that the women will not put up with that sort of treatment."

The remarks of both speakers were endorsed with long and hearty applause from the gathering.

Mrs. Smith made brief reference in her address to the difficulties which beset the women who were blazing the trails to-day, in order that a way might be made for others to follow and carry on the work. She reminded the gathering that the Liberal Government had made it possible for women to receive privileges not open to women twenty-five years ago, and in the ballot lay one of woman's most valuable privileges and weighty responsibilities.

The candidate reviewed the beneficent measures passed during the last twelve years in the interests of women and children particularly and the community at large, dealing at length with the Equal Guardianship Act, Minimum Wage, the Adoption of Children Act and the Testators' Family Maintenance Act.

TRANQUILLE SANITARIUM

The Mothers' Pensions Act was paying a pension to 1,375 women who had been deprived of their breadwinner, and the Old Age Pensions Act had brought comfort to many aged citizens in the evening of their life. Tranquille Sanitarium represented another undertaking for which alone the Government deserved every commendation and support.

The correspondence schools which the Government had established for the benefit of the isolated districts was bringing a good education within the reach of 800 children who would otherwise be deprived of schooling. Rural health nursing was another splendid piece of legislation lying to the credit of the Liberal administration.

"You are the voters. You are the shareholders in one of the biggest afafairs in the life of a nation—that of government. As a director it gives me much pleasure in presenting to you a report of what we have done and of what we hope to do," said Mrs. Smith in conclusion.

The hearty applause of the audience was supplemented by a gift of flowers presented by little Thelma Richardson, a box of berries from a Saanich admirer, and a box of candies presented by Peggy Bentley.

Miss Cawthorne also spoke briefly in support of Mrs. Smith's candidature.

A delightful programme arranged by Mrs. Carver included a Dutch dance by Thelma Richardson and Peggy Bentley, and a graceful Maypole dance by Enid Hughes, Ruby Foyer, Dolly and Joan Cormack, Clara and Effie Hiller, Muriel Fisher, May Price, Peggy Webb, Edith Veasy and June and Evelyn Oliver, all pupils of Mrs. White and Mrs. Hughes.

PROGRESSIVE LEGISLATION

BRITISH COLUMBIA IS THE PIONEER among the Canadian provinces in legislation which has improved the lot of the common people. This point was emphasized at the meeting in the Royal Victoria Theatre yesterday evening, when the attention of the audience was drawn to the following measures which the Government has placed upon the statute books:

Workmen's Compensation.
Mothers' Pensions.
Equal Franchise.
Department of Labor.
Minimum Wage for Women.
Hours of Work Act.
Government Sanitarium for Tuberculous patients.
Home for Incurables.
School for the Deaf and Blind.
Workshop for blind adults.
Rural nursing system.
Equal Guardianship of Children Act.
Adoption of Children Act.
Testator's Family Maintenance Act.
University development.
Old Age Pensions.

Mr. Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, has publicly stated that British Columbia leads the Dominion in legislation in behalf of the welfare of the people. Progress along these lines can be assured by the return of the MacLean Government next week.

THE GASOLINE AGE

THERE IS CONSTERNATION IN BRITish railway circles because of the losses which the four consolidated companies have sustained during the last year.

This is not surprising. It is possible to travel now from Land's End to John O'Groats in a motor bus. The whole country is a network of this more flexible form of transportation. In some districts orders recently have been given for the removal of street car tracks in order that motor bus services may be brought up to a higher measure of efficiency.

There is a suggestion that the British railway companies are "cooking" their accounts in the hope of obtaining wider powers with regard to road transportation. To some extent this may be true; but the fact remains that the age of gasoline has come to stay.

With the high state of perfection to which the motor bus has been brought on this continent, we may assume that the day is not far distant when street cars, like the horse, will be more or less museum specimens.

THE COLD STORAGE PLANT

THE GRANTING OF A LEASE AT OGden Point by the Dominion Government for the establishment of a cold storage plant is of first importance to the commercial future of Victoria and the surrounding neighborhood. A venture of this kind obviously will open up new opportunities for the producers of the Saanich Peninsula and adjacent districts.

Some idea of what the facilities which now are assured mean to fruit growers may be obtained by consideration of the fact that from the community of Medford in the State of Oregon there are exported to Great Britain and the Eastern States annually no less than four million dollars' worth of pears. These are held in cold storage until the market is "right" and the best prices can be obtained. Orcas Island, too, is a large producer of pears for the British market.

What Medford and Orcas Island can do, surely the Saanich Peninsula can do, not only with pears but with numerous other products, such as berries, dairy products, poultry, and so on. The late Luther Burbank said some years ago that this part of Vancouver Island had a soil and climate almost unparalleled for the production of fruit. In his opinion it should be maintaining many thousands of prosperous producers. It would be difficult to obtain a more expert opinion than this.

It may be justly claimed that there has not been sufficient incentive to engage in a more intensive development of the Saanich Peninsula because of the lack of storage facilities. Such merit as there may have been in that claim now will disappear with the establishment of a cold storage plant.

It is essential that the people of this community and of the surrounding municipalities realize the necessity for enterprise. Artificial restrictions on the natural flow of trade, no matter what kind of business may be involved, while appearing to confer benefits for the moment, are of no lasting value. On the contrary, they impose a strangle-hold on enterprise, and that is fatal economically in a young country such as this.

Nor should the citizens of this community take the stand that the development of this or that section of Vancouver Island, in the rural sense, is merely a matter of concern for the farmer or the fruit grower. It all comes back to the old story of demanding the local article, whether it be a pair of overalls or a pot of jam. It follows that, as the local demand increases, plants are increased, and production costs are so reduced as to enable their products to compete in outside markets, we must go ahead.

The fruits of Saanich Peninsula, as a result of the establishment of a cold storage plant, soon should go far afield. As they do, as production increases, the whole of this community will benefit. As we already have suggested, what Medford has done, what Orcas Island has done, surely this part of Vancouver Island ought to be able to do.

KEEP THE HOME FIRES BURNING

OUR MORNING CONTEMPORARY TOday has an editorial article of which the following is an extract:

> It is full time that steps were taken in this province to "keep the home fires burning." The Conservative leader says that it should be both a privilege and a duty to provide for our own boys and girls. It is a duty which transcends the duty of bringing new settlers to the province.

This certainly is not in tune with the attitude expressed by our contemporary—as far as Victoria is concerned—when the technical school project was before the ratepayers here. Then it wanted to "keep the home fires burning" for the sons and daughters of a privileged few. Here is what it said at that time:

> If there are any young people in Victoria who really require a training in industrial branches of a more extended character than that which is now provided—in Victoria—such students would be well advised to seek that training in the fully-equipped vocational school to be established in Vancouver.

This does not sound like "keeping the boys and girls at home," or "keeping the home fires burning." Our contemporary also informs us that Dr. Tolmie says "it should be both a privilege and a duty to provide for our own boys and girls." Yet it would require those same boys and girls to go to Vancouver to get the training to equip them for their struggle of life.

The policy of the Liberal Party of this Province is equal opportunity for all. The opposition party would "keep the home fires burning" for an affluent minority.

MR. STEVENS AND CANADA HOUSE

DURING THE RECENT SESSION AT OTtawa Hon. H. H. Stevens took a fling at the High Commissioner's office in London. He said that when he called there he was received by "three men in gold braid." To this Hon. P. C. Larkin, the High Commissioner, replies in an interview in The Canadian Gazette as follows:

> Let me say at once that we have never had a man with a scrap of gold braid about him except the janitor of the building, a very superior man, who is responsible for the whole building and its upkeep, and who spends three hours of the busiest part of our day at the front door at the service of the callers who come in, in guiding them to the High Commissioner's department, the emigration, trade and commerce or other departments. The man is remarkable for the courtesy and kindness he shows to visitors. How Mr. Stevens managed to see three men in gold-braided coats, I am at a loss to understand.

This explanation from Mr. Larkin leads The Toronto Star to suggest that if Mr. Stevens saw three men, "it is evident that only the middle one was real." But, our eastern contemporary goes on, it is probable he saw only one, and indulged in some exaggeration for purposes of emphasis and effect in his parliamentary speech. In any event, we are glad to note that the High Commissioner was not so extravagant as to hire a band to play the Vancouver member into the building. Besides, Mr. Stevens in one sense has been in the gold braid class himself. Did he not write letters in connection with an oil company in which he was interested on House of Commons notepaper, and would not this embellishment give to his missives at least as official a touch as gold braid would give to a janitor?

PLACE-NAMES COMMEMORATE SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Natural Resources, Ottawa

According to the records of the geographical board of Canada, Sir Wilfrid Laurier is commemorated in Canada by some seventeen place-names. On the Nova Scotia coast is Laurier rock. In Quebec are the villages of Laurier, Laurierville and Mont-Laurier, as well as Laurier township. Ontario also has a Laurier township and has too, a Laurier Lake. Manitoba has a Laurier village. Saskatchewan has a Laurier municipality, while in Alberta are Laurier Municipality and Laurier Lake. In Mackenzie district, Northwest Territories, is Laurier River, and in British Columbia are Laurier Pass, Laurier Peak, Laurier Cove and Mount Sir Wilfrid. British Columbia also has a Lady Laurier Mountain and there is a Mount Laurier in Yukon.

GOLF VS. BASEBALL

The Hamilton Spectator

Something serious is happening to the national game of the United States and the magnates with fortunes tied up in professional baseball are lying awake nights doing some plain and fancy worrying. The something that is happening to baseball is golf. The remarkable increase in the popularity of the Scotch game is interfering with baseball in two ways—in attendance and in the development of baseball talent. . . . The Scotch shepherd who turned his crook upside down, took the first golfing stance and sent a pebble whistling o'er the lea, started something. That pebble was the forerunner of billions of golf balls and the crook the father of driver, spoon, baffy, niblick, mashie and whatever's in your bag. Golf is something more than pleasant recreation for the millions; it's an industry that threatens to rival radio and the motor car. Some day, if we're not mistaken, you're going to see it listed on the stock exchange. As for baseball, its fate is uncertain.

OVERCALLING PARTNER'S BID

Your partner declares a club. Immediately it is incumbent upon you to interpret your partner's bid. What inferences are you to draw therefrom? Ask yourself, "Why did my partner choose a minor suit? Why not a major suit? Why not a no trump?"

Your partner has conveyed to you both positive and negative information. You have been informed that your partner has a sound club bid but does not possess either a sound major or sound no trump bid. Your partner has also delivered this message to you—"Partner, please co-operate with me by furnishing me with any information that may improve the bid; a major declaration would be most welcome if sound."

To make game on a minor suit requires a total of eleven tricks, in a major only ten tricks, and in a no-trump only nine. It therefore is obligatory after your partner has made a minor declaration, if your hand contains over one quick trick (preferably about 1½ for beginners) properly distributed in the other suits, to furnish such information as will better or improve the bid. This may be accomplished by bidding another suit or a no trump.

If your hand contains more than one quick trick, you should furnish information by bidding in the following order:

1—A major suit as strong as a defensive bid.

2—No trump if two of the suits other than the one bid are stopped.

3—The other minor if it is as good as a defensive bid.

You should always be on the qui vive to change your partner's minor bid even if you possess only the minimum of support for a bettering bid.

THE SAANICH BY-LAW

To the Editor:—Will the Reeve of Saanich explain why my offer of $15,000 for the Lake Hill bus service and also my offer of $20,000 for a twenty-year license to operate on the East Saanich Road were not considered, if the interest of the Saanich ratepayers were his first consideration.

MR. SHELLY AND BREAD

To the Editor:—I heard Mr. Shelly speak in Esquimalt last night. I was born in England, and when I was back there a year or so ago my mother asked me why it was that it cost her twenty cents to buy a four-pound loaf when most of the flour imported by Great Britain came from Canada. I said she was lucky; because, in Canada, where the wheat is grown, we had to pay ten cents for a one-pound loaf. Perhaps Mr. Shelly's experience as a baker will supply the answer. He seems to have been doing pretty well in the bread-selling business.

INTERESTED.

FOR WORKINGMEN

To the Editor:—As we are now well into the political letter-writing era, I would like to say a little to the working men and women of Victoria. They all know me and know that I have always given them good advice, and they all know that the word "Conserve" means to preserve or keep together, and this has ever been the policy of Conservative governments in every country, to keep the big half for themselves and give to the masses that which is left, and what of our coal, and meat, and Shelly's bread combines, all controlled by Conservative interests, and we may thank a Conservative government under which it was conceived, for that child of sin and misfortune, "the P.G.E. Railway."

We must also remember that it was a Conservative senate that killed the Liberal old age pension measure, so mind you, boys, if we ever put in a Conservative government in British Columbia our superannuation measure, which is now in force, will stand a very good chance of being annulled.

HERBERT PHIPPS.

THE PACIFIC GREAT EASTERN

To the Editor:—The workers of British Columbia are vainly looking for the platform or policy upon which the Conservative Party can logically ask the electorate's blessing. The only thing mentioned to date is the Pacific Great Eastern, and Mr. Howe advances the nonsensical argument that he read in a Toronto paper that the net funded debt of British Columbia is $86,000,000. Surely, as a candidate seeking our suffrages he will visit the Parliament Buildings in Victoria or at least consult Mr. Pooley as to the actual situation and give his figures on his own responsibility. Let us analyze the situation as regards the Pacific Great Eastern, it is known to all that its parents were Messrs. McBride and Bowser that they pledged their word that this railway would not cost the people of British Columbia one cent, its administration by the Oliver Government left nothing to be desired as to the honesty and integrity of said administrators, Premier McBride and Mr. Bowser induced the settlers to locate along the line and Premier Oliver had to operate the railway to keep faith with them, the Pacific Great Eastern has cost the Province $54,000,000 to date, or $98 for every man, woman and child in British Columbia, and it passeth all understanding how any party, guilty of hanging this tremendous burden on the people, can find the nerve to bring the subject before an intelligent electorate. The workers of British Columbia need only to consider what the financial standing of the Province would be minus this "white elephant" thrust upon us by the "great and grand?" Conservative Party and then go and vote as their conscience dictates.

SAANICH BY-LAW

To the Editor:—Will you kindly publish the following letter which I have addressed to the voters of Saanich:

J. S. H. MATSON.

On Saturday, July 14, you will have the right to vote for or against the by-law which, if passed by a three-fifths vote of the electors, will grant to me a twenty-year right to operate a passenger coach service within the Saanich Municipality. Since the passing of the by-law by the Saanich Council, there have been a number of individuals calling upon the ratepayers, who have been circulating reports that are false.

The following facts will, I believe, make my position clear:

1. I have purchased and paid for, with the exception of the Gray Line operated by H. B. Olson, every bus service licensed to carry passengers in the municipality, at an actual cost of $74,750 (seventy-four thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars).

2. Two of the busses purchased fell to pieces and have been rebuilt with new chassis. Four new coaches have been placed in the service. Four large coaches have been ordered and will be placed in service upon completion. To efficiently serve the patrons of the various lines, twelve additional, or a total of twenty new coaches, will be required during the first twelve months. The total capital expenditure during this period will be over $250,000.

3. It is not my intention to continue to operate any of the busses or cars that have been used by the former owners; replacements will take place almost immediately.

4. My guarantee regarding rates and to cover the entire municipality with comfortable, safe coaches at existing fares covering school children as well as adults and on improved schedules, is in the hands of your Reeve and Council. That guarantee remains during the term of the rights applied for, unless changed by consent of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, the Public Utilities Board, or the Municipal Council of Saanich. In other words, I am bound to be governed by the decision of one of the above, and have agreed that such a clause must be embodied in a bill to be presented to the Legislature to validate the by-law if it passes.

5. I also guarantee to cover the municipality. I am not seeking the routes that are paying expenses and passing the lean ones. Feeders will be established to carry passengers to the main lines on the East, West and other roads, which will be operated under a belt-line system. The Gorge, Burnside, Douglas Street, Lake Hill, Gordon Head, Cordova Bay, Cadboro Bay and Deep Cove coaches will be rerouted with the idea of better serving these sections. At present many patrons have quite a long walk before reaching the bus terminus. By a carefully thought out system of route changes, this annoyance to a large extent will be eliminated, and it is my intention to do my best to serve the people even if the venture in some sections is not a financial success.

6. May I draw your attention to three statements, grossly misleading:

(1). That the ratepayers become responsible for a heavy liability covering the Broughton Street Stage Depot.

(2). That the ratepayers become responsible for any liability incurred by me in connection with the purchase and operations of the coach lines.

In reply, I wish to state that the ratepayers do not assume one dollar of liability, and have no responsibility in either of the above, and never will. My obligations are being paid as they are incurred.

(3). That it is my intention to go into the handling of freight throughout the municipality and will run present operators off the road.

I have no such thought or intention. The clause in the by-law permitting me to carry freight is for the comfort of passengers and my own protection. If at any time I can serve those who are engaged in freighting, I will be pleased to do so, by helping them to organize on the same principle as the passenger service.

7. There are many wild rumors in circulation, and I trust that these will be carefully traced to the seat of origin and weighed accordingly.

8. The term of the right to operate is said to be rather long. In point of fact the term is rather short if one expects to get even a fair return upon the capital invested. During the first ten years I must provide funds to purchase three replacements. That will cost $750,000, to say nothing of the purchase price paid for the busses that must be discarded as speedily as possible.

9. I may be wrong, but I believe that your support of the by-law will mean increased prosperity, increased population, increased land values, a large increase in the number of ratepayers, a policy of spirited development in the erection of many comfortable homes, and a movement that will directly and indirectly benefit every ratepayer within the boundary lines of your municipality.

I ask your support only as an expression of confidence. You do not bonus me; you permit me to take something off your hands, which I have paid unconditionally. You are provided with modern, first-class coaches—something that confronted the municipality if you were to keep pace with the times. I do not ask you to permit me to pick out a run which I am prepared to purchase at $20,000, payable in yearly instalments of $1,000. The interest at 7 per cent upon the sum I have paid for the Lake Hill run ($15,000) would amount to $1,050—ten hundred and fifty dollars per annum—and your principal sum remains in your hands.

When I purchased the nine lines previously mentioned, I had no guarantee; I have none now; and do not intend to ask you to vote for the by-law unless you truly believe that you can depend upon me to do as I have agreed. I also wish to point out that I will bind my successors to confirm my undertaking in every particular.

J. S. H. MATSON.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, JULY 11, 1903

London, July 11.—Mr. Justice John Douglas Armour, of the Supreme Court of Canada, and a member of the Alaskan Boundary Commission, who has been ill for some time, and recently suffered a relapse, died at the London residence of his son this morning.

Chicago, July 11.—Chicago has passed the 2,000,000 mark, its present population, according to the publisher of the Chicago city directory for 1903 being 2,231,000.

These are busy days along the streets of Port Angeles, Washington, and boats are daily landing strangers, who in conversation tell you that they are inquiring about the prospect of the place. There is little doubt that another boom will be set in motion and another attempt made to transform Port Angeles into a real city, and that this very Summer. In fact one must notice that it has already begun.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Fresh southerly winds, generally fair and comparatively cool.

Salmon in the Columbia, as in the Skeena, several hundred miles farther north, have been running very poorly. And on July 1, a year ago, the pack was 123,000 cases. This year on the same date it was 50,000 cases, with very little prospect that it would reach the 60,000 mark.

The Orangemen's excursion to New Westminster on Monday, July 13, promises to be largely attended.

With a double daily train service and the fare reduced to the modest figure of 50c for the round trip, the ticket being good for thirty days, Shawnigan Lake is rapidly becoming a tented city, many Victorians preferring this as a camping ground because of its change of climate.

The Victoria baseball team defeated the Everett team last evening at the Oak Bay park to the final score of 8 runs to 7. Hal Chase was on the mound for the local team and pitched a good brand of ball.

DEEP SEA, COASTWISE SHIPPING, AND RAILROAD NEWS

WORLD TRAVELERS ARRIVE IN KOREA

John Henry Mears and Pilot Will Board Empress of Russia For This City

A dispatch from Ping Yang, Korea, this morning states that John Henry Mears and his pilot, Charles G. Collyer, who are seeking to make a new record for circumnavigating the globe took off from that city at 9.10 a.m. for Tokio in their plane the City of New York.

This should give the two travelers plenty of time to catch the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia at Yokohama, to-morrow for the journey across the Pacific Ocean to Victoria, as Ping Yang is only a few hours' flying from the Japanese city.

Mears and Collyer, a little tired after their record time across Europe and Asia, will have nine full days to rest and relax on the comfortable Empress of Russia before starting on the final lap of what is expected to be a record trip around the world.

Their aeroplane will be securely strapped to the afterdeck of the big C.P.R. liner when she arrives at William Head quarantine station in the early morning hours of Saturday, July 21. Immediately upon the arrival of the Empress at the Rithet piers the plane will be taken to the B.C. Airways Limited property on Lansdowne Road, where it will be assembled, filled with oil and gas and made ready for the hop to Seattle. Mears and his pilot will be on their way to New York within an hour after the arrival of the Empress at this port.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, July 11.—Two ships have been charted for the European service of the Canadian-American Shipping Company during August, and a third ship owned by the line, has been allocated to the same general range, D. R. Girdwood, manager of the firm, announced to-day. The two new charters were the Queen's Wood and the Vulcan City.

The company's own carrier, the Chief Skidegate, formerly the Esther Dollar, is the one assigned to the European trade.

At the regular director's meeting of the Merchants' Exchange, John B. Banton of Balfour, Guthie and Co., was elected secretary of the organization. He replaces Phil Benedict, who has been transferred to Portland.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, July 11.—The Dollar liner President Pierce, arrived here from the Orient to-day with a full passenger list and a capacity cargo, a full day ahead of schedule. The President Cleveland, operated by the same line, arrived hre a day ahead of schedule two weeks ago ,and the Pierce's arrival made the waterfront wonder if the Dollar Line were competing with the Matson Navigation Company for Hawaiian Island trade. Gossip had it that the Dollar people were cutting their schedule to get in ahead of the Matson liner Malolo, due every other Wednesday. The Dollar offices denied the report.

The British steamer Wentworth arrived under the contract to M. L. Eyre and Co., to take out a full cargo of barlat for the United Kingdom and continent.

The red stack tug Sea Lion left here for Astoria to tow a cigar-shaped log raft from the Columbia River to San Diego. The raft will contain 7,000,000 feet of lumber.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height at high water as above given.

ATLANTIC ONLY FOUR DAYS AWAY

New Service Will Be Inaugurated Aug. 15 Bringing Coasts Closer Together

On and after August 15 the journey from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast will be cut by one day, according to word received in the city this morning from Chicago, where final arrangements are being completed with several railway companies and two air transportation companies who will make possible this record time from coast to coast. The railway companies included in this arrangement are the three Northwest railroads, the Northern Pacific, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, while the air companies are the Transcontinental Air Transport Company and the Northwest Airways Limited.

The agreement calls for a passenger plane to leave Minneapolis at 8.30 a.m. every morning, St. Paul ten minutes later, so that Chicago will be reached at noon in time to board one of the trains for the west. Seattle will be reached on the fourth day and with the new air service which will be inaugurated between Victoria and Seattle by that time, this city will be reached one hour atfer the arrival of the transcontinental train in Seattle.

SEEK TO TAKE BAIL JUMPER

Provincial Police Ask Yokohama Authorities to Arrest Wong Wah

The chase which B.C. provincial police have begun to bring back Wong Wah, Chinese bail jumper, has reached across the Pacific Ocean and the British Consul at Yokohama has been advised that the convicted man is aboard a Blue Funnel Line steamship bound for that port.

Wong Wah was sentenced to serve three years' imprisonment by Judge Lampman, appealed his case and lost. Subsequently he disappeared and his three Chinese bondsmen here have had to pay $10,000 forfeit.

Superintendent Col. J. H. McMullen of the B.C. provincial police, cabled to Yokohama and asked the British Consul there to take whatever action was possible in the matter. As Wong Wah's crime is not extraditable, Col. McMullen fears that the man may be able to evade arrest.

C. & C. TAXI SERVICE LIMITED

To the Editor:—We have been informed that Mr. J. S. Cameron is canvassing the electors of Saanich to induce them to vote against the Transportation By-law, the impression being left that he was doing so in the interests of the C. & C. Taxi Service Limited. We wish to make it perfectly clear that Mr. J. S. Cameron is in no way connected, or has any interests whatever of any description in this company. Mr. Matson purchased the West Saanich stage run formerly operated by us and we are strongly in favor of the by-law.

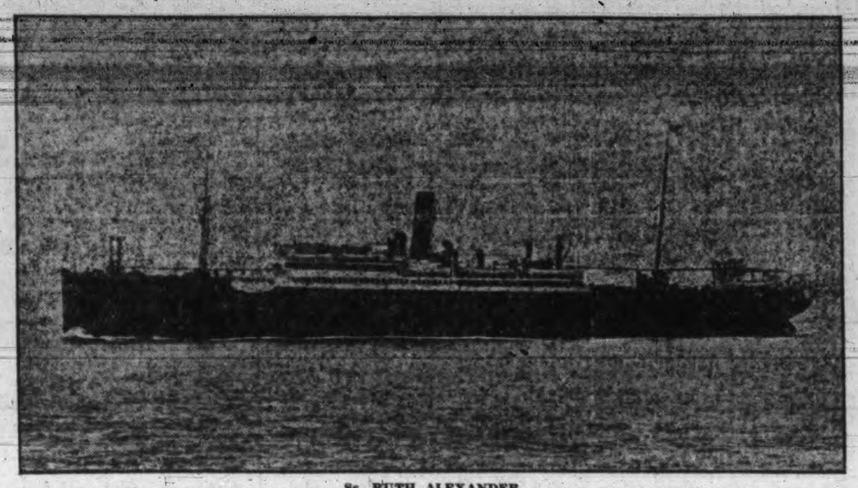
WILL ARRIVE TO-MORROW EVENING FROM CALIFORNIA PORTS



Ss. RUTH ALEXANDER

which will arrive from San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco to-morrow evening about 10 o'clock, with eighty passengers and local freight, according to word received this morning by W. M. Allan, local agent. Travel to and from California ports this time of the year is particularly heavy and all the Pacific Steamship Company's sailings from Seattle and Victoria are carrying capacity passenger lists. The Ruth left San Francisco yesterday afternoon and with the good weather which is prevailing on the Pacific at this time of the year, she should make good time and berth at the Rithet piers by 10 o'clock. Again on Sunday the vessel will have a full list when she sails from this port for the South.

N.Y.K. Liner Will Arrive From Orient Early Sunday Morning

A wireless dispatch from the commander of the vessel to A. H. Hebb, local agent for the line, this morning, states that the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Kaga Maru will arrive at the William Head quarantine station on Sunday morning at 4 o'clock and will tie up at the Rithet piers about an hour and a half later. The Kaga has twenty-nine passengers for Victoria, four in the first cabin and twenty-five traveling in the third cabin, including the Baseball team of Kansai College, Kobe, who are en route to the United States to commence a tour of the Pacific Coast.

The vessel also has 135 tons of general Oriental cargo, including forty bales of raw silk for land shipment East to New York. Sixty-five bags of mail make up the large mail consignment on board the vessel for Victoria. Several bags are for air delivery to Seattle and the rest for the local post office.

The Kaga will remain in port here about two hours before leaving for Seattle and other Puget Sound ports.

Brentwood

Brentwood, July 11.—Mrs. J. E. Cameron and children and Mrs. E. T. Watson of Victoria are spending a week's holiday with Mrs. Frank Young, Marchants Road.

Mrs. H. Ruth, accompanied by her sons Wallace and Jack, motored from their home in Eugene, Oregon, to spend a holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Wallace.

Mrs. Graham and her daughters, Misses Kitty and Beth Graham, are at the Anchorage Camp for a vacation.

Dr. and Mrs. Sandilands, and family have arrived from Seattle on their annual holiday and are occupying their new cottage. Dr. and Mrs. Carver and family of Seattle are at present their guests.

Mrs. Marker and daughter of Edmonton have arrived to join her sister, Mrs. Grafton and children of Brooks, Alta., and will spend the vacation months at Brentwood Bay.

No. 1 Company of South Saanich Guides left for Sooke, and will spend ten days in camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones and baby Cedric have taken a cottage on Marchants Road and will spend the Summer months at the beach.

Mr. and Mrs. McLaurin of Victoria have taken up their residence at their Summer home on Marchants Road.

Mrs. Alexander and family of Victoria are enjoying a holiday at the beach.

Miss Margery Ensor was the guest of Miss Ruby Haddon during the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Anderson and daughter are at their cottage for the Summer months.

Mrs. T. Bailey and Miss Mary Scarfe were the guests of Mrs. E. Larup on Thursday.

A very happy gathering was held on Saturday evening when a number of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. T. Haddon to say farewell to Mrs. A. Guy, who is leaving this week for a trip to England to visit relatives and friends.

Progressive "500" was played during the evening, the prizes being awarded to A. E. Hole, Mrs. H. Buckle and Mrs. Frieland. Dancing was also enjoyed. After the serving of supper Mrs. E. Rochon, on behalf of those present presented Mrs. Guy with a suitcase and umbrella with the best wishes of all for a pleasant voyage, for which she expressed her thanks.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. Rochon, Mr. and Mrs. Lacousiere, Mr. and Mrs. H. Buckle, Mr. and Mrs. T. Haddon, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hole, Mr. and Mrs. A. CANADA'S ATHLETES EN ROUTE

Eleventh-hour Changes Made in Team to Represent the Dominion at Amsterdam

Montreal Hurdler Added to Team; Squad Gives Impression of Great Ability

Montreal, July 11.—The main body of Canada's Olympic team sailed from here this morning on board the Albertic, bound for Amsterdam. The team gives the impression of great ability. They arrived here yesterday from Toronto, and were joined by the Montreal members of the party.

To-day's contingent included the track and field, swimming, cycling, wrestling and rowing squads, in addition to P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Olympic games committee and a number of officials.

The party numbered sixty.

A few eleventh hour changes in the personnel of the team were announced yesterday.

W. J. Montabone, Montreal A.A.A. hurdler, was added to the track and field squad. The Olympic committee were willing to accept him if his expenses were provided. This was done by the youth's father and close friends.

Sammy Mandell May Defend His Lightweight Title

Chicago, July 11—Promoter Jim Mullen has completed plans for what he hopes will lead to Sammy Mandell defending his lightweight championship title in Chicago during the present outdoor season.

Mullen has arranged for two elimination fights to select Mandell's opponent. The first step is the engagement between Jack Berg, English lightweight, and Mike Walters of California, here to-morrow night. The winner of that fight will be matched against Billy Petrolle of Fargo on July 26, with the survivor later meeting the champion.

Miljus Released To Cleveland Club

Pittsburgh, July 11—John Miljus, Pittsburgh pitcher, yesterday was released to the Cleveland, American League club. The deal involved "slightly better than the waiver price," Pirate officials said.

Miljus came to the Pirates last year from the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast League. His good work last season helped the Pirates in their pennant, but he has been unable to win consistently this year.

Frainey Springss Big Surprise In Golf Tournament

Chicago, July 11.—Tom Frainey of Edgewood Valley, runner-up in the 1926 Chicago amateur golf tournament, entered the semi-finals of the 1928 tourney yesterday defeating Rial Rolfe of Ridgemoor, 5 and 4. Frainey's victory came as a surprise since Rolfe had loomed strong by eliminating the veteran, Robert A. Gardner, in the morning round, 1 up.

Gardner was seeking his fourth Chicago amateur title and his recard as twice holder of the national amateur had made him a favorite.

Gibson Dunlop, who won the Pacific Coast intercollegiate title last Winter, also entered the semi-finals, ousting Douglas Casey of Riverside, in the quarter final round, 6 and 5.

O.C. CRICKET

London, July 11—Somerset defeated Essex at Chelmsford in their county cricket match ending yesterday by nine wickets. The scores follow:

Somerset, 369 and 54 for one wicket; Essex, 272 and 150.

Kent defeated Derby by six wickets; Kent, 259 and 290 for four wickets; Derby, 214 and 234.

Surrey defeated Yorkshire on the first innings. Scores: Surrey, 458 (Fender, 177; Jardine, 157; Macaulay, five wickets for 104); Yorkshire, 406 and 121 for one wicket.

Leicester defeated Warwickshire by nine wickets. Scores: Leicester, 377 for seven declared, and 63 for one wicket; Warwick, 188 and 251 (Wyatt, 102).

Sussex defeated Glamorgan for four wickets. Scores: Sussex, 347 and 115 for six wickets; Glamorgan, 75 and 386 (D. Davies, 126, not out).

Lancashire defeated Hampshire by seven wickets. Scores: Lancashire, 363 and 155 for three wickets; Hampshire, 138 and 378 (Kennedy, 128).

Gloucestershire defeated Northamptonshire on the first innings. Gloucester 240 and 113 for two wickets; Northants, 226 and 249 for three, declared (Woolley, 108; Bellamy, 100).

The game between the touring West Indians and Nottingham was left drawn. Scores: West Indies, 378 and 85 runs for no wickets; Nottingham, 393 and 246 for six declared.

The game between Scotland and Ireland at Edinburgh was also left drawn. Scores: Ireland, 346 and 221 for five wickets; Scotland, 211 and 302 for nine wickets (Ker, 137).

The second day's score in the Oxford-Cambridge match was: Cambridge, 292; Oxford, 387; Cambridge, 82 for three wickets.

Morgan Favored To Retain His Crown To-night

New York, July 11—If the rain holds off, Tod Morgan and Cannonball Martin will get together for their much delayed junior lightweight championship battle at Ebbets field to-night.

The Seattle 130-pound champion is favored at odds of 6 to 5 to retain his crown. It will be no sensational upset, however, if Martin, former bantamweight champion, succeeds in dethroning the Pacific Coast titleholder. Martin gave Morgan many an uneasy minute in their recent 15-round championship bout at Madison Square Garden, when the champion just managed to pound out a decision on points.

FIELDING IS MATCHED WITH SEATTLE BOY

Local Lightweight Boxer to Meet Lyall Henderson in Saturday Night's Card

Jumbo and Albie Davis, Tim Keist and Danny Pastro Will Also Appear

Professional boxers will get into action again Saturday night at Joe Bayley's show which is being staged at the Tillicum quarters on Broad Street. For the main event Bayley is using his protege, Tommy Fielding, in a ten-round bout with Lyall Henderson, one of Seattle's star lightweight boxers.

The Seattle fighter has been selected for this bout by the veteran colored boxer, Dusty Miller, who made such a favorable impression here a few months ago in his contest with Jimmy Lyall, the local heavyweight boxer. Miller, while training for Lyall, worked out several times with Fielding and he is thoroughly conversant with his ability and style, so when he was instructed by the local promoter to pick a fighter who would make the local boy extend himself to the limit, and incidentally give the fans a real good bout for their money, he was able to fill the bill. Miller, due to his position as boxing instructor for the White Centre Athletic Club, is in a wonderful position to select first-class lingmen, and he states that Lyall Henderson will make a big impression on the local fans.

The Seattle fighter, according to Miller, is a rugged, two-fisted boring in type of battler, who will make the local boy travel from the gong, and unless Fielding keeps his chin fully protected is likely to win the bout with a K.O.

For the rest of the card Bayley has received permission to use the Victoria Boxing Club boxers, Jumbo Davies, Tim Keist and Albie Davies, who, with the addition of Danny Pastroe, are being matched with White Centre Club boxers.

Fielding and Pastroe are working out every evening at the Tillicum quarters and the Victoria Boxing Club boxers are training at the Victoria West gymnasium.

U.S. Davis Cup Players Prepare For Championships

Auteuil, France, July 11.—Headed by William T. Tilden, its captain, the United States Davis Cup tennis team had its first workout yesterday on the courts of the Roland Garres stadium, where the Davis Cup interzone final will be contested July 20 and the challenge round July 27.

"The courts are splendid," Tilden commented, adding that the entire team is in the finest physical shape but needs practice on hard courts after its fortnight of play on grass at Wimbledon.

The youthful Wilbur Coen, sixteen-year-old member of the American team, already has caught the fancy of French tennis exports, who look upon him as a coming star.

REDS' INFIELD AFTER DOUBLE PLAY RECORD

There is something with an instinctive kick in a ball game when the leader of the infielders holds up a pair of fingers and shouts—"Two down, everybody! Two down!"

It means that the biggest part of the job has been done and with two batters of the opposing side retired the momentary crisis has been passed in the average case.

Getting two men of the batting side is a happy relief for any ball club and getting two on the same play is a regular joy. And when a team develops a combination that can kill two as easily as one and makes a habit of it it has the fundamental foundation of a great team.

It is an old adage that the power of a ball club is shown by a line drawn through the middle of the diamond, meaning that a ball club to be good must have a good catcher, a good second baseman and a good centre fielder.

Every great team has had a great second baseman but a great second baseman is not always a great pivot in a double play. It has been rare comparatively when a great second baseman was a great individual and a great combination man on a double play. Hornsby is one who is not and so is Frisch.

FAMOUS CUB MACHINE

The value of a double play combination was shown by the famous old Chicago Cub machine with Tinker, Evers and Chance, a combination of double killers that has passed its name down as a trademark for that play.

Barry to Collins to McInnis was the killing combination of the famous $100,000 infield of the Philadelphia Athletics and Peck to Harris to Judge spelled two pennants for the Washington Senators.

This season another smoothly functioning second base combination is threatening to double play the Cincinnati Reds into the National League pennant. Ford to Critz to Kelly had accounted for almost 100 double killings in the first quarter of the season and there is no telling what kind of a record they will be able to make before the season closes.

INSPIRES WHOLE TEAM

The Reds do not depend entirely upon their double-play combination, however, as the team has fine pitching and good hitting, but the spectacular work of Ford, Critz and Kelly has inspired the whole team.

Ford was nothing but an ordinary shortstop until he got working with Critz, who is the greatest defensive second baseman in baseball. They have established the fastest work around second base in the majors and in Kelly they have not only a good big target but the best arm in the league. The work of Kelly may be overlooked in the attention given to the starter and the pivot man but he was a wow double play man when he was with the Giants and when he had no such help. He is as good a pivot man on a double play as he is on the finishing end as he proved once in one of the greatest plays of world's series history and he can start them as well as any first baseman of all time.

There will be arguments, of course, about the greatest double play combination of all time, but Ford, Critz and Kelly are going after the record and you can't get behind records.

SEATTLE MEN WIN SHOOTS

Results of Competition Show Sound City's Supremacy

Seattle annexed most of the shooting laurels at the annual international revolver shoot which was held on the R.C.M.P. range at Esquimalt yesterday. The Sound City's teams and individual shots captured first place in five of the international competitions and took places in several others. Miss Ednal Christofferson of Portland, was successful in carrying off the ladies shoot in which Mrs. M. L. Miles of the same club was second.

The complete results of the shoot are as follows:

Team shots, twenty rounds at twenty yards:

Seattle team, composed of S. J. Jergerson, 156; W. Reynalds, 170; Capt. Haag, 144; E. Dell, 142, and D. A. Dunn, 159.

Six rounds at twenty yards, open to civilians of the U.S.A. and Canada—1, C. Clarke; 2, E. Christopher; 3, H. Harris.

Six rounds at twenty yards, open to members of police departments from British Columbia only—1, J. Rogers, Victoria; 2, M. Phipps, Victoria; 3, A. G. McPhee, C.P.R., Vancouver.

Six rounds at twenty yards, open to civilian staff H.M.C. Dockyard—1, R. Riley; 2, G. Phillips; 3, H. Smith.

Six rounds at twenty yards, open to members of Victoria City Police Department only—1, T. Hall; 2, Calwell; 3, J. Rogers.

Six rounds at twenty yards, open to Victoria City Police Department who did not participate in any team shoot—1, T. Hall, 2, M. Wilkinson; 3, J. Ireland.

Six rounds rapid fire, military target, open to police from U.S.A. and Canada—1, Vike, Seattle; 2, Reynolds, Seattle; 3, Dell, Seattle.

Ladies' shoot—1 Mrs. Christofferson, Portland; 2, Mrs. M. L. Miles, Portland.

Toronto Fans To Witness Bout For Flyweight Crown

Toronto, July 11—It was announced here to-day that Teve Rocco of this city and Frank Genaro of New York will fight here for the world's flyweight title. The date and venue of the contest have not been decided.

SONS WILL MEET SIDNEY

Former Will Tackle Leaders of Lacrosse League at Sidney To-morrow Night

Sons of Canada will journey to Sidney to-morrow night to engage the millmen in a Victoria and District Lacrosse League game. The teams will start play at 6.30 o'clock and a great battle is expected.

Sidney, at present, lead the league with the Sons of Canada in second position.

The following Sons of Canada players are asked to be at the City Hall to-morrow night at 5.30 o'clock: Noel, Taylor, Kennedy, Blair, Burnett, F. Noel, Collier, Chapman, Oliver, J. Taylor, Viggers, Allen, Nicol and Cann.

LACROSSE TEAM ON WAY EAST

New Westminster Salmonbellies Depart En Route to Olympic Games

New Westminster, July 11.—The New Westminster Salmonbellies, amateur lacrosse champions of Canada, left here this morning en route to Montreal, where they will sail for Amsterdam to compete in exhibition lacrosse matches at the Olympic games.

Headed by Gordon Spring, manager, eighteen players were in the party, fourteen of whom will make the trip across the Atlantic. It was decided to carry four extra men as far as Montreal in order to permit of changes in the line-up when the team plays at Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal.

If finances permit the four extra men will go to Amsterdam.

HORSE RACING

Lincoln Fields, Chicago, July 11.—The impelling warmth and glow of Summery weather, a fast track and larger fields, all more suitable to the quality speeders, made for thrilling sport at Lincoln Fields yesterday. From eight to a dozen stylish performers faced the starter in each event throughout the afternoon's programme.

Illegitimate, an English imported five-year-old, dispayed impressive speed in the Aurora Handicap, finishing in a canter two lengths ahead of Nora D.

Sandy Lady was cherry ripe and showed her heels to a spirited bunch in the second, at the odd seven-furlong distance. Vachell, the favorite, did not have a chance with the shunting he got as the gate snapped.

Music Shop took the mile and three-sixteenth event, showing more stamina over the long route than the favorite, Prince Til Til, who was outgamed by Xtra by a nose. Xtra was three or four lengths back of the leader.

Results follow:

First race—Seven furlongs: 1, Senator Seth, $7.10, $4.40, $3.50; 2, Spanish Princess, $10.50, $6.30; 3, Hold Fast, $9.30. Time, 1.26 3-5.

Second race—Seven furlongs: 1, Sandy Lady, $21.40, $8.30, $5; 2, Charm, $5.10, $4.20; 3, Twenty-one-sixty, $5.60. Time, 1.26 1-5.

Third race—One mile: 1, On Up, $11.40, $7.10, $4; 2, Ohio, $3.70, $3.10; 3, Shasta Belle, $5.20. Time, 1.40 2-5.

Fourth race—One mile and one-sixteenth: 1, Dr. Rankin, $18, $7.70, $4.30; 2, Cuddle, $8.10, $4.40; 3, Dr. Fred, $3.20. Time, 1.46 1-5.

Fifth race—Six furlongs: 1, Illegitimate, $8.10, $4.50, $3.30; 2, Vellas, $5, $3.40; 3, Hot Time, $3.30. Time, 1.12 3-5.

Sixth race—Five and one-half furlongs: 1, Double Heart, $6.20, $3.40, $2.20; 2, Nora D., $9.40, $3.30; 3, Silverdale, $2.30. Time, 1.06 4-5.

Seventh race—One mile and three-sixteenths: 1, Music Shop, $23.80, $8.10, $4.30; 2, Prince Til Til, $3.50, $2.90; 3, Xtra, $3. Time, 2.00.

U.S. Sculler Thinks He Will Beat Joe Wright

Philadelphia, July 11.—"Ken" Myers, Philadelphia and Reading locomotive fireman, who will represent the United States in the single sculls event at the Olympic games at Amsterdam, said he was going abroad with no superstitions.

"Ken," who is a member of the Bachelors' Barge Club of this city, said he was trusting to his condition and experience to carry him to victory over Joe Wright Jr. of Toronto, who won the Diamond Sculls at Henley last week.

"It has always been my ambition to beat him," said Myers. "I only met him once and he beat me. That was at Wyandotte. I think I will beat him in the Olympics."

TIMES SOFTBALL TEAMS PLAY IN GREAT GAME

Single Men Score 15-10 Win Over Benedicts After Near Riot

The married men of The Times staff played a game of softball against the single men last night.

Four attempts were made on the life of Umpire Les. Colton, there were two near-riots, and an enjoyabye time was had by all. That is to say by all with the exception of "Chummy" Wyatt, the official scorekeeper who was so busy writing down the runs, errors and walks, he had no time to enjoy it.

COUNT DISPUTED

The married men are still disputing the result of the encounter. They claim if the umpire had given a few more calls in their favor they would have been able to get the decision. Mr. Wyatt, however, declares the "singles" were the winners, and his word is final. The score has been settled at 15-19.

The pitching of Sid Jenkins for the losers was a feature of the game. Sid issued only fifteen bases on balls and was touched for only twenty hits. His teammates gave him airtight support in the field—at least they claimed it had no holes in it. "Lanky" Nute at shortstop covered himself with glory on several occasions with his deadly peg to first base. Out in the field Reg. Stofer, Baines and Jealouse were kept hopping, and only missed a few easy flies.

HOME SOMETIMES

It was the same way with the opposing side. J. McAllister had the married men on his hip all the way and only a few got to first base now and then. The fast base running of the benedicts proved a match for their opponents, however, and the runners sometimes got home, which all goes to prove that married life is not always what it seems.

Tunney Punishes Sparring Partners

Speculator, N.Y., July 11.—Gene Tunney impressed the experts with a fast six-round sparring drill yesterday against Harold Maye and Billy Vidabeck.

With the hot spell broken and a lively breeze making things comfortable around the champion's camp, Tunney subjected his sparring partners to a bit more punishment than is the usual rule in his training set-tos.

Tunney seemed to be drawing close to his best form and should enter the ring at the Yankee Stadium July 26 in his heavyweight titular defence against Tom Heeney in superb condition. He weighed 192 pounds after his workout yesterday morning.

U.S. Olympic Teams Departs For Amsterdam

New York, May 11.—The United States Olympic team, 268 strong, sailed for Amsterdam to-day aboard the steamer President Roosevelt. Track and field stars, fencers, swimmers, cyclists, oarsmen, gymnasts and entrants in other branches of Olympic sport were aboard the vessel when she left New York at 11 a.m.

Chief interest concerns the track and field squad. In the sprints, Wickoff, McAllisten, Scholz, Paddock and company must watch out for the stars of Germany and Great Britain. In the middle distance and long distance runs Finland's iron men are most to be feared, although in the 800 and 1,500 metres, Lloyd Hahn and other United States competitors will need to watch Douglas Lowe of England, Dr. Otto Peltzer of Germany and Edwin Wide of Sweden.

England, Sweden and South Africa will be strong in the hurdles, and Finland, Germany and Sweden in the field events.

CLUBMEN IN NEED OF WIN

in Commercial League Ball Tillicums Oppose Westholmes Game To-night

Westholmes and Tillicums will provide the opposition in to-night's Commercial League ball to be played at the Royal Athletic Park, commencing at 6.15 o'clock.

Lloyd Cann, the clubmen's star hurler, will take the mound for them while Pollard will be the hotelmen's choice.

The Tillicums are in last position in the league standing, and need a win to improve their position. In order to remain at the top of the league, tied with Sidney, the Westholmes must come out on the right end of the score.

REDS NOW IN SECOND POSITION

Halt Brooklyn 12-4 While Giants Are Dropping Game to St. Louis 5-1

Four Homers Beat New York; Washington Moves Up By Winning Two Games

The West with its many pitfalls for the unwary has no booster in John McGraw, the pilot of the New York Giants.

After losing three straight to Pittsburgh, the Giants moved into the even more dangerous territory of St. Louis yesterday and encountered a storm of home runs that gave the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals an easy 5 to 1 victory in the first game of the series.

The defeat sent the Giants into third place, Cincinnati moving up into the runner-up position by its 12 to 4 defeat of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Reds, making a gallant comeback after a slump that sank them into the second division for a time, now, are 4½ games back of the Cardinals with the Giants another full game to the rear.

HITS TWO HOMERS

Genewich pitched good ball for McGraw until the sixth inning. Andy High's homer in the fourth being the only St. Louis score. The Giants tied it up in their half of the sixth and then the storm broke. High started off things with his second homer of the game. A walk to Jim Bottomley and homers by Hafey and Harper ended the four-run rally. Clarence Mitchell, aged southpaw, exerted his visual spell over the Giants, giving them only five hits.

The Reds pounded three Dodger hurlers for fifteen hits in their seventh straight victory at Cincinnati. Pete Donahue held the Dodger sluggers until the late innings, when the Reds had piled up a long lead.

SINGLE WINS GAME

George Kelly made four hits of five times up. Hartnett's single with the bases filled in the ninth, gave the Chicago Cubs a 7 to 6 decision over the Boston Braves in a wild battle at Wrigley Field. Hornsby's sixteenth homer of the season had given the Braves a tie in the first half of the last inning. Greenfield had put the Cubs far out in front in the fifth, when he walked five men. This, together with a triple, double and single, accounted for six runs.

The Waner boys drove in the tying and winning runs in the Pittsburgh Pirates' 6 to 5 victory over the Phillies. The Pirates took a one-run lead in their half of the ninth, but singles by "little and big poison" enabled the Pirates to register their fourth straight victory, the second time this year they have put together a streak of that length.

The Washington Senators moved up to a tie for fourth place in the American League by defeating the Cleveland Indians in both games of a double header 9 to 5, and 9 to 0.

The second game was something of a freak, the Indians got no fewer than 14 hits off Gaston, yet could not score. Lou Blue and Frank O'Rourke led the St. Louis Browns to a 4 to 2 triumph over the Boston Red Sox in the opening game of the series. O'Rourke drove in three runs and scored the fourth on a double steal. Blue got three hits on a triple and scored two runs.

Pigeon Racing

The Victoria and District Racing Pigeon Club held a very successful and enjoyable meeting on Monday night, and it was decided to carry on the schedule for young birds as previously arranged.

A race in the form of a sweep will take place on Saturday from Bremerton, a distance of seventy miles.

The following four races are to be flown for the young bird average:

Tacoma, July 22, ninety miles; Chehalius, July 29, 124 miles; Castle Rock, August 5, 145 miles and Vancouver, Wash, Aug. 12, 196 miles.

Anyone wishing for further information apply to Secretary W. R. Tait, Belmont Avenue.

OAKLANDS BOYS CLUB

Young bird schedule—Ladysmith, July 28, fifty-nine miles; Nanaimo, August 4, seventy-two miles; Nanaimo, August 11, seventy-two miles; Parksville, August 18, ninety-six miles and Courtenay, August 25, 140 miles.

J. Grimston has donated a special prize for the average.

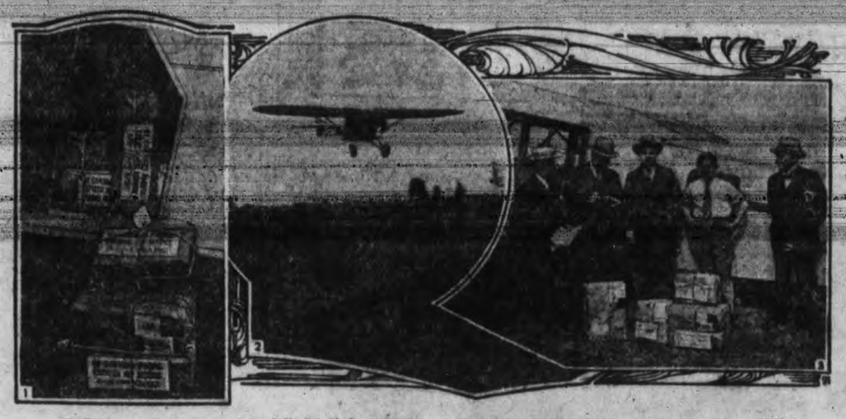
U.S. Yacht Is Picked to Win

Sandham, Sweden, July 11—Salema, Sherman Hoyt's American boat, by taking yesterday's event in the series of races for six-metre yachts for the Scandinavian Gold Cup, won the right to meet the Norwegian boat, Figaro, to-day.

If the Salema wins to-day's test she will take the cup. If the Norwegian craft wins, the trophy will be decided by a special race between the Salema and Figaro Thursday.

The Salema is favored to win. She has been cleverly handled by Hoyt and won two of the first three races, finishing third in the other. She won yesterday by twenty-five yards.

LONDON TO LONDON BY AIR



(1) Packages of air express, especially labelled, at the door of the cargo compartment in the express airplane.
(2) (Inset) The single-motor Fairchild cabin-monoplane landing at the St. Hubert air-field, outside Montreal, after the flight from Rimouski.
(3) Canadian Pacific Express and customs officials at St. Hubert superintend the transfer from plane to plane.

Less than seven days after leaving the shipper in London, England, four packages of merchandise totalling forty two pounds in weight were recently delivered to the consignee in London, Ontario. This achievement was effected by the Canadian Pacific Express in the regular air express service maintained in connection with the trans-Atlantic liners entering and leaving the St. Lawrence.

In the forenoon on Saturday the packages left London and were placed aboard the "Empress of Australia" sailing from Southampton at noon. The following Friday they were trans-shipped from the vessel to a plane at Rimouski and speeded towards Montreal. Less than three hours afterwards at the St. Hubert airfield outside of Montreal the express was transferred to another machine and carried on to Toronto. Arriving here in the evening, seven hours after leaving Rimouski the packages were picked up by another airplane at the Leaside field and taken to London.

The Canadian Pacific are pioneers in air express in Canada, having service under a special tariff in connection with incoming and outgoing trans-Atlantic liners in the St. Lawrence River.

Not only is express to and from Europe greatly expedited by this arrangement, but domestic express shipments make constant use of the bi-weekly service between Ottawa and Montreal, Toronto and Montreal, and down the St. Lawrence to Rimouski, that thus serves two purposes. Express moving east or west between these points may be greatly speeded in delivery in this manner, and put considerably ahead of ordinary express matter unaided by this auxiliary. Merchants have made use of the Canadian Pacific Express Air Service to ship articles of every description, from flowers to motion picture film.

There are scientific reasons for every angle, rib and groove of the Firestone Balloon Tread. Safety notches and non-skid studs; mileage ribs for long wear; grooves and channels for uniform flexing, insuring true low-pressure riding comfort.

To provide extra strength and endurance to withstand the terrific flexing of this tread Firestone dips the cords of the carcass in a rubber solution, insulating every fibre which reduces internal friction and gives thousands of extra miles.

Ask your local Firestone Dealer. He saves you money and serves you better.

YORATH WINS AT KELOWNA

Star Tennis Player From Brentwood College Springs Upsets in Interior Play

Kelowna, July 11.—Defeat of "Chuck" McLean, young Jericho player, by Eric Yorath of Brentwood, 6-2, 9-7, featured the second day's play in the interior tennis championships at Kelowna Tuesday. With this exception, favorites advanced in practically every event.

The junior singles was brought down to the semi-finals with Leslie Porter of Jericho, Lloyd Nordstrom of Seattle, and the Hanbury brothers of Brentwood being scheduled to-day to do battle for the right to enter the final.

Porter meets R. M. Hanbury and Nordstrom, the other Brentwood brother.

Eric Yorath, who beat "Chuck" McLean, was eliminated by his schoolmate, Rocke Robertson 7-5, 6-3. In the junior singles Yorath bowed to Lloyd Nordstrom, the scores being 6-0, 6-4.

R. M. Hanbury advanced through a walkover, while his brother won from Ronald Appleton, also of Brentwood, 6-4, 6-4.

Nordstrom moved ahead in the men's singles and in the mixed doubles as well. Playing in the latter event, he and Miss Miller of Victoria, dropped a set to Miss Pease and Laxton, of Kelowna.

Yesterday's results follow:

B. A. Hanbury, Brentwood, beat C. Adiz, Penticton, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6.

E. Edgell, Victoria, beat Pooley, Kelowna, 6-4, 6-3.

Cassels, Victoria, beat Bredin, Kelowna, 6-3, 10-8.

Lloyd Nordstrom, Seattle, beat Jack Edgell, Victoria, 6-0, 6-1.

Rocke Robertson, Brentwood, beat Yorath, Brentwood, 7-5, 6-3.

W. Metcalf, Kelowna, beat R. M. Hanbury, Brentwood, 6-2, 6-3.

Eric Yorath, Brentwood, beat "Chuck" McLean, Vancouver, 6-2, 9-7.

Ladies' singles, second round:

Miss Elsie Porter, Vancouver, beat Miss Mona Miller, Victoria, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.

Mixed doubles:

Miss Lewis and Cameron, Vancouver, beat Miss Ryall and Bredin, Nanaimo, and Kelowna, 8-6, 6-1.

Miss Jackson and R. Edgell, Kelowna and Victoria, beat Miss Griffiths and O. Atkins, Kelowna and Vancouver, 6-4, 7-5.

Mrs. Gardiner and H. McLean, Kelowna and Vancouver, beat Miss Hambley and J. Edgell, Kelowna and Victoria, 6-3, 6-3.

Miss M. Miller and Lloyd Nordstrom, Victoria and Seattle, beat Miss Pease and Laxon, Kelowna, 4-6, 6-0, 6-3.

TENNIS TALKS

By GEORGE M. LOTT, JR.

Two good singles players do not necessarily make a good doubles team. The reason is that teamwork and court position have a great deal to do with the success of a doubles team.

Many times I have seen two fine singles players go down to defeat before two rather mediocre singles men due to the good teamwork and strategy of the latter. The Kinsey brothers, United States doubles champions in 1924, won their title because they worked together and knew every minute just what the other would do with each shot.

The most important thing in doubles is to keep the ball in play. Give the other man a chance to miss. Do not try to score winners off every shot. The Kinsey brothers always sent everything back and their opponents upon finding their best shots coming back would soon err.

The best position to be in is at the net. It is easy to see that it is very hard to pass two men who are camped at the net. In order to get the ball past two netmen the ball must be hit very hard, and the fact that your opponents are forced to hit hard increases their number of errors as they find themselves pressing their shots. When at the net use volleys down the middle of the court, unless a setup presents itself.

If you are forced into the backcourt the best way to meet a net attack is with shots right down the centre at your opponents' feet, the idea being to make them volley up so that you will get a short shot to take the net away from them. Lobs also are useful in driving your opponents back.

The ideal doubles team is one that keeps the ball in play consistently yet forces matters enough to put the opposing team on the defence and at the same time is able to take the net to finish the points.

YOUHTFUL STAR

This happy young miss is Dorothy Poynton of Los Angeles whose smile comes from the fact that she is going to be the youngest plain and fancy diver entered in the Olympics this Summer. She's only twelve years old, but she has won first place in southern California and second place for the United States in the ten-foot springboard and high-diving championships.

UPLANDS GOLF

Players in the first round of the competition for the Hibben-Bone trophy at the Uplands golf will have until July 18 to complete their matches, according to an announcement made by the club secretary this morning.

SURPRISE AT BAT

There's no explaining the terrific hitting spree that Val Picinich with the Cincinnati Reds is enjoying. The ball players say he's traveling way over his head and there's reason to believe them when you look back at his records with other major league teams. But he keeps right on around the .350 mark and the Reds are profiting by his base blows.

"No Apologies, But Thanks, Needed for B.C.'s Social Laws," Says Dr. Clem Davies

Great Audience in Royal Victoria Hears Noted Preacher Speak Out in Favor of Policies and Administration of Premier MacLean; "Proud to Be a Citizen of This Province," He Declares

"Gentlemen of the Government, you do not need to utter any apologies for your social legislation; let it be said everywhere that this vigorous child of Confederation, this young and thriving Province of the Pacific will continue to point the way and blaze the trail of the most advanced, intelligent and business-like social and humane legislation of any of the Provinces of Canada."

This declaration, delivered by Dr. Clem Davies from the stage of the Royal Victoria Theatre last night brought down a storm of applause from the great audience at the Liberal campaign meeting there at which Dr. Davies was a speaker with Premier MacLean and the three other Liberal city candidates. His speech was punctuated all the way through with enthusiastic applause and at the end, when he sat down the applause was so long continued that Dr. Davies had to arise and bow.

"Because I am a child of the people and know what the struggling masses have to contend with, because I have intimate dealings with all sorts of humanity every day of my life and am not a theorist in these things, I am glad to testify from daily contact with people, how deeply they appreciate this," Dr. Davies also said.

"Gentlemen of the Government, for these things the thanks of the citizens are due to the Government. Let us look forward during this next four years to still greater strides of social and economic and more progress.

"I am proud to be a citizen of the Province whose Government was the first in this vast Dominion, to enact Old Age Pensions.

"This Government has made good roads and good roads are as necessary to the enlarging growth of a country as is the circulation of the blood to the human body.

"No money expended on good roads is a debt; but capital expenditure on the Provincial stock-in-trade, as are bridges, schools, universities and railroads."

RIGHT TO SPEAK OUT

"Some may be surprised to see me here, associated with the government which I have at times strongly criticized. It may be that you will hear me do the same thing from time to time, in regard to any government, Liberal or Conservative, which may be in the saddle over the bay. I have always reserved to myself, as an honest citizen, with a perfect right to the privilege of speaking in plain terms on any matter which I think is of vital import to my fellows:

"As I have always taken pains to explain, criticisms from the stand which I have the honor to occupy in this city have never had the taint of partisanship, but have always taken the much higher standpoint regarding the particular color that held the reins of government as of minor importance, while the general trend of their actions was, to me, the only vital factor.

MUST FACE FACTS

"The fact that I am here to-night is due to the peculiar conditions under which government is carried on in this Province, working with a legislative machinery which, as I have often said, is capable of considerable improvement.

"But we have to take facts as we find them, and rightly or wrongly, for better or for worse, the average citizen is confronted with an alternative at election time, namely, of putting into power one of two parties. Upon their statements, their decisions, their platforms, and their past conduct, he must shape his action, and, placing the two before him, must record his choice one way or the other.

"We may have very high ideals. We may believe that a roundtable insuring the use of all the best brains of the Province, would be a far better method of navigating the ship of state, than by that method which cleaves its as citizens into two camps, carrying on a sort of perpetual civil war. But let us take things, for the time being, as we find them.

NO HESITATION IN STAND

"You are to be asked on July 18 to endorse the record of the government which has just gone out of office, or, to put in their place, another government, professedly opposed, and, according to our constitution, rightly opposed, seeing that they are His Majesty's Opposition, to the things which that government has done and to the programme which it essays to carry out.

"And therefore, taking very calmly, and I hope with clear vision, a view of the accomplishments of the government which the Hon. Dr. MacLean heads, I have no hesitation in telling you where I stand.

"Despite deficiencies and allowing for mistakes, and while not retracting criticism which I have uttered in all honesty, I deliberately suggest to you, that of the two groups seeking your suffrages, I have no doubt that the one represented here to-night is the one which has the dynamic force needed for the development of this vast Province.

"This government represented here to-night, having laid down the reins of office, is prepared to resume the carrying out of schemes of development which are only in their infancy, but schemes which are feasible, practical and farsighted and above all show a general grasp of the facts and needs of the situation.

COMMENDED BY WORLD FINANCIER

"They have received the commendation of world financiers and of all those who have investigated the affairs of the government so far as it has relations with the outside investing public, who look upon these conditions with the acid test of the financier's scrutiny.

"So much for the general view of their record. We may have our ideals, our hopes, our dreams and visions. We may be horrified at things which a government has to take in hand and carry out, but which, nevertheless, is its duty. But we also have to be practical. We are living on the solid earth and while not losing one jot of our idealism, we have to realize that hard-headed men of clear thinking habits, must take the reins of office and do the very best they can with what is available in governmental machinery—with the people to the governed and with the Province to be developed.

"There may be to some the appearance of inconsistency in a man who to-day chastises without mery and to-morrow suggests to you to replace in office the same group that were the objects of that criticism.

"But while there is the apparent inconsistency, the need and the justification, and the fruit of that criticism must be evident to any thinking man; to any man who has a sense of proportion and has a mind above the paltry and the trivial.

ALL SHOULD TAKE INTEREST

"I ask you: Should it be the sole prerogative of His Majesty's Opposition to utter the only words of condemnation when a government appears capable of improvement in its methods?

"Is it to be left entirely to the elected members of the House to mould the opinions of the citizens? Or is it not rather the duty of every man, whether he be a private citizen talking to his fellows or a leader in public of his city to bring the best brains available to the help and guidance of the captain on the bridge; to help turn on the spotlight when the ship of state is approaching the shoals? Is the man who does this a friend of his community or of his party, or is he a traitor?

"Dr. MacLean uttered a high note the other day when he himself said that should the interests of the Liberal party conflict with the interests of the Province of British Columbia, so far as he was concerned the interests of British Columbia would be placed first.

"Someone has said 'The game is greater than the player.' Men will come and go and parties will form and disappear, but countless millions of the future will be reaping the fruits, or the weeds, as the case may be, which we, pioneering in this 'last best West,' are sowing for them.

"You cannot be too careful to see that every step taken in laying the foundations of this Province, destined in the future to play an important part in the affairs of this continent of North America, I repeat, we cannot be too careful in seeing that every move we make is, so far as humanly possible, one that shall be commended by our successors—the millions yet unborn.

WORK DESERVES ENDORSATION

"And so to-night I am asking you, in very definite terms, to put back into office a government which I sincerely believe, taking it on the whole, has been a credit and a benefit to the Province. It has carried out a programme so far which has undoubtedly benefited the mass of the people; a programme of humane measures directed towards the general welfare which remains to be completed.

"If you agree with me that the people who started a project ought to be the ones to finish it, then put these people back in power.

"If I honestly believed that the very excellent gentlemen grouped on the other side had a platform, the planks of which would be better for this Province and for Canada, I would not hesitate to tell you. But having very carefully, and over a long period of time, investigated the claims which have been put forward in justification of the power for which they ask you, I feel constrained to say that I can see little in their proposals which would lead me to cast my vote in their favor as against those who you see on this platform to-night and the others who have supported their past progressive policies.

"As to the details of the social and other legislation which the past government has placed on the statute books, I do not propose to go into, as that will all be placed before you by others who are making special studies of the various branches and are quite capable of telling their own story.

PARTY PRINCIPLES DIFFER

"It is quite unnecessary also to dilate on the general principles of Liberalism and Conservatism as enunciated and carried out in the Mother Country. For as I have said previously, the matters dealt with by the Mother of Parliaments are of such a worldwide and far-reaching nature, that there is no parallel to the matters which this Province has to deal with.

"The range of legislation left to the power and discretion of the Legislature over the bay are, mercifully, of a very restricted character. And while there is room for the play of two opposing principles in even that restricted area, nevertheless the mere labels of Liberal and Conservative must not assume supreme importance.

B.C.'S OPPORTUNITY

"In the future, parties will not be tolerated if their only distinction be that one is 'in' and the other is 'out'. If we in British Columbia want to keep up in the race of provinces and nations we have got to adopt vital principles which stand for growth and progress; for full and healthy development; the maximum of good conditions, morally, socially and economically and equal opportunity for all.

"Mrs. Browning has said that men who would do greatly in a universe that breaks and burns, must 'know' before the 'do.' Ignorance of means may minister to greatness, but ignorance of aims makes it impossible to be great at all.

"We are at a tide in the affairs of British Columbia to-day.

"'There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the tide,
Leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in the shallows and the miseries.
On such a full sea we are now afloat.
And we must take the current when it serves,

NO STIGMA FOR POLITICIAN

"The time has arrived when the stigma can no longer be hurled at the politician; that he is there for what 'he can get out of it.' Selfishness must be eliminated so far as it is possible. The good and welfare of the citizens must be the sole incentive and object of any man who seeks the honor which will place M.L.A. after his name.

"M.L.A. should not really mean, 'My Little Aspiration,' but 'More Large Altruism.' M.P.P. should not denote 'More Personal Pelf,' but 'More Public Profit.'

"The other day I was reading a humorous history of England in which it was stated 'Richard the Second, having secured the crown, proceeded without delay to secure the cash.' The time is here when princes, potentates and politicians will take the seats of office with due humility, regarding their charge as sacred to the present and future generations.

"Let it be a proud distinction to be entrusted by our fellows with the government of public affairs. The politics of this Province will never rise any higher than the calibre of the people of the Province. We need to cultivate more sportsmanship in political affairs and to elevate the game of politics.

MUST SERVE

"These men must be priests of the people and not puppets of party. They must go there to place on the altar of public service their best ability, coupled with a willingness to learn. We are not sending these men to Parliament because they are perfect—they are made of the same kind of stuff as we are ourselves.

"I have little respect for the individual who is afraid to come out into the open and discuss public affairs—hiding in a nook of safety from the stern onset of public political debate. Refusal to take part in a discussion and the government of public affairs is nothing other than a flagrant breach of trust.

"Lots of men say they are 'too busy' to think about and discuss public problems. A man might as well say 'I am too busy to pay that note at the bank,' or 'I am too busy to provide food for my household.' No obligation can outrank our duty to the commonwealth, for on the maintenance of good government everything that we hold dear—our lives, our homes, our property, the possibility of sound manhood and womanhood for our children, depend.

"Here if anywhere is the central obligation of social morality, and the man who shirks it must be made to feel that his defalcation exposes him to the contempt of men.

SHIRKERS IN POLITICS

"Why do we not progress with more speed in public affairs? Because the shirkers and the slackers do not enlist their brains and ability for good honest government, and in the fight for economic aggressiveness. If politics are 'dirty' it is because we, the people are 'dirty,' for nearly always, the people are but reflected in their rulers. Because clean men of ability have stood back, the devil and his angels have tried to get a mortgage on the whole business.

"Balfour used to talk about 'The dangers of democracy,' but as I see it, the greatest danger of democracy is that the best citizenship stand aloof and allow the public business to go by default. If democracy is ever to succeed it demands that you do your best to make it a success. The ballot is the sword of democracy, and the time has arrived for us to give a mandate to men who will become our cabinet ministers to no longer be content to be controlled by the domination of a few powerful individuals. Good clean men must be elected to dominate; to be absolutely untrammelled in their control of the departments of state, except by the expressed and clear wishes of the people.

"The machine we want in politics is the clear-thinking brains of an intelligent electorate, acting on the impulse of a clear conscience.

PROTECTION AND ASSURANCE FOR CITIZENS

"We have heard something in the past about "Protection and Assurance." Well, I am in favor of it, if it is the right kind. I want the interests of the city of Victoria protected so that we can be sure of the development of this Island in the opening up of the West Coast Road. I want the citizens of this Island who pay one-sixth of the taxation of this Province, to get their share of the development that their taxes warrant. I am in favor of the 'Protection and Assurance' that the late Government has given working men in industry in mitigating their hours of labor; the protection and assurance they have given the widowed mother when she faces life again after the bread-winner has been taken away.

"I favor the 'Protection and Assurance' that the Government has given to our girls and women in industry; the protection and assurance that they have given the British Columbia citizen who has come to the three score years and ten and faces the dread of penury and the embarrassment of want in the evening-time of his life. I congratulate the Government on its protection for the under-privileged and for its practical interest in the common-weal of humanity. They have not been concerned to remove the death duties from the rich; they have sought to give the workers who help to produce the wealth, decent hours of work with a minimum wage; they sought to curb the powers and selfishness of the industrial exploiter.

B.C. LEGISLATION STIMULATES PRIDE

"I am proud to be a citizen of the Province whose Government was the first in this vast Dominion to enact Old Age Pensions. And, ladies and gentlemen, I am perfectly certain that should the Government be returned to power their liberalism will further eventuate in a scheme for the protection of the people who fall sick and who have no means to meet doctor's and hospital bills. Let us have the protection and assurance of a Provincial Health Insurance Act that will keep our common people from the fear and nightmare of sickness without the financial means to combat it.

"This Government has made good roads and good roads are as necessary to the enlarging growth of a country as is the circulation of the blood to the human body. No money expended on good roads is a debt; but capital expenditure on the Provincial stock-in-trade, as are bridges, schools, universities and railroads. These are the assets of your stock-in-trade. With good roads you pioneer in economic development; with good education you are laying down the permanent-way along which the youth will trend towards success.

All this costs money. Provision for mothers' pensions, old age Pensions, care of sick folks, education of the youth, good roads, bridges—all cost money.

INVESTMENT IN HUMANITY PAYS

"I have heard the timid remark: 'But remember, someone has got to pay for all this!' Agreed. But do not forget that if we do not have these things now, we shall ultimately pay for them ten times over. Investment in a mother to help her in the high office of rearing future citizens; in sound education for our children; in happy contentment for old age; is merely expenditure on your capital account.

"Surely, somebody has got to pay for these things. Let the people who are best able to pay for them, do the paying. A man can't take all his gold with him when he dies, it might melt. We have little use to-day for the loafer who neither tells nor spins and yet lives on the labor of his fellows. We live by and on and for each other and the wealth of the rich is only safe so long as the hands that help produce it are properly cared for.

"Let us have no parasites in this great Western Province. I have learned from my youth up that one of the first principles of Liberalism is that every living man should be a worker.

NO APOLOGIES NEEDED

"Gentlemen of the Government: You do not need to utter any apologetics for your social legislation; nor listen to any quibbles as to who was really responsible for it. It was done under your aegis and thank God it has been done. Strive to justify the proud boast made by your Attorney-General that you are ahead of Ottawa in these matters. Let it be said everywhere that this vigorous child of Confederation; this young and thriving Province of the Pacific will continue to point the way and blaze the trail of the most advanced, intelligent and business-like social and humane legislation of any of the provinces of Canada.

"Because I am a child of the people and have seen and known what the struggling masses have to contend with; because I have intimate dealings with all sorts of humanity every day of my life and am not a theorist in these things, I am glad to testify from daily contact with people, how deeply they appreciate what you have tried to do for them in seeing the value of human personality and encircling the protecting arms of the State around the common people.

"Gentlemen of the Government, for these things the thanks of the citizens are due to the Government. Mistakes, some of them serious have been made. But we all make mistakes and our mistakes should be made the stepping stones to higher things. Let us look forward during this next four years to still greater strides of social economic and moral progress. Let us emblazon on our banner: 'Every man a worker'; every child an education fitted for its bent and ability; every mother in a fit environment, financial and mental, to rear healthy children; protection and assurance for our workers, male and female, in industry; care of the physical bodies of our citizens; development of the natural resources of the people for the people and not for the private profit of a few; and the building of personality in our citizens.

"Let us right the wrongs that we can see; make laws which are just and humane; let our Parliament be composed of earnest, honest, capable and god-fearing men and women.

REAL MEN NEEDED

"Remember that every vote and every act and every influence of ours is either helping forward or holding backward the progress of this Province. Oh, that every man and woman would realize that their right to vote is a gift from God; a weapon with which to hew out a path for their Provinces' advance to the heights of triumph and usefulness.

"Then will the low-grade politics of mere partisanship only be purified by the elevating firm grasp of men who take counsel together in heavenly places. Then would bitterness, strife and faction disappear and this Province and nation become one mighty brotherhood of purity and love, working onward and upward toward the dawn of that glorious era when righteousness and prosperity shall have dominion from sea to sea.

"God give us men—a time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands. Men whom the lust of office does not kill. Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; men who have opinions and a will; men who have honor; men who will not lie; men who can stand before a demagogue and damn his treacherous flatteries without winking; tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog, in public duty and in private thinking. For while the rabble with their thumb-worn creeds, their large professions and their little deeds, mingle in selfish strife: Lo, freedom weeps, wrong rules the land and waiting justice sleeps."

SOCIAL PERSONAL WOMEN'S AFFAIRS AND CLUB NEWS

BUSINESS WOMEN OF U.S. CONVENE

Over 51,000 Members in National Federation, New Orleans Meeting Told

New Orleans, July 11.—Employment of an additional field secretary to increase membership of the organization and to render more efficient service to the state associations was approved by the annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs here yesterday.

During the past year, Miss Phillips reported, 4,384 new members and ninety-two new clubs were obtained, which was a large increase over the preceding year. The total membership now is more than 51,000, and there are more than 900 clubs.

Dr. Frank Bohn of The New York Times, in an address to-night, declared the United States is largely dominated by women.

MUSICAL SUCCESSES

In the results of the London College of Music examinations, published in yesterday's Times, the following correction should be made: Passed with honors, elementary section, Phyllis R. Irish and Wilmot Cave-Browne-Cave, pupils of Mrs. Cave-Browne-Cave. Elementary section, first class, Irene MacLachlan and Richard William Cummins, pupils of Mrs. J. M. Skidmore.

WHY BE EMBARRASSED BY PERSPIRATION ODOUR

It's so easy to avoid this obnoxious social error. Simply use Lifebuoy, the superb toilet soap, for face, hands and bath.

Let Lifebuoy's creamy, antiseptic lather neutralize the one to two pints of moisture which the human body expels daily through the pores.

When you use Lifebuoy you can be sure of never giving offence from bath to bath.

EQUAL RIGHTS FOR WOMEN

Mrs. A. McGregor, Independent Conservative, Speaks at Chamber of Commerce

"It is a pity women must cry out for their equal rights, but the time has come when the political machines throughout British Columbia and Canada, must give way to the women, declared Mrs. Alice McGregor, Independent Conservative candidate, before a meeting held last night in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce.

In opening her address Mrs. McGregor stated she wanted everybody to know she strongly supported the leadership of Dr. Simon F. Tolmie. She was not being backed by the Liberals, as a great many people were asserting, Mrs. McGregor declared.

COMPULSORY VOTING

One feature strongly stressed by Mrs. McGregor was compulsory voting. In this manner all the best of the men and women in British Columbia would be forced to take an interest in politics and all the smartest citizens of the Province would be available for the Provincial Legislature.

There was too little interest taken in politics by the women of the Province. This was due entirely to the fact that the women were not represented by one of their own sex in the Provincial House, Mrs. McGregor said. The women wondered at each election why a woman was not given a place on the ticket of the party they supported, but they voted and then failed to give the matter a second thought, the speaker declared.

TO KEEP CHILDREN

Mrs. McGregor strongly protested against the manner in which British Columbia was educating her children for the benefit of the United States. After coming out of school our younger folk were forced to travel across the border in order to obtain suitable employment.

"We will have to avert this movement into the United States by developing our natural resources," Mrs. McGregor said. British Columbia has plenty of splendid agricultural land but no people to place on it to provide cultivation.

The speaker next touched on the Mothers' Pension Act as now in force in British Columbia. She would be in favor of having the present equity in property to the value of $1,500 be raised to $2,000, especially in the cases where there were a number of children. Mrs. McGregor also spoke in favor of state health insurance.

Brown Bear Loses Contest With Men

Tacoma, Wash., July 11—Mr. Bruin, who joined the "Mrs." and two cubs after the latter had held up logging operations and kept a dozen men from going into the woods at the Linberg camp, five miles south of Port Orchard last week, tried to slap Steve Vladick, chicken rancher, once too often, thereby overstepping the game law which protects bears' lives up to the point where human beings are endangered.

Vladick who runs a small ranch near the Linberg camp, was awakened at 1 o'clock in the morning by a noise among his chickens. Dressing partially, he went to investigate. It was 7.30 o'clock in the morning before he returned to the house. In the meantime he had been spending part of his time in a tree, part on the run dodging behind sheds, trees and stumps trying to get back to the house, and part of the time in a hand-to-hand conflict with the biggest brown bear in the party.

His yells attracted the attention of Dick Ballow, a logger. The loggers have been going armed since the party began, so when Ballow found the big bear slapping Vladick around, he shot the animal.

Mooseheart Legion — Women of Mooseheart Legion, Victoria Chapter No. 25, held their regular meeting in the Sons of England Hall, Monday, Senior Regent Robertson presiding. There was a large turnout of members. Legionaires Thompson and Quainton were both reported sick. A splendid report was given by the senior regent on the Northwest Moose Convention which she attended as a delegate. Another good report was given by Legionaire Hatcher on the ice cream social. It was decided to convene a corner for the tag day in aid of the Solarium. A garden party will be held at the home of Past Regent White on Wednesday, July 25, Legionaire Hatcher convener. Legionaire Shaughnessy was a visitor from the Vancouver Chapter and gave a splendid address on Mooseheart, its aims and objects. The Victoria Chapter gave her a very hearty vote of thanks.

ADULT EDUCATION SCHEME A SUCCESS

Working Women's Residential College in England Is Popular

London, Eng., July 11.—One of the most interesting developments in adult education during recent years has been the Residential College for Working Women at Hillcroft, Surbiton, Surrey. Begun in a small way as an experiment in 1920 at Beckenham, it soon outgrew its first home and moved to a beautiful new house at Surbiton in 1926, where twenty students are now in residence, with forty expected in September.

And who are these students? They are working women who left school at fourteen and have been engaged in wage earning occupations ever since, and also at the same time have continued their education at evening classes, continuation school, etc. They are not accepted at less than twenty-one years of age, and most of them are older.

They come from all sorts of occupations—domestic, industrial or commercial, mill hands, waitresses and shop assistants—but all have one thing in common—that they desire further educational opportunities. In some cases they run the risks of losing their employment by giving it up for a year to attend college; in others their employers not only keep their places open for them but pay their fees as well.

All students fully realize that the aim of the college is not to open the way to a better post, or to enable them to "better themselves" in the worldly sense, but to enlarge their vision and develop their mental and spiritual qualities.

JUVENILE A.O.F. ENJOY PICNIC

Esquimalt W.I. Plans Flower Show

Many Classes Arranged For Wednesday, Aug. 29, Fete

Plans for a flower show and sale of work to be held on Wednesday, August 29, were made last evening at the meeting of the Esquimalt Women's Institute in the Parish Hall.

Special prizes will be given for children's work, including drawing, writing, manual training for boys and sewing for girls. Prizes will also be offered for the best collection of asters, dahlias, gladioli and other varieties of flowers. A complete list of competitions will be published later.

Mrs. Appleby, convener of public health and child welfare, reported a most enjoyable social afternoon held by the Esquimalt Child Hygiene Council on June 21. She announced that the annual picnic of the council will take place at Cordova Bay on July 19. Any members of the institute wishing to attend should communicate with Mrs. Appleby, telephone 136Y2, before July 17.

Mrs. Carr reported two successful card parties given under the auspices of the ways and means committee during the month.

In response to a request from the Victoria's Women's Institute for assistance for the tag day for the Solarium on September 9, the members undertook to look after a street corner, Mrs. Booth kindly volunteering to convene.

Hostesses for the social hour were Mesdames Cresine, Adams, Saddler and Johnson.

NINE-YEAR-OLD GIRL IS GENIUS

"Already she is painting in a way that no living artist could excel . . . All her pictures are gems of great beauty," is said of a British nine-year-old.

Peggy Somerville, the nine-year-old daughter of an artist, whose pictures are being exhibited in a London gallery, is a genius. She paints everything from landscapes to figure studies with equal brilliace. She has never had a lesson. She watcher her father and brothers at work and started on her own. When she was three, clever sketches of hers were sent to the Royal Drawing Society. She is a charmingly natural little girl, with dark eyes and fair hair. One brother has exhibited at the Royal Academy since he was sixteen. Tit-Bits.

Evangelist Closes Campaign Sunday

Evangelist Dr. Webber spoke last evening at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Gospel Tabernacle, Yates Street, on the subject of "The Apostasy of To-day."

His subjects for the remaining evenings of this week at 8 o'clock, are the following: Wednesday, "The Work of Christ"; Thursday evening, "The Pot of Oil"; Friday, "Who is a Christian?"

Sunday next is the evangelist's last day in Victoria, when his morning subject is: "Ye Are My Witnesses"; afternoon, "Results of the Coming of the Lord Jesus Christ." Dr. Webber will also explain during this discourse why Christ did not come in St. Paul's time as he expected. The closing message will be on the unsearchable riches of Christ, under the subject, "Life for a Look."

These meetings are being largely attended.

Many Silk Stockings Are Sold in Mexico

Laredo, Texas, July 11.—Fifteen boxes containing 94,000 pairs of silk hose, valued at $75,000, part of a shipment of contraband silks which Gen. Jose Alvaraz, chief of the Mexican presidential staff, is alleged to have conspired to smuggle into Mexico, were sold at auction at Nuevo Laredo yesterday.

Alvarez is held in jail at Nuevo Laredo.

Girl of 200 Pounds Refused Admission, Welfare League Reports

Toronto, Ont., July 11.—"My husband has been refused admission into Canada because he is fifty years old," a woman recently told officials of the British Welcome and Welfare League. Upon investigation it was found he had been suffering from an ailment many years, and his case had been referred to Ottawa for further investigation.

The incident recalls the case of a young woman, who, it was claimed was barred from Canada because she weighed 157, when later evidence proved the girl weighed more than 200 pounds.

The Welcome League, the other day received an appeal from a girl whose friend was refused admission into Canada "because she had warts." It turned out the girl's arms were covered with warts of a contagious nature.

Some New Ideas in Salads

Like most people, I object to rules. Yet there are two which every woman wants to keep in mind in planning her meals. Serve one of the vegetables raw each day. Serve at least one generous portion of fruit each day.

Now don't picture those fruits and vegetables as unromantic, unadorned foods to be thrust upon a long-suffering family. Think of them in terms of salads—immediately one's imagination begins to function, and the most appetizing and delightful things suggest themselves.

Try these salads—cabbage and carrot salad, chicory and celery, grated carrot, cabbage and green pepper, cucumber stuffed with pimento cheese, tomato stuffed with diced celery and olives. Among the fruit salads, try apples and raisins, white cherries and dates, apricots, blue plums.

Use This Delicious Carnationnaise on Fruit Salads

The mayonnaise (Carnationnaise) recipe I give below is particularly fine with fruits and quite inexpensive, one egg and one cup of oil making three cups of dressing. It needs no mixing with cream, as the Carnation Milk is added when it is made, and it keeps perfectly.

The Carnation Milk makes a particularly delicious mayonnaise, smooth, rich and creamy. I always use it, not only for mayonnaise but for all other cooking. I use it because it is just pure, fresh, unsweetened whole milk, evaporated down to double richness and sterilized for safe keeping. It is always dependable, always available, always uniform in quality. And it is extremely economical—costs very little, saves the waste of spoiled milk, enables me to cook better with less butter and cream. Also it gives a smoothness of texture, a creaminess, no bottled milk can equal.

I want you to give Carnation Milk a real test. Let me send you free the Carnation Cook Book—"My Hundred Favorite Recipes." Address Carnation Milk Products Co., Limited, 134 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

Carnation Peach Salad

12 large halves of canned peaches, 1 cup white cherries, ½ cup hazel nuts or almonds, Carnationnaise, crisp lettuce leaves, 12 ripe olives. Remove pits from cherries, insert nuts; place 3 or 4 nuts in hollow of each peach. Put two halves on bed of lettuce; garnish with 2 ripe olives. Serve with Carnationnaise.

Carnationnaise

4 tbsp. flour, 1 tbsp. sugar, 1 tbsp. mustard, 1 tsp. salt, paprika. Mix these ingredients and add gradually ¼ cup of salad oil, ¼ cup cider vinegar and ¾ cup water. Stir until smooth. Cook over slow fire until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and beat into mixture 1 egg (which has been slightly beaten), ⅔ cup Carnation Milk and ¾ cup salad oil. Add milk and oil slowly and beat very smooth.

This makes 3 cups mayonnaise. It will keep indefinitely.

Delicious Salad Dressings

THAT'S one of the places where Carnation Milk shines. It makes the smoothest, creamiest salad dressings—with less trouble—and at a real saving. You'll find Carnation better for all cooking and in coffee.

AUDIENCE AIDS MRS. M. E. SMITH WITH HECKLERS

Disturber Silenced By Lady Elector at Esquimalt Meeting

Woman Candidate and Premier MacLean Get Rousing Ovation

Notwithstanding repeated attempts by an apparently organized gang of hecklers to break up the Liberal meeting at the Rex Theatre, Esquimalt, on Tuesday night, the gathering was one of the most inspiring ever held in the riding.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith had a remarkably effective way of dealing with the interrupters. On one occasion, after an outburst by one of the disturbers, she said that as she was driving Up-island the other day she had to wait for a trainload of empties, and it was astonishing what a lot of noise the empty cars made.

At another time, when a would-be critic objected to the Mothers' Pension Act, Mrs. Smith quickly retorted that "prejudiced people cannot give an intelligent interpretation of anything." There was another demonstration from the same source a moment later, and there was a cry of "Put him out." "Yes," said Mrs. Smith, "I have seen bigger men than him carried out."

OVATION FOR PREMIER

There was one amusing incident. One of the noisiest demonstrators tried to heckle Premier MacLean by inquiring about the interest paid on the public debt. The first Minister had previously explained that he was overdue at the big rally at the Royal Victoria Theatre, but good-naturedly waited for a moment and explained that the first money borrowed by the Liberal administration was at 7½ per cent, due to the unsatisfactory financial condition of the Province as the result of the Conservative regime, and that as the result of wise financing under Liberal rule, money had been secured recently at only 4.62. Premier MacLean was accorded an ovation as he left the hall, but the interrupter returned to the attack when Mrs. Smith began to speak, and rose two or three times and excitedly denounced the speaker. A lady thereupon left her seat in another part of the hall, went up to the disturber and spoke to him in a very decided way, at the same time pushing him back into his seat. Her remarks were not audible amid the uproar, but they were apparently very effective, for, with the lady seated beside him, the interrupter did not say another word during the rest of the meeting.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. SMITH

Premier MacLean paid a glowing tribute to Mrs. Smith. "Any words of mine in her support," he said, "would be extremely redundant, because she is not only a provincial but a national figure, and the electors of Esquimalt are extremely fortunate in having a woman of her outstanding ability and character."

Dr. MacLean said he was delighted to get good news of Mrs. Smith's campaign, and what was true in her case was true to a very great extent of the Liberal campaign throughout the whole of the Province. He had been holding meetings for the past four weeks, and had traveled pretty well through every constituency, and after an experience of twelve years in the Legislature, including three or four general elections and many by-elections, he could only say he had never seen a party so united or enthusiastic or so imbued with the idea of victory, as the Liberal Party in this campaign.

The Premier referred to the personalities indulged in by Conservative speakers, and pointed out by way of contrast that the Liberals had concluded the campaign on a very high plane indeed. Members of the Government and also Liberal candidates had been called prevaricators, or to use the shorter term, liars, and their actions were referred to in terms which were not used in polite society. The Premier said he could not see the advantage of that kind of a campaign. The members of the Government and many of the Liberal candidates had been in public life for a good many years; their homes and families were in the Province; and their records were so well known that it was impossible for the Conservatives to succeed with innuendos of that character.

NO CONSERVATIVE WOMEN

Dr. MacLean dissected carefully Dr. Tolmie's platform, and pointed out that many of the planks were the result of the Conservative leader's provincial inexperience. It was also worthy of mention, and it was also an undoubted fact, that if Dr. Tolmie should be entrusted with the task of forming a government he would not have a single Cabinet Minister who had previously had experience in that capacity. It was a striking fact, too, that the Conservatives did not have an official lady candidate, notwithstanding the larger proportion of women electors.

Dealing with the legislation enacted by the Government, Dr. MacLean referred particularly to that relating to labor. He said the only way to encourage capital was by dealing fairly with labor, and that the Government had done that, and that labor appreciated it, was evidenced by the fact that in some parts of the Province labor was supporting the Government almost unanimously. In two or three ridings labor candidates were running, not against the Government, but against the Conservatives, and two or three labor candidates were running under the banner of Liberalism.

"This riding has been too long in the Opposition column," he said in conclusion. "What you require is a Government supporter so that the constituency may develop in accordance with its advantageous natural situation."

WHITTAKER SPEAKS

Norman W. Whittaker, Liberal candidate for Saanich, who had spared a few moments from a very busy campaign night in his own constituency, dealt effectively with the question raised about the public debt. He pointed out that the net debt had been increased by only $26,000,000 under Liberal rule, and $12,000,000 of that was due to the P.G.E. legacy of the former Tory administration. The Conservatives, he said, had promised to reduce the succession duty and the income tax. Under the present law, however, he continued, an estate of under $20,000 paid no succession duty whatever, and a marired man with an income of $1,800 or less paid no income tax, and there was besides an exemption of $300 for each child, so that the Tory campaign promises had no interest whatever for the ordinary individual, but only for those who could well afford to pay their taxes.

A. T. Weight, president of the Esquimalt Liberal Association, referring to Mr. Pooley's statement that more personalities were being whispered about the riding than in any previous campaign, said Mr. Pooley was the real offender, and was not conducting a clean campaign.

"UNDERHAND, UNDERGROUND"

"Mr. Pooley," said Mr. Weight, "is campaigning in an underhand and underground manner. He has furnished to certain of his supporters typewritten sheets of questions conveying suggestions that are diabolically untrue, knowing full well that the matters referred to have been cleared up by the public accounts committee of the Legislature. Trevor Keene, at the Shawnigan Lake Liberal meeting, had a series of questions compiled and furnished by Mr. Pooley, and Mr. Keene is willing to state that fact."

Mr. Pooley, continued Mr. Weight, had insulted the womanhood of British Columbia. "Are you ladies going to stand for these insults?" he asked, and the women of the audience chorused "No."

Mr. Weight also referred to the time when the Esquimalt waterworks system was acquired by the city of Victoria, and said that when the enabling bill came before the House, the municipality of Esquimalt endeavored to secure the passage of two amendments of vital importance to the ratepayers, but Mr. Pooley violated the trust reposed in him, and withheld his support.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith aroused the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. So absorbing was the interest she created that even the objectors forgot to object. "Don't be alarmed," she said to one of them. "Here are the facts and figures, and there is enough intelligence and common sense in this audience to appreciate them. I am not afraid of the result. Make no mistake. The people of this constituency have made up their minds that Mary Ellen is going to be their next member."

"Why did you leave Vancouver?" somebody wanted to know.

"I'll tell you why," she retorted. "The Liberals of Esquimalt asked me to be their candidate, and I consented. I make no apology for that. I am a British subject and a Canadian citizen, and I have lived long enough to know whether I am capable of representing this or any other constituency. If there are any here who do not like my gospel, they can leave the hall. This is a public meeting, but it is not for public nuisances."

SOCIAL LEGISLATION

Mrs. Smith spoke of the social legislation passed by the Government, and in which she had taken a leading part. The objection had been raised that she had not introduced some of it, but a private member could not introduce a bill that called for the expenditure of public money. When the then Attorney-General introduced the Minimum Wage Bill, he called attention to this fact and said it was the lady member's legislation, and that on second reading she would pilot the measure through the House, and this she did.

Mrs. Smith dealt with the Equal Guardianship Act, under which a mother was accorded equal responsibilities with regard to her children; the Adoption of Children Act, whereby legally adopted children not only took the name but also shared in the inheritance of their foster-parents; the Mothers' Pensions Act, etc. There were a few croakers, she said, with regard to this legislation, but the majority of the electors were delighted with it. It had been urged, she continued, that $20 per month was not enough for an old age pension, and she admitted it, but she hoped to see the amount increased. In England, under Lloyd George's act, the pension was originally five shillings, but it had since been more than doubled.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S FINANCES

Mrs. Smith referred at some length to the finances of the Province. "Women," she said, "have been financiers since the world began." She quoted an editorial in the Conservative Province of Vancouver, in which it was stated that "on the whole the finances of B.C. have been capably administered by the Oliver Government. There has been a real development by the Province by virtue of the comprehensive road-building policy of the Government. If the P.G.E. is a woeful item on the wrong side of the ledger, the Oliver Government can clear itself of the primary blame."

Less than a month ago, continued Mrs. Smith, the same Conservative newspaper had stated: "B.C.'s payroll is going up, and was two and a half millions greater in 1927 than in 1926. The Province is expanding industrially, and the enlarged payroll is proof of this expansion." This prosperity, Mrs. Smith stated, was a direct result of Liberal administration.

At the last session, she went on to say, the Hon. Dr. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, brought down a budget of $4,000,000 for roads, and every Tory in the House opposed it. "There is no doubt about that," she continued. "Look up page 35186 of the reports of the proceedings of the House and there you will see it in black and white. And yet these are the same critics who tell us so glibly that they will continue the building of the West Coast road if returned to power."

Dr. Clem Davies, the last speaker, wound up the meeting in a striking speech. He said that in spite of the fact that at times he had raised his voice in condemnation of some things that he disapproved of, he would like to say that no other province in the Dominion had passed so much legislation for the common weal.

DEBT AND P.G.E. SPEECH SUBJECTS OF OPPOSITION

"What Else Can We Do But Criticize?" Asks Mr. Beatty

Mr. Twigg Revives Gauthier and Carlow Allegations

"What else can we do but criticize?" asked J. H. Beatty, one of the four Conservative candidates in Victoria, speaking before a meeting at Cranleigh House school last night. Mr. Beatty with H. D. Twigg, Reginald Hayward and Joshua Hinchliffe, the other three candidates, alleged heavy expenditures by the Government in the last twelve years, stealing of Conservative policies by the Liberals and of poor conditions in the Province.

Hugh Allan acted as chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Beatty scored the Government on its handling of the P.G.E. Railway, stating the Conservative agreement had the personal bond of three wealthy men in addition to an ironclad contract.

PROVINCIAL DEBT

Referring to the debt of the Province he quoted banking figures to show the gross debt of the Province, less the sinking fund, was $86,000,000. How did this compare with Liberal figures? he asked.

The start recently on the building of the West Coast Road, Mr. Beatty intimated, was an election dodge.

"I will look after road building while I am sitting in the Legislature and not just before an election," he said.

If Conservatives were to make a statement similar to one made at the Laurier Club dinner Monday night with reference to a new courthouse, it would be called corruption, he continued.

With regard to the P.G.E. Mr. Beatty told of negotiations which proved the matter would have to come before the Dominion Parliament before the line could be purchased. That was settled, he added.

The conditions in B.C. were oly the result of a natural increase, Mr. Beatty claimed. In comparison with other Pacific states and their prosperity we should be ashamed, he said.

"You can't show me things are really prosperous here," he said.

Dealing with the Conservative platform he said:

"Dr. Tolmie doesn't promise you anything to catch your vote. He says he will investigate the finances of the Province, the P.G.E. situation, industrial possibilities and the general welfare of the Province."

Investigation of civil servants' salaries and the removal of the succession duty were also mentioned by Mr. Beatty as parts of the Conservative platform.

CIVIL SERVICE

Mr. Twigg also referred to the civil service. He did not think they had been treated fairly, had not been given statutory increases in wages and he intimated, threats were being made if they did not vote for the Liberal government.

Mr. Twigg attacked the statement made by Hon. Ian McKenzie that the Liberal sympathies were "with the toiling many and not the chosen few." A grant of 60,000 acres of land in the Queen Charlotte Islands to the Powell River Company did not seem to be in line with this view, he declared.

Damming of the Nimpkish River and the proposed flume at Cowichan River were scored by Mr. Twigg as injurious not only to the fishing industry but the tourist industry.

GAUTHIER CHARGES

Mr. Twigg dwelt at some length with the Gauthier and Carlow allegations in the house, accusing attempted bribery of the witness, and hindrance by the government in pressing the commission. Seven days before the inquiry he (Mr. Twigg) had been made to face an entirely different charge for which he had prepared, he said.

"Attorney-General Manson and Liquor Commissioner Davidson are riding on the same horse and I submit the Attorney-General is riding in front," he added.

The cost of the commission to the people had not been incurred through Conservative expenses but through counsel fees for ministers, he said.

In closing, Mr. Twigg made a plea for the Conservative Party, urging the voters to mark their ballots straight Conservative.

"The party counts this election, not the candidates," he concluded.

DUMPING DUTY

Mr. Hayward referred to the dumping duty regulation and "demoralization" of the local market through dumping of United States produce. He attacked an article in The Times proving the Government had fought for the dumping duty, quoting House records to show that on a resolution brought by the Saanich member urging the imposition of the duty, Premier MacLean, and several ministers had voted against it.

In connection with Premier MacLean's optimistic view of the political party situation at the present time, Mr. Hayward could not agree.

"In spite of what The Times has to say on the matter, the Conservative Party was never more unified. There are bound to be disgruntled ones and capital has been made of these," he declared.

Mr. Hayward reviewed some of the work of the city representatives during the last term, saying they had among other things protested public works expenditures, asked for tax reductions and economy and made constructive suggestions.

The move to gain the return of Peace River Railway lands was started by the Conservative Party, Mr. Hayward claimed.

In closing Mr. Hayward urged the voters to cast their ballot so the "fag ends" of the house would not control it in the next legislature.

"INHUMAN" ACTS

Mr. Hinchliffe said how the Victoria Liberal candidates, men of fine, upright characters could align themselves with the Liberal policies, he could not understand.

"There is no free expression of opinion of the people of British Columbia in matters political," he declared during his address.

Lack of representation in the Legislature for a part of Vancouver owing to the delay of a by-election, administration of the Mothers' Pensions Act, refusal to amend the Coal Mines Act were among instances outlined by Mr. Hinchliffe as cruel and inhuman.

The setting of the election date in July was done because at this time of the year many farmers would be too busy to get to the polls and not favoring the Government, their votes would not be in the way, Mr. Hinchliffe averred.

In closing he referred to promises of Dr. MacLean, and he could tell of some occasions when Dr. MacLean's promises had not been kept, he said.

NEW LAWS FOR FRENCH ABROAD

Ottawa, July 11.—The Department of External Affairs has just been officially informed that recent amendments to the French laws on military service and nationality will have the effect of regulating in future conflicts of international private law as regards double nationality.

Youths who, owing to birth in a foreign country, are at the same time French and citizens of a foreign country other than European countries and countries bordering on the Mediterranean, are absolved from military service in times of peace, if they prove by the production of official documents that they have either satisfied the military law of the country of which they are citizens or that that country has no compulsory military service.

Moreover, Canadians who possess a double nationality, Canadian and French, and who have a valid reason for being relieved of their allegiance to France, may request the authorization of the French Government to retain their Canadian nationality and to renounce French nationality.

Power of Advertising Is Theme of Speaker

Detroit, July 11.—Merchants and manufacturers have only begun to "scratch the surface" in their efforts to harness the daily newspaper as an advertising force, G. Adolpe Wiedeman of The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin said in addressing newspaper advertising executives at the World Advertising Congress here yesterday.

"The daily newspaper is more powerful than school or college, because it serves as the university of the people," he said.

Moscow Bombing Cause of Deaths

Berlin, July 11.—A witness to the bomb outrage at the O.G.P.U (Soviet secret police) Bureau in Moscow last Friday night, who has arrived here, said he believed the number of victims might be greater than the two announced. He was in Lusanek Square in Moscow when he was startled by a tremendous explosion, which was followed by a shower of broken window panes. Immediately afterward a troop of soldiers rushed from the buildings, chased spectators down the side streets, and closed all outlets from the square.

Foreign newspaper correspondents were refused information and everything was done to interrupt telephone and telegraph communication.

One of the buildings is the prison for political offenders, and it is understood this was very full at the time. There were also a number of officials in the buildings. It is reported many arrests of political opponents were made immediately after the bombing.

A Moscow dispatch said:

"Tass (The Soviet news agency) announced that Michael Ivanov, a Red guard, was killed July 6 when a bomb was exploded by two alleged White guards in the Bureau of Permits of the O.G.P.U. (the Soviet secret police). Another guard was wounded.

"One of the bombers, alleged to be Georges Nikolsevitch, a former officer under General Wrangell, was killed in flight. His accomplice was arrested near Polosk."

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

CARELESSNESS IN CHILD CARE WINS NO REAL VICTORIES

Carrots-and-Spinach Mother writes:

"I am a new reader of yours and very much interested. I have two children reared according to the doctor's orders. I feed them vegetables (spinach and carrots), milk, baked potatoes and no meat but bacon. I have tried so hard and have learned recently that both children have rickets.

"I have two sisters and a brother who have always made fun of my strictness. Their children eat everything, fried potatoes, gravy, any kind of meat, whatever is put before them. They test very high. I notice that they aren't coaxed to eat, as mine have to be. They go barefooted all Summer and look as brown as Indians, and can stand twice the cold that my children can. Why is it? I am thinking of doing the other way."

ANSWER

This is the sort of experience that makes wrong seem right. Just because your relatives' healthy children thrive in spite of all kinds of dietetic indiscretions is no reason in the world that your chilrend would. In spite of the very best diet, if your children are not getting enough sunlight they could develop rickets, so that food may not be the fault in your case, but too much timidity about letting the children get out of doors in the Winter time, and letting them run about with as few clothes as possible in the Summer. No doubt they never had cod liver oil, either, which is the substitute for sunlight we use in Winter to prevent rickets.

You would make a great mistake to discard your good ideas just because something else is wrong. I suspect that you have been "food conscious." You have, perhaps, made a fetish of carefulness and allowed the children to know this. This is a mistake. Food should not be talked about before children.

The child over one year can have small helpings of the right kind of meats, and children in the second year can have lamb, chicken or fish once each day, or a substitute for them in the form of cottage cheese or eggs. You are probably turning backwards in your effort to be careful, although certain methods of preparation (frying for instance) make food more difficult to digest than if prepared in other ways, and so there is no sense in taxing the child's digestion to that extent. I shall be happy to send you my feeding leaflet if you will enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your request for it. This may set you right on the subject of what the children can eat, and you may also have the leaflet on rickets. Don't be discouraged.

Summertime will bring no qualms to the mothers who have been following Myrtle Meyer Eldred's discussions on problems of diet and general care of babies and children. If you are in doubt about the proper foods for children of any age, write Mrs. Eldred, enclosing a self-addressed and stamped envelope with your request for her diet leaflet.

Thursday's Clearance News Full of Interesting Bargains

The purpose of our July Clearance Sales is to clear out all seasonal merchandise and to reduce stocks to the minimum before stocktaking. To attain this object quickly prices are cut to the limit—great quantities of Summer merchandise have been marked down twenty-five, thirty-five, fifty per cent and, in some instances, even more than that. It's a good time to buy—it's a good time to anticipate your needs for some time to come.

DIED

ANDERSON—There passed away Monday, July 9, at the family residence, 1124 Burdett Avenue, Elijah Howe Anderson, aged eighty-seven years. The late Mr. Anderson was born in England, but came to this city sixty-six years ago. He is survived by his widow and two sons, Dudley H. and Berkley H. Anderson, at the family residence.

Funeral service will be held Thursday afternoon, July 12, at 2.30 o'clock, from the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home. Rev. Dr. W. J. Sipprell will officiate and interment will be made in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

IN MEMORIAM

ALEXANDER—In loving memory of dear Dad, Thomas Alexander, who passed away at 1159 Yates Street, July 11, 1926.

Two years ago a message came
From God, who thought it best
To take him from this weary world,
From earthly pain—to heavenly rest.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweet and tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear Dad,
That we do not think of you.

—Sadly missed by his loving son and daughter-in-law, Clifford and Viva Alexander.

AUTO SPEED RECORD PLANS

London, July 11.—Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British speed king, is planning to go 200 miles into the Syrian Desert next September and there try to break the world automobile speed record, which was set at 207½ miles an hour by Ray Keech at Dayton Beach, Florida, on April 22 last. Capt. Campbell held the former record of 207 miles an hour, a mark which he reached on February 10. The captain plans to go so far afield because no spot in Great Britain is available for the test. The Pending sands in Wales give a seven-mile stretch, but this has been held by the Royal Automobile Club as too short for the acceleration and gradual stopping required.

VANCOUVER PLANS TO REPLOT LAND

Hastings Townsite May Be Improved at Cost of About $50,000

Vancouver, July 11—A great scheme, involving an expenditure of approximately $30,000, for replotting the northeast portion of Hastings Townsite, is contemplated by the Vancouver City Council. It was before the board of works yesterday afternoon, when it was decided to take the views of the property owners on the matter.

Under the proposal as outlined, the city's share of the cost will amount to about $22,500, and that of the owners to $27,500.

The part of Hastings Townsite in question is extremely hilly, the road grades being so steep as to be postively dangerous, it is stated. For many years a project for recontouring this property has been urged, but nothing has been done in regard to it up to the present.

NEW COLOMBIA LAW

Bogota, Colombia, July 11.—The new social defence bill, which yesterday was approved by the Senate of Colombia with certain modifications, forbids the establishment of any kind of societies which, like Bolshevism and communism, spread ideas against the state, encourage attempts against constitutional organization or outrages against the Catholic religion and tend to relax discipline within the army and police, or to destroy the home.

BRITISH M.P. DIES

London, July 11—Frank Rose, Labor member of Parliament for North Aberdeen since 1918 and well known as an industrial and labor authority and statistician, died yesterday at the age of seventy-five years. Born in London, Rose was an engineer for some years before he became a trade union organizer. Since 1900 he had largely engaged in journalism and literature, having some reputation as an author and dramatist.

SILK STITCHING

When stitching with silk, fit a small piece of felt on the spindle under the spool, to keep the silk from unwinding too rapidly, tightening or breaking.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Confederation Building, Ottawa, Ontario," will be received at this office util 12 o'clock noon (daylight saving), Wednesday, September 5, 1928, for the construction of a Dominion Government Office Building, to be known as Confederation Building, Wellington Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Plans and specification can be seen and forms of tender obtained at the offices of the Chief Architect, Department of Public Works, Ottawa, Ont.; the Resident Architect, Department of Public Works, 59 Victoria Street, Toronto, Ont., and the Superintendent, Department of Public Works, 196 St. Paul St. W., Montreal, P.Q.

Blue prints can be obtained at the office of the Chief Architect, Department of Public Works, by depositing an accepted bank cheque for the sum of $100.00, payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, which will be returned if the intending bidder submit a regular bid.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with the conditions set forth therein.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, for the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned. Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or bonds of the Canadian National Railway Company will also be accepted as security, or bonds and a cheque if required to make up an odd amount.

By order,
S. E. O'BRIEN,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, July 3, 1928.

OUT OUR WAY —By WILLIAMS

OPPOSITION WEAKNESS IS GREAT FAULT

Close Check on Government Was Lacking, Says Capt. Matheson

"Had there been an Opposition worth its salt in the British Columbia Legislature during the last session, the Government would not have made mistakes," declared Capt. R. P. Matheson, Independent Conservative candidate in Victoria riding, while addressing an audience at Quadra Street School last night.

Capt. Matheson referred to legislation which had been passed by the MacLean Government and which he considered bad for the Province, industrially and financially. The B.C. Electric Railway bill and the timber royalties legislation were mistakes on the part of the Government, he declared, which might not have occurred had the Opposition been about its business.

While Capt. Matheson rapped the Liberal policies and criticized the Government on the grounds of poor management, he explained that he had broken his relations with the Conservative Party with which he had been long associated, because he thought that a man should not follow his party "with his eyes shut," as he put it.

ONLY EXPEDIENT

"It has been said that it is a bad thing for a party man to split the party vote," he said, "but if you are dissatisfied and cannot get a hearing within the party, one's only expedient is to go to the people. That is why I am an independent candidate," said Capt. Matheson.

The speaker pointed to the dangers resulting from the timber royalties legislation which allowed American timber holders to profit while the British Columbia mill men were taxed. He pointed to the B.C. Electric Railway bill and declared that the Government could not prevent the shareholders making interest on their investment, $80,000,000. If they did, British Columbia would lose her credit and frighten capital.

Most of the Province's wealth was going into the United States, said Capt. Matheson, while the people of British Columbia were working for wages. The country was, he declared, being exploited.

WATER POWER

Capt. Matheson declared that British Columbia was not properly protecting her water power. He pointed out that more and more the world was appreciating what electric power meant to industries. Great Britain was speedily electrifying her industries, he said, and in the next few years would have completed a programme of electrification calling for an expenditure of $600,000,000.

The Government of British Columbia should retain for the people of the Province those water right which were theirs, he emphasized.

Attacking the party system in British Columbia, Capt. Matheson declared that the machinations of such organizations worked to the detriment of the people and too often to the advantage of private interests.

Capt. Matheson, concluding, said that there were many Conservatives, who, if they realized the facts and appreciated the situation which had caused his break with the party, would cease to give it their support.

Convention City Choice Is Protested

Detroit, Mich., July 11—Minneapolis was chosen last night as next year's convention city of the International Advertising Association, after a bitter fight which was followed by the announcement that the action would be protested to the organization's board of governors.

CONDITION HERE CHARGED UNSOUND

Conservative Speakers Allege There Is Still Exodus to United States

Alleging that there was still a heavy exodus of Canadian sinto the United States, and that this fact showed the bad conditions in British Columbia, Capt. H. S. Thain, M.C., spoke at the Strawberry Vale Hall last night in support of R. H. Pooley, Conservative candidate in the Esquimalt riding. Robert Wootton was another speaker.

Both speakers stressed the point that the Conservative Party was not opposed to social legislation and brought forward a list of Conservative achievements dating as far back as 1905.

Capt. Thain charged Hon. J. A. Buckham, Speaker of the Sigteenth Parliament, wiht favoring the Liberal side of the House.

Mr. Wootton charged that the Liberal Government had been a party machine and promised that when Conservatives were elected that would be abolished, a "burdensome incubus" thrown aside. Mr. Wootton showed how and why taxation had increased in British Columbia.

THEFT IS CHARGED

Vancouver, July 11—Charged with the theft of moneys belonging to his employers, the Canadian Canners Ltd., John E. Paton, Forty-seventh Avenue West, was remanded by Magistrate Shaw for one week. Arrested Tuesday afternoon, the accused is alleged to have stolen money amounting to approximately $4,195 while employed as a clerk by the company. The warrant charges the defalcations extended from December, 1926, to December 31, 1927.

Tolmie Talks Of Federal Highway Across Province

Spencer's Bridge, B.C., July 11.—Declaring the Federal Government was bound by a solemn agreement ratified more than half a century ago to construct a transprovincial highway, Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Conservative leader, addressing an election meeting at Merritt last night, stated his intention, if the Conservatives should be elected to power in British Columbia to investigate the claim thoroughly, and if, as he believed, it was substantiated, he would press vigorously for the carrying out of the undertaking.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Fire Department Band will render a concert at Central Park this evening, July 11, at 7.30, sharp.

Artillery practice will be carried out from Rodd Hill by the Canadian Garrison Artillery to-morrow between the hours of 10 a.m. and midnight. The arc of fire will be William Head and Trial Island, and the range 10,000 yards.

Joseph David of Sidney, facing two charges as keeper of a disorderly house and keeping liquor for sale, was remanded in the provincial police court before Magistrate George Jay this morning until next Tuesday following request by his counsel, P. J. Sinnott.

Dr. A. F. Barton will give another of his popular health talks in the New Thought Temple this evening at 8. He will take for his subject, "Some Common Disorders and Their Treatment." The lecture will be followed by demonstrations of diagnosis of disease from observations of the eyes.

At a meeting of the Automotive Credit Exchange held yesterday in room 332, Pemberton Building, it was decided to appoint J. Ringshaw, a well-known business man for many years in this city, as manager. He alone was authorized to collect moneys for the members and membership.

Members of the Victoria City Cadet Corps to the number of 250 will assemble in the grounds of the Central School to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock to leave for Rodd Hill, Esquimalt, where they will go into camp for the next week. The camp will be under the command of Captain T. R. Wheadon and Captain J. M. Cumming, district inspector of cadets.

A lantern lecture will be given on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall by Commander G. Spicer-Simpson, D.S.O., R.N. The subject of the lecture will be, "Naval Exploits in Central Africa." The lecturer will take his audience back to the Tanganyika Expedition of the Great War, and will tell a thrilling tale of endurance and triumph over difficulties in unexplored Africa.

Tenders for the supply of coal to city schools will be opened by the city school board to-night, at the regular meeting to be held in the office of the board at 8 o'clock. The requirements for the schools for the school year approximate 1,200 tons. Prices on the coal will be higher this year, it is anticipated. Other business before the board will include staff appointments in connection with the reopening of the schools in September.

The Victoria Horticultural Society will hold its annual picnic on Saturday next at the grounds of the Elk Lake Athletic Association. A full programme of sports has been arranged. Ice cream, etc., will be provided for the kiddies. After supper the society will pay a visit to the seed grounds of George A. Robinson, which at the present time are a riot of color. Arrangements for transportation must be made with the secretary, F. E. Boulter, 1465 Woodlands Road, phone 9431L. Tallyhos leave the city hall at 2 p.m.

$100 FINE IN SPEEDING CASE

Convicted on a charge of driving to the common danger on Gorge Road Monday evening, Jack Roberts of Ladysmith was fined $100 by Magistrate George Jay in the city police court this morning. In default of payment Roberts must serve two weeks imprisonment.

According to the evidence of Police Chief John Fry, Roberts was driving at the rate of fifty-five miles an hour. Roberts pleaded not guilty, stating he was proceeding at a moderate rate of speed and had been passed by other vehicles shortly previous to being apprehended. Yesterday he asked leave to call witnesses but these did not appear in court this morning and the judgment was rendered.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. George J. Dyke left this afternoon for Vancouver, called there by the sudden death of his brother, Mr. Fred W. Dyke.

REALTORS STAGE BEAUTY CONTEST

First Annual Pacific Northwest Competition as Convention Feature

One of the chief attractions of the Pacific Northwest Realtors' Convention Carnival to be staged at the Crystal Garden next Wednesday evening will be the first annual pulchritude contest for the Pacific Northwest championship.

Entries for this unique event have been promised from all of the principal cities in the Northwest, including Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Spokane, Bellingham, Vancouver, Victoria and other cities where the local realty boards have become much enthused with the competition and there is keen rivalry among the various realtor delegations to have their representatives crowned as Miss Pacific Northwest.

MISS PILKINGTON ENTERS

Entries to date include Miss Irene Pilkington, the charming sixteen-year-old beauty who won the recent local beauty competition at the Dominion Theatre, and who is entered as Miss Victoria. Bellingham will be represented by a charming seventeen-year-old brunette in the person of Miss Sullivan whom the realtors from that thriving city predict will make a strong bid for the title.

The method of judging the competition differs from that of the Galveston and Atlantic City competitions, where Miss America was chosen by theatrical experts. Miss Pacific Northwest will be selected by three local judges who will be composed of a physician, sculptor or artist, and physical culturist to be chosen by the committee in charge. The entrants will pose in bathing suits in a few simple positions on a pedestal at the end of the Crystal Garden tank, which will allow the judges to allot points for general development. Afterwards measurements will be taken and compared with charts of the perfect female form which have been compiled by the committee after weeks of study and correspondence with some of the best known physical culturists on the continent, and points awarded accordingly. The winner will then be introduced to the audience and will be crowned by President Wheeler of the Pacific Northwest Realtors Association as Miss Pacific Northwest, and prizes will also be awarded to the other contestants.

TWO REPORTS ON LONDON POLICE

London, July 11—The London police are upheld, with certain reservations, in the majority report of the commission appointed to investigate London police methods, it is stated on reliable authority. Majority and minority reports were forwarded to the House of Commons yesterday, but it is unlikely they will be made public in detail before Saturday.

The majority report, it is said, holds the police are not subject to censure for anything said or done in the interrogation of Miss Savidge, whose arrest in Hyde Park on a charge of improper conduct with Sir Leo Money started the investigation. But the report will suggest certain modifications in police procedure where statements are required from witnesses whose personal characters might be involved in the inquiries made.

The minority report, filed by H. B. Smith, Labor member for Keighley, appears to challenge that brought in by the two other members of the commission. It criticizes the police in certain aspects of the case and rejects their evidence.

MUSIC PLAN FOR GUELPH SCHOOLS

E. Johnson, Great Canadian Tenor, Offers $25,000 to Ontario City

Guelph, Ont., July 11—An offer of a contribution of $25,000 for the encouragement of public school pupils in musical studies has been made by Edward Johnson, distinguished citizen of Guelph and world renowned tenor.

Mr. Johnson to-day advised the Guelph Board of Education of his desire to assist in the development of musical talent among the pupils.

The $25,000 would be paid in five annual instalments of $5,000 each. The training proposed would include voice culture and instrumental and orchestral music.

The great tenor's plan is to establish a department of music in the schools.

VANCOUVER BUYS TRUCKS

Vancouver, July 11.—Tenders aggregating $18,331 were accepted for six motor trucks for the Vancouver City service, four light and two heavy, by the board of works yesterday afternoon.

OBITUARY

Funeral service for the late Elijah Howe Anderson, who passed away at the family residence, 1124 Burdett Avenue, Monday, will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home. Rev. Dr. W. J. Sipprell will officiate, and interment will be made in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

New Wireless-cable Plans Discussed

London, July 11.—The London Daily Mail states the proposals for an Empire cable and beam wireless merger, unofficially reported yesterday, involve the setting up of a holding company with a capital of $268,500,000, of which $117,500,000 would be in five and a half per cent cumulative preference shares, $106,000,000 in seven and a half noncumulatives shares, and $45,000,000 common.

The Eastern Telegraph Company would represent 56¼ per cent of the voting power of the company. The Indo-European system is not included in the scheme, but the Eastern Telegraph Company is financially interested in it as far as Teheran, after which the system would belong to the Indian Government.

The paper says Sir Campbell Stuart is now on his way to Canada and that his visit to the Dominion may have a relation to the Canadian Government's interest in the Pacific Cable Board and the West Indian Cables.

SEATTLE TALKS ABOUT VICTORIA

George I. Warren, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been advised that at 10.15 o'clock to-morrow morning station KFOA, Seattle, will broadcast a publicity talk about Victoria, praising this city and the Island as a tourist resort and urging tourists to visit here during the Summer months. Mr. Warren believes this will be of immediate value to Victoria through tourist trade.

CITY IS GIVEN FINE PUBLICITY

Articles in British Publication and in U.S. Newspapers Show City to Advantage

Word of valuable publicity given to this city through the channel of the Victoria Publicity Bureau has been received by that department in the form of a copy of "Golf Clubs of the Empire," a British publication featuring the list of golfing courses on British territory. In this publication are a number of pictures of links in and about Victoria, showing golfers at the tee in the sunshine on Christmas day and beautiful scenes on the Colwood course.

Another valuable publicity feature was a full-page article in the Portland Oregonian of June 24 picturing Victoria as a premier place of interest on the Georgian circuit. Another issue of the same paper, July 1, shows tourists at Nanaimo aboard Bs. Princess Elaine and still another article in the Seattle Times gives an illustrated motor-log of a party traveling by the Edmunds-Victoria ferry.

There are similar articles appearing in many papers of Canada and the United States and the benefits from such are inestimable, according to Publicity Bureau officials.

KIWANIS PICNIC AT SIDNEY FARM

Kiwanians Hosts to Y.M.C.A. Youths at Experimental Farm

The Kiwanis Club picnic is being held this afternoon at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Sidney, a large attendance of members and their families leaving the city at 2.30 o'clock.

The Kiwanians have as their guests at the picnic the "K" group of boys at the Y.M.C.A., which includes nearly thirty lads enjoying the facilities of the "Y" through the co-operation of the Kiwanis Club.

The arrangements for supper have been made by a committee of ladies, with N. Norrington as caterer and the ladies of Kiwanis providing additional cakes and dainties for the occasion.

A long programme of sports has been prepared, with attractive prizes.

Seeks Trade Preference With Ireland

Minister of Finance Leaves to Discuss Reciprocal Tariff Agreement

Ottawa, July 11.—Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance, is leaving Quebec to-day for a holiday in Ireland. While there he will look into the new tariff proposals of the Irish Free State and he is expecting to take up with President Cosgrave the matter of extending to Ireland the provision of the Canadian preferential tariff on Empire goods, subject to reciprocal treatment for Canadian goods by the Free State.

1,000 CHICAGO PEOPLE COMING

Gray Line to Handle Ten Big Touring Parties During Summer

On a schedule which, by the end of the tourist season, will bring a total of 1,000 people to Victoria, a party of 100 from Chicago will visit the city next week-end, it was announced this morning by H. B. Olson of the Gray Line.

This party is sponsored by the Art Craft House in Chicago, and sightseeing and other entertainment in Victoria is handled by the Gray Line.

Coming West they will travel over the Chicago - Milwaukee railroad, through Yellowstone Park, stopping in Seattle before coming to Victoria. In Victoria they will stay at the Empress Hotel.

Returning, the party will visit Vancouver, staying at Hotel Vancouver, and will then travel eastward over the Canadian Pacific Railway.

For ten consecutive Saturdays parties on this tour will be in the city, Mr. Olson stated. The places around Victoria which they will visit include Butchart's Garden, the Malahat Drive and other well-known tourist resorts.

Another party, consisting of sixty-five members, will be handled by the Gray Line next week, Mr. Olson said. This will be the University of Montreal annual tour to the Pacific Coast, and will arrive here on Wednesday. Gray Line busses and tallyhos will cover the city, Saanich Peninsula and the Malahat with these visitors.

CANADA RICH IN FOX FURS

Fur Breeders' Conference Discloses 1927 Best Year in Association's History

Charlottetown, P.E.I., July 11—The annual meeting of the Canadian Silver Black Fox Association opened at Summerside to-day with the president, P. G. Clark, in the chair. Reports showed that last year was the best in the history of the association. About forty thousand pups were registered, Prince Edward Island leading with 17,348, New Brunswick had 6,361, Ontario 4,302, Quebec 3,141, Nova Scotia 2,614, Alberta 1,847, aMnitoba 1,437, British Columbia 873, and Saskatchewan 793.

Sixty thousand old foxes were reinspected during the year. The present membership of the association is 4,800.

The financial statement showed a surplus of $23,000.

Total receipts, including $115,087 for registration fees, were $124,708.

The report of the co-operative marketing board revealed that seven thousand pelts were marketed last year.

Hotel Rotunda Gossip

Among the Vancouver business men who came over this morning are R. J. Kennmuir of the Union Oil Company, and John L. Noble of the Fire Underwriters.

On a holiday trip here from the South is a party consisting of Mrs. Hochheimer and Mrs. Schelline of Berkeley, Cal., and Mrs. Herschfelder of San Francisco. They are at the Empress Hotel.

Others from the South who arrived at the Empress Hotel to-day include Dr. Burt S. Stevens and Mrs. Stevens of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Thompson and Miss Martha Thompson of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Funk of Walla Walla, Mrs. A. M. Fogarty of San Francisco, who has Mrs. J. Dowd of Oxward with her; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Stewart of Seattle, Dr. W. W. Wymone and Mrs. Wymone of San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. W. McLeod of Spokane.

Mrs. W. L. Nicholson and Miss Kathryn Nicholson are here from Marsfield, Que., for a few days at the Empress Hotel.

STOCK MARKETS — FINANCIAL NEWS — GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, July 11—Wheat: With the lack of any real support and considerable liquidation and selling by commission houses the wheat market was very heavy to-day and, before the decline was checked, prices had declined from about 3 cents, getting through the daily bids, which was about the only thing that prevented a further break. There was a little export business worked over night and a little buying of July by seaboard houses on the break, but the volume in both cases was insignificant.

Opening prices were about 1½ cents lower, but the market reacted 1 cent with shorts taking profits. The upturn was only temporary and prices gradually eased off, finally making new lows on the movement. In the cash market there was a moderate demand for 2 Northern, but buyers had no trouble in filling their requirements at the car price and all spreads were abount unchanged.

Spreading business was light and was confined to a little selling of July against purchase of October. Chicago market was also very weak, and prices on the extreme break were 3⅝ cents under Tuesday's close. The weather on Winter wheat territory is mostly favorable for harvesting which is proceeding rapidly, and hedging pressure is likely to increase after domestic mills have satisfied early requirements.

Crops and weather in Western Canada are said to be nearly perfect. There were a few light scattered showers and the forecast for the whole West is for light to moderate winds, fair and warmer to-day and Thursday.

Chicago, July 11—Wheat: The government July report proved more bearish than private estimates, raising the estimate of Winter wheat especially. The total amount of bread wheats is of interest. As compared with last year there is prospect of sixty million less Spring wheat, other than durums, which are about as a year ago. To offset this, the southwest hard Winter wheat territory has about 75,000,000 bushels more. This excess of bread wheats compared with last year, is offset by deficiency of 19,000,000 rye.

The real shortage this year is in pastry wheats both in the section east of the Mississippi River and in the Northwestern Pacific Coast.

Our exportable surplus is in durums and in hard Winter wheats, tributary to the gulf.

The world level of prices looks very reasonable compared with the world supply and needs as far as known but as yet interest is inadequate.

Monday's figures of open interest after the days decline showed even smaller than at the end of June. Export sales reported total about 400,000 bushels. Russian situation is reported tense and further importations likely.

Corn: Instead of comparing the government report with the July report of last year, the trade in generally compared it with the final out turn of last year. On that basis many considered it absurd, as a matter of fact it forecasts a crop 500,000,000 bushels larger than was forecast July 1, 1927. Acreage is about 3½ per cent larger and conditions better than last year. A maintenance for the next three months of the July 1 condition would be under the governments method of figuring, probably give us a much larger total than now forecast. Private estimates which were averaged at about 250,000,000 bushels more than the government are likely to be justified before harvest if present favorable conditions continue.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

New York, July 11—Resumption of advance in making. The normal selling influence has been reflected in a slightly lower closing, but in Tuesday's market which labored all day under quite confident predictions that call money would reach 7 per cent before the close as well as equally confident predictions that the Chicago rediscount rate would be advanced (which proved correct), we were supplied with the first evidence that this period of irregularity is drawing to a close and that we shall soon be in a resumed advance, even though that advance be a highly selective one. Whether the advance starts to-day or whether it will require a day or so more of irregularity to complete the technical readjustment which was certainly needed after the advance which had been recorded since late in June is a matter of relatively small importance, the important matter being that the next decisive step will be forward and not backward.

I am quite confident that the Chicago rate will stand practically as an isolated advance, as Federal reserve authorities are reported to be coming around to the view that the amount of rediscounts can quite as logically be reduced by the banks through the medium of disposing of their own investments, particularly bonds, as through the medium of contraction in brokers' loans.

Fluctuation of the call rate between a minimum of 5 and a maximum of 7 is all that is looked for, for the next sixty days. Coming events cast their shadows before in the form of action of the General Motors in Tuesday's market. This performance of General Motors will spread to other portions of the list, and it will be this gradual spread which will bring us the resumed advance.

Comment: General Motors has given a technical performance which cannot be ignored. To-day for the third time in its history, the stock should cross 200, encounter some technical difficulty around 205, react moderately, and then start an advance for which an objective of between 225 and 235 can logically be set at this time.

American Can should closely parallel the action of General Motors encountering its first technical difficulty at the old record top, and then in augurating a move which will mean new record prices.

In the motor group the promptest following of General Motors should be witnessed in Chrysler. American Intl. will resume its move to-day, as will Intl. Combustion Engineering. Elsewhere through the list continue to favor Atlantic Refining, American Republics, Missouri Pac., Mo., Kansas Texas, Allied Chemical, Smelters and American Foreign Power.

Regina, July 12.—Crops have made fairly good growth during the past two weeks and in most places are expected to be as early or earlier than they were last year, according to telegraphic reports received by the Department of Agriculture.

There are still some reports, however, of unevenness, mostly among the later sown crops.

Most of the wheat has reached the "shot blade" stage and around twenty per cent is in head. Crops have not suffered material damage from any source.

Wall Street To-day

(By B.C. Bond Corporation's Leased Wire)

New York, July 11.—The morning edition of The Wall Street Journal says: The increase in the Chicago rediscount rate, substantial calls of loans by New York Banks and a raise in call money to seven per cent after a renewal rate of six per cent, furnished the story of to-day's market. Heavy selling took place at the opening, following which an irregular recovery ensued and for a short time it looked as if the market were trying to pass over and possibly to ignore the latest developments in the credit situation.

The recovery, however, was short-lived, irregular and not convincing. Around noon fresh selling appeared which gained headway in the afternoon and reached a climax in the last hour.

Pressure became particularly heavy against General Motors, the resistance of the stock being gradually weakened, which was accompanied by reports of liquidation of long lines recently acquired.

The disturbance in General Motors, which naturally was regarded as the market leader and the issue which gave a clue to the action of the industrials, spread through the active list, and while there probably was a substantial amount of short selling, there was undoubtedly also a considerable amount of long stock liquidation.

The market at the close was reactionary and the sole topic of discussion was the supply of money and the cost of accommodations.

Miller to Make Trip to Europe

In a few days H. W. Miller, manager of the Victoria office of the Royal Financial Corporation Limited, will be leaving on an extended trip to Europe. His main objective will be London, England, but during his stay he will be touring the continent and intends visiting Paris and Berlin to study conditions of the various markets at these financial centres.

On his way East Mr. Miller will be calling at the various offices of the company which are located at the following centres: Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary and Winnipeg.

Accompanying him will be Mrs. Miller and family of four children, and the probable date of sailing will be July 26. It will be late in the Fall before he returns.

During his absence T. H. Burns will be in charge, and all business will be transacted under his care.

SUGAR

New York, July 11.—No sales were reported in the raw sugar market to-day. Prices were nominal at 4.24 for duty paid spot.

Refined sugar was unchanged at 5.85 to 5.90 for fine granulated with a good withdrawal demand. New business was light.

OTHER BANK RATES LIKELY TO FOLLOW RISE IN CHICAGO

By H. P. Bliss

New York, July 11 (By B.C. Bond).—The Chicago rediscount rate has been raised to 5 per cent. It will be remembered that for some weeks past the question of the Chicago rate has been simmering. It is by no means to be taken for granted, we think, that the Chicago rate will be 5 per cent while rates at remaining centres stay at 4½ per cent. We also think the Chicago development will bring to the front again active discussion of possibilities of the same situation at New York, and we do not believe that the market is in a position just now to ignore these possibilities.

In our opinion the market has by no means passed out of the influence of the money situation, even though for several days' past it has been possible to advance selected stocks whose market positions and earnings outlook seem to be particularly favorable. This money situation is too fundamental to be ignored, and the Chicago rate raise may possibly be interpreted as continued reflection of a situation where if funds are to be used to expand the speculative structure, such funds will be obtainable, if not at prohibitive prices, at least at levels where a general upward movement of stock prices would seem to be effectively barred, for the present at least. We think the market is likely to be subjected to selling this morning, and under the circumstances believe it advisable not to do anything on the buying side until the effect of the Chicago announcement can be measured in stock market terms.

CONSOLIDATED MINING HEAD IN VICTORIA

No Announcement on Plans For the Big Missouri

J. J. Warren, Toronto, head of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada, arrived in Victoria to-day from the North, where he with a party of company officials and experts have been inspecting the Big Missouri and the George Copper propties.

Mr. Warren conferred with officials of the Department of Mines to-day, but there was no announcement as to the Consolidated's plans on the Big Missouri. In the meantime other officials of the Consolidated have gone to Tacoma, the headquarters of the Big Missouri organization and where the $100,000 payment will be made on July 21, if the Consolidated is to continue with the Big Missouri.

Another mining man who was active here to-day was George E. Winkler of the Silver Tip, which adjoins the Big Missouri on the Salmon River. Hot weather has rapidly driven the snow back in the north, with the result that operations have been speeded up, Mr. Winkler said. He went on to Vancouver this afternoon to continue his journey north to Stewart, B.C., on the Canadian National boat to-night.

MAN CONFESSES HE STOLE $4,190

Vancouver, July 11—Pleading guilty before Police Magistrate H. C. Shaw to a charge of stealing $4,190 from his employers, the Canadian Canners Limited, John E. Paton, accountant, was remanded till Thursday for sentence.

Paton was arrested on Tuesday by Detectives D. A. Sinclair and J. Berry on a warrant issued by the canning company. It was alleged in the sworn information that the money had been stolen at different times between December, 1926, and December, 1927.

A second charge of a similar nature laid against Paton was not proceeded with and Magistrate Shaw allowed it to be withdrawn.

Juvenile Crime Grows in Seattle

Seattle, July 11. — The increase in juvenile crime in Seattle led to-day to the creation of a new police bureau which will deal with youthful criminals. Ten detectives will specialize in the investigation of crimes committed by minors.

Stimson, his father, who owned the first gasoline propelled automobile in Seattle, and Mrs. A. E. Todd, wife of a former mayor of Victoria, B.C., who first drove an auto from San Diego to Seattle in 1910.

An international aspect was given Mr. Stimson's feat by the presence of Mayor and Mrs. Frank Edwards of Seattle and Mayor and Mrs. J. C. Pendray of Victoria, who, with Mrs. Todd accompanied the local executive and his wife on their return flight from Victoria in a Boeing flying boat and who also were honor guests at the dinner.

Regrets of Mayor Taylor of Vancouver, prevented by official business from attending, were presented by Mayor Pendray.

GIFT MADE

In behalf of the three executives, Mayor Edwards presented Mr. Stimson with a handsome burnt wood cigarette humidor, bearing an inscription commemorating his pioneering flight.

"Mr. Stimson has blazed a new trail for coast travel," said E. H. Hatch, president of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, in voicing the sentiment of the meeting. "Some day personal aeroplanes will be as common as automobiles are now. With men such as Mr. Stimson, Seattle will develop as a great aviation centre. Already it is linked with Oregon, California and British Columbia by commercial services. We will soon have an airport second to none in the United States."

Bond Market Nervous Over Firmer Money

New York, July 11.—Bond market prices reacted to firmer money rates, calling of loans and heaviness of other securities market to-day. Trading was light, but covered a wide variety of issues, most of which were pressed for sale.

Industrials were virtually neglected. Andes Copper 7s, Sinclair Consolidated Oil 6½s and a few others followed the general trend to lower levels.

Rails also were soft. St. Pauls 5s, Burlington 4s, Katy 5s, Northern Pacific 4s and others showing fractional losses. Chicago and Northwestern 4s advanced more than a point.

The foreign list was inclined to heaviness.

Building a Second Income
Under a Bond Savings Account every dollar you set aside immediately begins working, helping to build up a second income or a separate independent pay day. Yet your funds are never locked up. You may withdraw your money at any time, if need arises.
The advantages of a Bond Savings Account are many, not least of which is that small sums earn bond interest. Let us tell you about this plan of systematic saving.

MARKET CONTINUES BULLISH ACTIVITY; GOLCONDA HITS 85

Vancouver, Sept. 11. — A series of bullish factors has started the Vancouver stock market into a period of activity that is again reminiscent of the hectic days in the beginning of the year.

Big Missouri, Cork Province, Golconda, Rufus Argenta, Ruth Hope, Silver Crest and Topley were all traded heavily to-day.

While nothing official has yet become available in regard to the Consolidated's final payment on Big Missouri, the market has accepted the belief that the final deal is practically through. The officials are back from the North. J. J. Warren has gone to Victoria, and some of the others to Trail and Tacoma. The fiscal agents of Andrew Lindeberg, vendor of the Big Missouri, have no information.

Opening in Vancouver to-day at 61, unchanged from the previous close, the Big Missouri met heavy demand and ran up to a high of 63, when it then receded to 61½ on sales of 20,000 shares.

Rufus-Argenta opened at 25, but with profit-taking still under way it gradually sank to a close at 20½ on a total turnover of 53,000 shares. Officials of the company are here from Victoria conferring with the New York officials. There are conflicting rumors as to whether the deal will go through or not.

One of the outstanding movements in the market was the run on Cork Province with sales of 30,000 shares at a price ranging from an opened at 34½, a high of 35 and 34½ with the bulk of the trading at the high.

Golconda touched a high of 85 today and with closing transactions at 84, on sales of over 7,000 shares.

Ruth Hope became a heavy trader again from 58 to 60, turnover totaling approximately 7,000.

While those Slocan and Coeur d'Alene mines were strong and active, it was in the northern British Columbia issues that chief interest continued to be centred.

Silver Crest, which opened at 11, sold up to a high of 13 on a turnover of 44,000, one block of 11,000 being taken up in one transaction and three of 5,000 each.

Woodbine was up 1 to a close of 31½.

Premier, oddly enough, closed slightly weaker, a block of 1,000 shares being traded at 227, but with the balance of the sales at 228.

Pend Oreille was softer, selling 1400 with only few sales. Grandview held at from 33 to 32½ with bidding keen at 33, but with little of the stock available at that figure.

Dunwell sold at 22, Duthie at 110, George Copper at 450, Indian at from 6 to 7, Kootenay Florence at 27 even, with few sales.

Lucky Jim was steady at from 31 to 31½ and Whitewater at 245.

Home Oil ranged from 295 to 300. Pioneer Gold Mines, which was listed a few days ago and is now being traded in, turned over at .165.

JUNE SETS RECORD FOR MUTUAL LIFE

June, 1928, was the most outstanding month which the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada has experienced in its fifty-eight years' history.

The best efforts of the representatives of the company were put forth in an attempt to do honor to C. M. Bowman, chairman of the board of directors, and as a result every record was surpassed, the final total being fifty per cent in excess of the previous record for one month. Mr. Bowman is a son of the first president of the Mutual Life, and the sterling tribute paid to him is not only an indication of the esteem in which Mr. Bowman is held, but also indicates the confidence and trust which Canadians place in the company he represents, which now has assurances in force of over $400,000,000.

NASH MOTORS PAYS REGULAR DIVIDEND

New York, July 11.—Nash Motors declared the usual extra dividend of 50 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of $1, payable August 1 on stock of record July 20. For the six months ended May 31, the stock earned $1.96 a share against $3.47 for the same period in the previous fiscal year.

UNITED EMPIRE CUTS HIGH GRADE ORE IN THREE OPEN CUTS

Telegraphic report to Branson, Brown to-day from W. Dann, managing operator at the United Empire Mine, Stewart, B.C., says:

"Have struck high grade ore in three open cuts on the vein south of the high grade before uncovered. This gives 600 feet of vein proven and gives us high grade at the Bayview line.

"Work begins to-morrow tracing out No. 2 Empire vein. Work will be continued also at the north end of No. 1 vein."

NEW ARMORIES FOR VANCOUVER

Plans For Building For Artillery and B.C. Light Horse Call For $300,000 Outlay

Vancouver, July 11.—Plans for a $300,000 armories building to be erected on a ten-acre site in Kerrisdale have been sent to Ottawa for the approval of the Department of Defence. Major Richard T. Perry, architect of the building, made this announcement yesterday.

Construction on the armories will be commenced immediately the plans are approved at Ottawa, according to Major Perry.

Provision is made to accommodate four batteries of artillery, with brigade headquarters, a riding school, gun and wagon parks, equipment storage, orderly rooms for each unit and a combined officers' mess, lecture and recreation room.

The armories will be the headquarters for both the artillery and the B.C. Light Horse.

Judgment on Tax Favors Distillers

Ottawa, July 11—The claim of the Federal Government against the Dominion Distillery Products Company and the Dominion Distillers Ltd. of Montreal for $789,386 was dismissed by the Exchequer Court of Canada in a judgment handed down by Chief Justice A. K. Maclean and made public yesterday.

The claim was based upon the contention that between November 1, 1925, and January 31, 1926, those companies, or one of them, manufactured 82,829 proof gallons of specially denatured alcohol, procured its release from bond without payment of excise duty and sold it for potable purposes in Canada contrary to provisions of the Excise Act.

In addition to the two companies, four individuals were named as defendants: Leo George, Montreal; Gregory George, Montreal; James Cooper, Walkerville and W. J. Hushion, Montreal.

The judgment expresses the opinion there is nothing in fact or in law to sustain the claim against the individual defendants and dismisses the information in so far as it refers to them.

The judgment also states the plaintiff's claim in respect to the excise duty claimed on the especially denatured alcohol must fail.

SIR G. A. WILLS OF LONDON DIES

London, July 11.—Sir George Alfred Wills, president of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Great Britain and Ireland, died here to-day. He was director of the British-American Tobacco Company and once served as sheriff of Bristol.

September to Witness Higher Money Rates; Stocks to Be Bulled

New York, July 11.—Advance in the rediscount rate to five per cent here and in other Federal Reserve districts is not far off, "Broadanwall" says in The New York American. Primarily it will result from the strong-arming of the stock market into an upward price trend with the correction not completed. If the plans of the bull leaders are carried out successfully—as now appears likely—September will witness even higher call and time money rates than experienced during June.

That the comparatively small recovery of last week witnessed some passing of stocks from strong to weak hands was evidenced by the surprisingly large increase in brokers' loans of $147,800,000.

NEW ERA DEVELOPS

A "new era" has developed and it is one of tighter money, to which the stock market ultimately must be adjusted.

The more study given the treasury offering of last week the stronger becomes belief that it points to tighter money rather than lower rates in the Fall. The "joker" in the offering, whereby interest is continued on the third Liberties turned in, while 3¾ per cent is paid on the new notes at the same time, caused many big holders to make the exchange, as they get over 6½ per cent return until September 15 by so doing. This gets a further large amount of the third Liberties out of the way before maturity.

Bankers agree that foreign countries are in no position to send sufficient funds here to materially affect our money situation.

TRADERS LACK FAITH

The reserve board is disturbed by "brokers' loans" only to the extent to which they go to make up the borrowing of member banks from the system, the largest since 1920. At the same time the ratio of reserves of the system and the New York bank dropped to the lowest level in seven years. In less than two months the money powers face the necessity of meeting increasing demands for funds from both agricultural and general industry.

All manner of reports were circulated during the midyear money flurry of "banks raising money rates to get cheap stocks." Those making such charges betrayed their ignorance of banking operations. When money jumped to ten per cent there was a record amount of checks being cleared and at the same time banks were expecting the comptroller's call for condition and did not know as of what date the report would be asked. The banks had to keep in the best possible shape and at the same time prepare to meet the dividend and interest checks coming in. But the loan department cannot operate with the investment or securities department without disaster.

FROM THE MINES

By R. F. CASTLE & CO.
From Solloway, Mills & Co.

Towagamac—Shaft sinking at this property is now reaching an interesting stage. The objective of 1,125 feet will be reached about the end of this month, when it is proposed to open up a high-grade copper showing indicated by diamond drilling last year. Only one drill hole was put down into this ore, and like Noranda it may prove to be very high at this level when opened up. The Aldermac property of Towagamac would appear to have a very interesting future.

Moffatt Hall—It is reported on good authority that McIntyre and Moffatt Hall directors are meeting in Toronto to-day with a view to the former acquiring control of Moffatt Hall.

Vipond—The activity and strength in Vipond recently may be attributed to a report received from the north that a strike had been made on the 700-foot level. However, no confirmation has been forthcoming from officials yet.

Central Manitoba—The report which Mr. Miles presented to the shareholders at the annual meeting on Saturday pointed out that, as the fiscal year had been changed to terminate on April 30, the report covered a period of sixteen months. He stated this period in his opinion covered probably the most important stage in the history of the company. During this time the property had been brought from a proven prospect to a producing mine. The initial metallurgical problems were overcome during the first six months of the mill's operation. He stated they were glad to report that the month of May, which is the first month of the next fiscal year, marked the beginning of operation of the property at a profit. The recovery of bullion and concentrates for this month and an estimate of recovery for the month of June shows a total of some $90,000, which is more than sufficient to pay current expenses for these months, and leave a creditable balance in the bank. The manager's report indicated that the greater part of the year 1927 was devoted to preparing the Kitchener ore shoot for stoping. He pointed out further that a certain amount of development work had been carried on and several promising discoveries made.

Sherritt Gordon—Published reports from Montreal yesterday in commenting on the market positions of Sherritt Gordon stated that the right given in January to shareholders to subscribe for additional shares at the rate of $4 a share would expire on August 1, and that the stock might do better after that date. The information contained in the article was not in accordance with the facts, as the rights were given only to shareholders of record January 21. The stock was payable by instalments as follows: $2 at the time of subscription, which had to be on or before February 1; $100 on or before May 1, and the balance on or before August 1. As permission was given to make payments in advance, so that stock might be taken up immediately, shareholders were always in a position to take advantage of market conditions. The other class of stock, the vendor's shares, of which 3,000,000 shares are outstanding, are subject to a voting trust agreement which also expires. They were given negotiable voting trust certificates and have been able to trade in these without restriction.

AMULET

Toronto—A report received from our field man early this morning states that this company have now three drills in operation, one on the No. 1 showing and two working underground. Results from these are expected at a very early date.

GOODFISH

Toronto—The crosscut from the 600-foot level in No. 1 workings on this property is going forward at a rapid rate and early news regarding the main vein at that depth is expected. The vein is believed to lie between 150 and 200 feet north of the shaft. In the No. 2 workings the sinking of a winze from the 200 to the 500-foot level is continuing. When this is completed the scope of underground work will be considerably widened.

LAKE SHORE

Toronto—A report from Kirkland Lake states that the north vein on the 1,650-foot level is over forty feet wide and carries exceptionally high values.

COPPER ZINC MINES OF SUDBURY

Toronto—A report from the consulting engineer, Harry McMaster, states the drill hole now down 838 feet struck heavy mineralization at 446 feet and again at 532 and again between 700 and 800, all in banded formation. The report states further they are continuing the hole to 1,000 feet.

MALARTIC

Toronto—A report from Amos states that quartz vein on the 375-foot level of this company's property shows heavier mineralization at this level than on presumably the same ore body at the 125. No assays have been run as yet, but any that may be had in the short distance they have worked on this level would probably be misleading as values on the 125 are inclined to be erratic. They expect to strike same vein on the 250 within a few days.

CROP REPORTS SHOW INCREASES

Ottawa, July 11. — Canada's total area, estimated as sown to wheat for 1928, is 23,405,900 acres, against 22,460,154 acres finally reported for 1927.

This estimate reports an increase of 945,746 acres, or four per cent.

The area of Fall wheat to be harvested, according to a crop report issued yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, is estimated at 795,500 acres, against 853,238 acres in 1927, a decrease of 57,758 acres, or seven per cent.

Spring wheat occupies 22,619,400 acres, against 21,606,896 acres, an increase of 1,003,504 acres, or five per cent.

In British Columbia the conditions of all crops is generally reported to be good.

Chicago, July 11 (By Branson-Brown)—The United States Government on Winter wheat is well above expectations, schowing 24,000,000 bushels above the private returns, and Spring wheat 9,000,000 bushels above private reports.

Government figures are construed as rather bearish, especially in view of the increase in Winter wheat.

Corn figures are taken as sensationally bullish, as Government figures of 2,373,000 bushels compared with average of private returns of 2,990,000 bushels.

Oats figures are also bullish, being 88,000,000 bushels below private returns. Durum and other Spring wheat reported separately this month and has caused some confusion. Total of all Spring wheat is 257,000,000 bushels against private returns showing average of 248,000,000 bushels.

ALUMINUM PRICE WAR STARTS

New York, July 11.—A Berlin cable to-day says that a price-cutting war is now on between the Aluminum Company of America, including that of Canada, and the European Aluminum Cartel.

Cobh, Ireland, July 11—Hon. Peter Heenan, Canadian Minister of Labor, and his family, yesterday sailed for home on the liner Mount Royal.

Development of Alberta Oil Fields

DEVELOPMENTS of the past few years in Alberta Oil Areas, of which Empress Petroleums Limited holdings form a part, have removed the pursuit of oil in this field from the purely speculative stage to the surer foundation of ascertained fact. The results attained by the many producing wells establish beyond question the great potentialities of the Alberta oil fields.

Empress Petroleums Limited possesses large and diversified holdings in established oil structures of Alberta—including well-located acreage in the Turner Valley—the Milk River area—on the Devenish Structure (it is reported by those in this field that Empress Petroleums Limited acreage is the best located in the Devenish Structure, and that production should be obtained at least 200 feet less than other producing wells). In the Jumping Pound, Moose Mountain, Rickert's Structure, Highwood, Wainwright, Ribstone and Blackfoot fields. The Turner Valley holdings are adjacent to the producing property of the Home Oil Company, of Vancouver.

Ample provision has been made for an extensive development programme. Arrangements already have been completed with the Devenish-Imperial interests to drill within sixty days, the first well to production.

Empress Petroleums Limited is sponsored by men of known calibre . . . men whose achievement in the business life of Western Canada inspire confidence.

SUMMER BUYING

Despite the natural tendency for prices of stock to slump and remain at low levels during the Summer season, the market in Vancouver for the past 10 days has been very active.

This can be due to only one cause. The investing public has come to realize that the mining industry in British Columbia is being firmly established, and only by investing now can the largest profits be realized.

Progress reports from the mines are significant of the huge strides being made in British Columbia's basic industry. Present low prices of selected stocks must result in heavy profits.

A limited supply of our new maps of the mines of B.C. is available for free distribution.

THE Canada of to-day has been built by men who looked ahead.

The Fathers of Confederation, looking ahead, created a United Canada. With the passing of years their vision of a more prosperous Canada has materialized beyond their fondest hopes.

The builders of one of our railways staked their fortunes on a venture which the critics said would barely pay for axle grease. But—they looked ahead, and the Canadian Pacific is their monument.

Our industries have been created by men of foresight and courage—men who looked ahead and realized that with our rich resources rapid growth was inevitable.

The great work of these pioneers has cleared the way, and made it easier for the present generation to see into the future.

Canada is still the youth among nations—the future is all before her. The greatest construction work of the century is taking place right now. Go North! Go West! Go East! See Canada growing before your eyes!

W.N.U. SERVICE

By Hugh Pendexter

AUTHOR OF KINGS OF THE MISSOURI, BAY GRAVEL, A VIRGINIA SCOUT, ETC

COPYRIGHT BY HUGH PENDEXTER-1923-1925.

My message to the governor should tend to establish me in his good opinion, as he would promptly credit English traders with stirring up the trouble. Believing that, he must believe me to be a renegade Englishman with no love for my own people. It was a long cry from Beau Law and his ideas of finance to the fate of the Natchez, and yet it was but one of the striking demonstrations of cause and effect to be witnessed before the belief in pygmies and giants, because of gold and mountains of precious stones, was to disappear.

I stole back to my pirogue and pushed off and drooped down-stream, with no further thought of visiting the Indian village, and only anxious to be the first to carry the news to Bienville.

CHAPTER II

After leaving the hills and bluffs I experienced that feeling which always came to me when descending the river alone; that is, that the river was sentient and was pursuing me. Foolish, no doubt, but impelling enough to make me swing my head frequently in staring back over the desolate flood and its burden of drift. I never experienced any bizarre sensation in fighting my way up-stream. I sharly missed the companionship of Dannoan the Fox, a great scamp, yet prince of woodsmen. Once I would have sworn a piece of drift suddenly darted behind a mass of forest trees, as if propelled by human agency.

During my trip across Maurepas and for half the distance on Pontchartrain I might have been the last man in the world; for aside from wild fowl and the water life there was nothing to attract my attention. Then my isolation was shattered by the sight of a canoe coming toward me from the direction of Bayou St. Jean. As it drew nearer I decided its sole occupant was a voyageur from the North. He, too, was much interested in me, for he rested his paddle and shading his eyes scrutinized me closely.

I also rested and waited for him to finish his study. Suddenly he dove his paddle over the side and came toward me swiftly. I slid the muzzle of my musket over the side and called on him to halt. Abrupt approaches in the Louisiana wilderness betokened hostility, or great friendship. And this shaggy fellow was unknown to me as yet.

"That is near enough," I called in French. "Who are you?"

"Pardieu! How proud he is! The White Indian will not greet his friend!"

The merry insolence of his voice could not be disguised. With a thoroughly amiable grin, I dropped the musket between my feet and held up empty hands. He shot his lighter craft alongside and would have kissed me had I not held both his hands.

"Joe Labrador!" I exclaimed. "I thought you to be taking a wife at Montreal. Who would have thought of seeing you on Ponchartrain!"

"And you, Monsieur Brampton, the White Indian. My heart was broken when I found Yvonne had married a miserable spindling fellow, who does writing for the governor. I came here to bury my heart. Little birds tell me France is to send over many beautiful women, like virgins. And to find you here, in monsieur's back yard, as one might say!"

"I am making a short cut—"

"Diablo! But you are a brave man!"

"Brave? How so? I know the river, and the forest, and the Indians."

"Ah, but Sieur de Bienville. I, your friend, wish by all the saints that you knew him! After you went up the river the last time forty of His Excellency's soldiers deserted, running away to Carolina. And he vows he would hang you if he ever caught you, for enticing them away."

This was disturbing news. I could trust Joe Labrador, old companion in many a venture, to speak naught but the truth. Then I became angry, as a man will who is wrongfully accused. There was much Bienville could have arraigned me for; I might even have seduced his soldiers from their allegiance had it appealed to me as being feasible. So I became incensed now I was charged with something I was innocent of—doubly resentful because I had not the wit to think of it.

Labrador mistook my silence for hesitation, and earnestly said:

"You must turn back at once before any of Monsieur du Pratz's people see and recognize you. I will go with you as far as Fort Rosalie, perhaps farther. I will forget my new wife. I will go beyond Chartres. Bah! there will be women enough for all of us. Sieur de Bienville is in a temper. Now that France and Spain have had a peace smoke he is like a bear with a sore head. For years he has begged to have the seat of government changed to la Nouvelle Orleans. He has been denied. Pardieu. What will the imbeciles in France have? Bienville is to make the Lilies grow in the valley. Yes. He is to send the immigrants on their way as far as the Missouri and Yazoo. To be sure. But behold! Nothing but jailbirds, worn-out rakes and women of the street have been sent over. And even these so fast he cannot have time to send them to the plantations. Thank the good God some decent women will be coming along now! Bienville is a bad man to have against one."

During Labrador's outburst I had had time to cool off. I remembered the card I had to play, and could not believe the governor would deal harshly with me. I was innocent of decoying his soldiers away. They had not needed my urging to make them deserters. And small wonder that any were left for garrison duty, now it had become necessary for the governor to quarter them among the Indians, where they dressed—rather, undressed—and painted themselves like savages and learned ways of idleness, which unfitted them for routine work.

"Where is the governor?" I asked.

"At New Biloxi. If he has not been warned of your coming you have every chance to get away. It is your lucky star that sent you by this cut-off instead of down to la Nouvelle Orleans; for he has spoken ill of you there, and every cabin is ready to gobble you up."

"He is unjust. He wrongs me. I'll see him. No man on earth can send me running to cover when I am innocent," I declared, feeling very virtuous because I was innocent of the crime charged.

He eyed me admiringly, yet pityingly.

"You know you are English," he softly reminded me.

"Runaway English," I gruffly corrected. "There are runaway English, just as there are runaway Frenchmen. I've lived on the river for three years. It suits me. I'll stay."

"Ma foi! Yes, you'll stay!" he groaned.

"And you? You go back to Orleans?"

He hesitated, his soul struggling between friendship, fear and hopes of matrimony. One of the last two won for a time; and he muttered:

"I return to Bayou St. Jean. When the ship comes in some of the women are to be sent at once to la Nouvelle Orleans. I shall be there, waiting. I shall marry a good girl. If she turns out bad I can always go deep into the forest."

I could not blame him for avoiding my dangerous company when his presence could aid me none. He was one of the Labradors of Canada, and like the majority of the Canadian born or bred had small liking for the French born, just as the latter looked with contempt on the children of the new world.

He showed his native astuteness in avoiding the governor's displeasure by keeping clear of me for the time. I knew that when it came to a pinch he would cheerfully make any sacrifice to aid me; for there was a small matter between us, born of the dangers of the Illinois country, and an affair of my aiding him to escape the stake. And he believed he was indebted to me.

He reasoned that just now he could help me none by accompanying me to Biloxi. More than likely such an association with the White Indian—as I was called because of my forest running—would place him under suspicion. And lastly, were not new wives coming to la Nouvelle Orleans, and those on the spot would have first choice.

"My friend," he softly called as his light canoe moved on a few rods toward St. Jean shore, "if you find the path a bit rough I shall know it. The river is all ears and a great gossip. My ear is to the ground. I shall hear. If the worst comes the river path to the north shall be opened and we will follow it and find plenty of room to live our lives in the good God's country up there. You are runaway English. I will kiss my wife good-bye and be runaway French. Bon jour et bon voyage."

Bienville had vision. He knew the importance of a river port. He had fretted much because the government had ignored his preference for New Orleans. It was the one spot on the river in close proximity to the gulf that would answer for a permanent settlement. I think he would have won his point if not for a rise in the river inundating the little settlement; and Biloxi was again chosen. Like a shuttlecock the seat of government had shifted back and forth between Biloxi and Mobile.

If any one could seal the Mississippi Valley for France it would be Bienville with his bulldog determination and his commonsense. Even though working under the tremendous burden of trash for colonists and the company's frantic orders for the discovery of mines, or anything else which could be immediately realized upon as an asset, he believed he could win out if permitted to develop New Orleans and other river ports. To control the destiny of the valley from the gulf was impractical. One might as well try to govern it from Pensacola as from Mobile or Biloxi. And I was determined to complete my journey and meet this cool-headed, sagacious executive with but one card to play against his belief that I was something more than a renegade Englishman.

For the rest of the trip across the lake I saw no one except a Choctaw hunter after birds, and was opposite the mouth of the River of Pearls, when two Frenchmen in a clumsy sailing packet came along and went into the wind, and gaped at me in amazement.

"The White Indian!" one of them exclaimed, while the sail flapped impatiently against the stub of a mast.

"I was beginning to think you had lost your tongues," I replied. "I am bound for Biloxi. Can you give me a tow?"

They exchanged quick glances, and the elder of the two bowed most graciously and insisted:

"Better than that, monsieur. The pirogue will annoy you. Make it fast for a tow, then come aboard and take your pleasure decently."

The byplay of their eyes had not escaped me; nor did I doubt they had been ordered to watch for my coming. It mattered nothing, however, so long as I wished to make Biloxi. The boat would be more comfortable, and if they were secretly delighted to serve their master, I too, could rejoice at being relieved from the exertion of paddling the heavy pirogue the full distance.

So we set off, contented and gay, the two of them singing snatches of chansons which invariably reflected some amorous sentiment. Between these bits of sentiment they asked me polite questions about the upper river. It was plain that word had been passed along the river to watch for and report my presence. Joe Labrador had said the very huts at New Orleans were ready to "gobble" me up. The nearer I drew to Biloxi the more sharp set would I find this disposition to be.

"What is the latest news, my friends?" I finally managed to ask as their chattering queries slowed down.

"A wife-ship comes to Biloxi. We hurry home," said the younger man with a snicker.

"Silence, Basile," sternly rebuked the other. "Monsieur, the White Indian, we are Jules and Basile Mattor, father and son. What the boy says is true; a wife-ship comes. It is bad for man to live alone." And he fetched a deep sigh.

SIDE GLANCES—By George Clark

what for and don't speak any more baby talk," answered Mr. Longears.

"I only spoke a little baby talk," said Bunty. "And I'm going down to the brook, but I'm scared because maybe the Weasel will get me so I wish you'd come with me."

"I'll do that all right," promised Uncle Wiggily. "But the Weasel won't get you."

"Why not?" asked Bunty.

"Because," and the rabbit gentleman laughed, "he tried to play a trick on me yesterday, by getting in my bungalow hidden in a mysterious box. But I opened it and saw him. I gave him a puzzle to do, of making words out of musical note letters, and he couldn't guess the answer. So Mr. Stubtail took the Weasel to the Police Dog."

"Oh, I'm glad of that!" exclaimed Bunty. "What were the musical letter words the Weasel couldn't guess?"

"They were BEG, BAG, FADE, ACE, BED and FED," answered Uncle Wiggily. "You know the letters in the musical scale, don't you, Bunty?"

"Oh, yes," replied the little orphan rabbit. "The lines are E, G, B, D and F in the treble and the spaces are A, C, E and G."

"It's a good thing the Weasel never studied music," chuckled Mr. Longears, "else he might have guessed my puzzle."

"Speaking of music," cried a voice up in a tree, "listen to this!"

Then a Blackbird began to whistle and sing so sweetly that Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty stood there listening in delight.

"I don't know how to read music or make words from the letters," said the Blackbird, "but I can sing."

"Indeed you can," said Mr. Longears. Then he hopped on with Baby Bunty until, all of a sudden, happening to notice that they were going toward the brook, Uncle Wiggily asked:

"Where are you taking me, Bunty, my dear?"

"To make a mud pie," answered the little orphan rabbit.

"A mud pie? Oh, no!" cried Mr. Longears. "My mud pie days are over!"

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Baby Bunty, as she had heard Nurse Jane say it. "You are never to old to make mud pies! It will be good for your rheumatism. There, you sit on the bank," and she showed Uncle Wiggily a green place when they got to the brook. "I'll make the first mud pie and show you how."

So Uncle Wiggily sat down on the green grass and Bunty, finding a clam shell, began to fill it with the soft, brown, gooey mud to make a pie. Pretty soon Uncle Wiggily's head began to nod, and he was almost asleep when he heard Bunty crying:

"Help! Help! Oh, come and help me!"

"My goodness! One of the Bad Chaps must have caught her!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, suddenly jumping up. He ran to where Bunty was calling, but she wasn't caught by a Bad Chap. Bunty was just stuck in the mud. She had waded out too far to get some red mud for a new kind of pie and her paws stuck fast.

"Don't cry! I'll pull you out," said Uncle Wiggily, and he did so. But Bunty cried because she had some mud on her dress, so the rabbit gentleman, to amuse her, made a puzzle picture in the soft mud near shore. He made a picture of an old man, a knot tied in a rope and a boy.

"That puzzle, Bunty," said Mr. Longears, "is a well-known saying, or proverb. I'll help you guess it by telling you that boy is no man."

"I can see that!" laughed Bunty, "but I don't believe I can guess the proverb." However she did, and I think you can also. And if the frying pan will boil some water for the gas stove so it can have a little time off to go to the movies, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Blackbird.

Sketches by Bessey. Synopsis by Braucher.

PARRAKEETS

After the Macaws in species we come to the Parrakeets or Paroquets. The Carolina Parrakeet is a foot long with gorgeous colorings. Their sociable habits resemble those of bats, but their homes are in great hollow trees where they hang huddled together, gripping the surface with claws and beak even when asleep.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26.

Parrakeets forage boldly in regiments, filling with despair cultivators of rice and corn fields where they abound.

Gray Parrots are favorites as they are the best talkers of their family. They have single nests, but in case of attack they band together, and woe to the intruder! They have been known to drive off an eagle's attack. They often are killed in their cages by misdirected kindness, such as feeding them meats and table scraps, fatal to their digestion. Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

To-morrow's Horoscope

THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1928

Although this is not a supremely lucky day, it has certain benefic aspects, according to astrology.

While there may be a tendency toward nervousness and irritability there should be a conscious effort to preserve poise.

Travelers may be especially faultfinding and exacting while this rule prevails and they should control their tempers.

It is well to beware of entrance to a quarrel while this configuration continues. Bitter political controversies are presaged.

Domestic harmony may be difficult to maintain to-day and vacations from one's family are recommended.

The planetary government which presages high nervous tension foreshadows continued increase of divorces and church recognition of the instability of families.

The stars may incline many Americans as well as foreigners to contract marriages hitherto frowned on for social or political reasons.

A sensation marriage that will disturb a royal family is prognosticated for the Summer.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of uncertainty. They should protect themselves against financial losses.

Children born on this day probably will have lives of adventure. The subjects of this sign are peculiarly liable to accidents.

We Can Help You Write It

Telling the world!

Such is the theme of William Haines's latest opus—and incidentally it's the main title, too. As you probably already have surmised, "Telling the World" is a newspaper film, picturizing the exploits of a go-and-get-'em reporter and a huge press association in saving a girl from Chinese revolutionists.

There have been scores of newspaper stories filmed during the last few years. Very few have been good. "Telling the World" ranks high, mainly because it was written by Dale Van Every, a newspaper man who also stayed right on the ground and saw that it was filmed right. It is a comparatively easy matter for a director to make a mess out of a perfectly good newspaper story. Van Every personally saw to it that such didn't happen to his "brain child."

Perhaps one of the most important features of the production is that it brings to the screen for the first time the gorgeous Anita Page. After seeing "Telling the World" I am predicting right now that Anita is all set for a long journey on the cinema highway. Her acting is spontaneous and she is the most beautiful newcomer of the last twelve months or more.

The picture opens with Haines trying to get a job as a reporter on a metropolitan daily by telling the city editor that he knows the whereabouts of a missing banker's son who has been disinherited. He gets the job and reveals himself as the missing son. He is then given the assignment of interviewing his father on why he was kicked out of his home.

Almost immediately Haines decides that he would like to be a correspondent in Paris. When he finally gets the assignment several months later he refuses it and starts for China to find Anita Page, a dancer with whom he is in love.

When Haines finds Anita in the interior of China about to be beheaded, a remarkable bit of photography is used showing how a press association scatters news to all parts of the world within an hour's time.

Of course, Anita is saved and is married to Haines by a missionary. Those who aren't particularly interested by the newspaper interest in the film—if there are any—will enjoy it for its love interest.

Scientist Will Demonstrate His Mysterious Art

Dr. A. M. Langsner, M.L.L.C., arrived in Victoria, accompanied by Mrs. Langsner, yesterday, and are registered at the Empress Hotel. Dr. Langsner is a scientist of international repute, touring the world in the interest of Nancy School of France, and has accepted the invitation of the Royal Victoria Theatre to give the public an opportunity to witness a demonstration of telepathy magnetism, criminology and hypnotism of animals, of which newspapers have written showing accounts and critics have become enthusiastic. To-night will be the only opportunity for people of Victoria to view a presentation of this wonderul work.

MEETING ADJOURNS TO HEAR PREMIER

Seizing the opportunity to hear Premier J. D. MacLean explain the issues of the election the Liberal meeting held last night at Gordon Head adjourned en masse to the Royal Victoria Theatre. When W. F. Somers called the meeting to order F. Simpson suggested that the opportunity to hear Premier MacLean should not be overlooked. He therefore moved the meeting adjourn to the Royal Victoria Theatre.

AT THE THEATRES

"Millionaires," the Warner Bros. production at the Variety Theatre, is a story of what millions did to an immigrant Jewish tailor. The tailor is played by George Sidney. Vera Gordon appears as his wife and Louise Fazenda as his sister-in-law. Others in the cast are Helene Costello, Jane Winton, Nat Carr and Arthur Lubin. Herman Raymaker directed.

MOUNTAIN RAILWAY WAS CHARTERED FOR PRODUCING OF FILM

SOUTH AMERICAN JUNGLE DRAMA ON PALYHOUSE SCREEN

The alluring Charmaine, of "What Price Glory," and the madcap cigarette girl of "Loves of Carmen," Dolores Del Rio, is now at the Playhouse Theatre in a new role, that of Toni in "The Gateway of the Moon."

This production in which the beautiful Miss Del Rio is starred is a colorful drama of the South American jungle where white men are building a railroad at the cost of many native lives. Passion primitive and relentless is shown in strong contrast to the overpowering greed of civilization.

BARBARA WORTH PLAYS OPPOSITE REGINALD DENNY

"On Your Toes," the new Reginald Denny starring vehicle at the Capitol Theatre to-day, is the second in which Barbara Worth has been his leading woman.

Miss Worth is a girl whose bearing exudes good breeding and aristocracy. There is about her an inescapable air of romance which is one of the most valuable attributes a motion picture actress can possess.

She was born in Columbus, Ohio, and lived in Charleston, W. Va., and Texas where she cultivated an athletic prowess which has much to do with the fact that she is admitted to have the most perfect figure in Hollywood.

She is a noted equestrienne and owns a small ranch in San Fernando Valley, the location of which is kept a dark secret from all of her friends. Here she hides out and enjoys life, the only approach to her sanctuary being through her sister-in-law who writes for a Hollywood publication.

On the stage at the Capitol are the three Naths, acrobats de luxe, featuring the world's smallest and youngest acrobat; Paul Teiche, in song selections, and Eileen Kinsey, premiere danseuse, in a dainty dance offering. Harold Bechtel and the Capitol Concert Orchestra under the baton of Al. Prescott complete this week's vaudeville specialties.

RUSSIAN ARTISTE PLAYS ROLE WITH EMIL JANNINGS

"Worthy Artist of the Republic" is the title bestowed by the Moscow government upon Madame Olga Baklanova, who plays opposite Emil Jannings in the latter's new Paramount starring picture, "The Street of Sin," which shows at the Dominion Theatre this week.

The title was given her because of her brilliant stage successes with the Moscow Art Theatre and the Musical Studio. It was around her that Vladimir Nemirovitch-Dantchenko built his Musical Studio in 1920. Her lyric-dramatic interpretation of the Spanish gypsy in "Carmencita and the Soldier" brought her fame in America which was heightened by her portrayal of the nun in "The Miracle" to which portrayal she was summonded by Morris Gest.

CRIMINOLOGIST TO APPEAR TO-NIGHT AT ROYAL THEATRE

Dr. A. M. Langsner, M.L.L.C., noted psychologist and criminologist, arrived yesterday from Vancouver and will give an exhibition of telepathy, magnetism and hypnotism of animals at the Royal Victoria Theatre this evening at 8.30 o'clock. Dr. Langsner is on a tour of the globe in the interests of science, and is the author of many books on scientific subjects. His latest book, "The World Through My Eyes," now being written, is an intimate study of nations and races and will include a chapter on the Dominion of Canada.

Dr. Langsner is accompanied by Mrs. Langsner.

PLAN LARGER B.C. PRODUCTION

Liberal Leaders Look Forward to Increased Development, Says Mackenzie

Vancouver, July 11.—The Liberal administration of British Columbia, if returned to power, could sove the Pacific Great Eastern Railway problem and with the $3,000,000 thus lopped from the yearly tax bill could enlarge its programme of social legislation, institute national health insurance, extend the Mothers' Pension Act, broaden the old age pension benefits and give more assistance to the subnormal, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Provincial Treasurer, stated at an election meeting here last night.

"We are on the eve of the solution of that problem," said Mr. Mackenzie, speaking of the P.G.E. "If you support Premier MacLean you will not have to wait many years before the burden of the P.G.E. is taken from your shoulders."

LABOR LEGISLATION

The speaker reminded labor that all Canada was watching its decision in this election, because its leader, Tom Moore, had commended British Columbia as the most advanced Province in Canada in the way of legislation bene- [illegible] labor. If labor did not show appreciation of what had been done, [illegible] "politically-minded" governments [illegible] East would think it not worth [illegible] following British Columbia's example.

TO INCREASE PRODUCTION

The Government, he said, would encourage production on the land, endeavor to direct industrial development and bring about increases of payrolls, continue to encourage the mining industry and the mine workers, try to assist the sea laborers by eliminating as far as possible Oriental competition, continue to improve conditions in lumber camps, bring lighter taxation for the office workers, and lighten the cost of living.

ORIENTAL QUESTION

"We have gone farther than any other party," declared the Minister in speaking of the Oriental question.

Liberals at Ottawa had asked for restriction and they now asked for definite repatriation on a quota basis. There were Empire considerations, Mr. Mackenzie stated. The question should not be made a party issue. British Columbia, he urged, should show a united front in the matter.

CHICAGO ARREST

Chicago, July 11.—A man identified as George W. Anderson, former teller of a Chicago bank, who embezzled $97,000 of the institution's funds a year ago, was held here to-day, having been arrested yesterday with 30c in his pockets. The rest of his funds he had lost gambling, he said.

Vancouver, July 11.—A total amount approximating $97,630 for expenditures on roads, lanes, sewers and water mains was approved by the Vancouver board of works yesterday afternoon. Most of the sewer work probably will be done in the Fall, when there is expected to be more unemployment than at present. The approximate amounts are: Roads, $42,980; lanes, $1,650; sewers, $31,100; water, $21,900.
